

Damaged Jet Tanker Makes Safe Landing

Circles Over Field For 5 Hours Unable To Retract Boom

Rome, N. Y. —A huge jet tanker circled for five hours over Griffiss Air Force base unable to retract its fuel boom. It would be dangerous to land with it extended.

A sergeant ran a quick ground test on a new idea, then instructed the plane's crew.

The idea worked. The plane landed safely, and Col. Bryson R. Bailey, wing commander, says the technique probably will become routine air force procedure.

Cable Breaks
The man who produced the answer yesterday was Staff Sgt. George M. McCabe, boom-operator instructor of the 41st Air Refueling Squadron.

The crew of the KC135 tanker had struggled frantically trying to recover the boom. A cable had broken after the aircraft refueled another plane over Erie, Pa.

MCCabe tried out the idea on the base while the tanker circled the field. He took over radio contact with the aircraft and gave step-by-step instructions to Sgt. Julius H. Gerhke, crew chief, and Sgt. Bobby Flynn, boom operator.

The boom was retracted and Capt. Wendell D. Olson, the pilot, set his ship down safely. The air force was vague on the point.

Teletypes in Northeast Hit By Storm

Boston —A magnetic storm yesterday caused aurora borealis and electrical ground currents which disturbed teletype and similar communications systems in a wide area of the northeast.

The air force Cambridge research center described the storm as "extremely violent."

The magnetic storm coincided with unusual "flare" activity on the sun which virtually blacked out radio communications with Europe. RCA in New York said, however, it was able to move traffic to South America and the Pacific most of the day.

Over Wide Area
Cable communications also were disrupted in New York as communications normally sent by radio were switched to cables.

Delays of up to four hours in cable transmission were reported and Associated Press reception of news from Europe was affected. Telephone company reports said the disturbance extended southward at least to Baltimore, Md., peak ground currents induced by the storm ran as high as 150 volts, the company said.

The mysterious spots or huge flares on the sun's surface create magnetic storms in the ionosphere, the earth's upper atmosphere. These storms caused radio reception to be erratic because radiowaves from the earth are bounced back from the ionosphere.

State Senate Kills Nelson's Withholding Tax Proposal

One Democrat Joins GOP
In 21 to 12 Vote After Nearly 4 Hours Debate

BY JOHN W. WYNGAARD
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Madison—Gov. Gaylord Nelson's income tax withholding bill, key measure of the new Democratic state administration, was killed by the Republican controlled senate last night.

This action was expected, but it was one of the dramatic incidents of the 1959 legislature because of the importance that the new Democratic governor had attached to it and the emphasis with which he had campaigned for it for more than five months.

The vote was 21 to 12. An opposing vote cast by one Democrat, Davis Donnelly of Eau Claire. All Republicans voted against the measure.

The bill would have made every employer in the state a partner of the state government for tax collection purposes, and required installment payments of taxes from all self-employed persons, instead of the once a year deferred payment plan used during the half century of use of the state income tax.

The Nelson plan was closely modeled upon the federal law enacted during World War II. The end came quietly, after nearly four hours of debate in which the Democrats spoke spiritedly and the Republicans indifferently.

The outcome had been freely predicted for months, and Gov. Nelson during recent days had confessed obliquely. Turn to Page 9, Col. 1.

Nelson Criticizes Republican Action
Madison —In a curt, six-line statement Gov. Gaylord Nelson today expressed his dissatisfaction with the Republican-controlled senate's decision to kill his withholding tax plan.

"The simple fact is that it would have allowed us to finance the entire first-year program," Nelson said, "at the same time reducing 1959 state income taxes by 37 1/2 per cent for individuals and 25 per cent for corporations."

"Without the withholding tax, the first-year program will require not only renewal of the 20 per cent surtax, but a substantial increase in that tax."

Reuther, AFL-CIO vice president and head of the United Auto Workers, assailed the administration on civil rights yesterday in addressing the annual convention of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

Reuther said presidential action is needed to make effective the supreme court's decision outlawing segregation in public schools.

Summit Talks
Crisis Is Ended
Geneva —Sec. of State Christian A. Herter told Andre A. Gromyko today that if tensions among New York's here to bar future crises over Berlin and safeguard its freedom from things over which the United States is police have no control—housing, schools, and other economic and social factors.

Police Scapegoats
"Tensions, because of these conditions, build up and the police are made the scapegoats," he said.

Mayor Robert F. Wagner has ordered Kennedy to make a complete report on the trouble.

Kennedy complained that some Harlem politicians had unjustly blamed their troubles on the police. Answering the charges that he was creating a "police state," Kennedy said he was trying "to protect law-abiding people there."

"Incipient race riots, if permitted to go unchecked, spread like wildfire and result in disorder and injury to the innocent," he declared, "and they don't correct the real basis of the tension."

Jawn A. Sandifer, chairman of the legal redress committee of the local National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, charged that "the police, more than any other single factor, are responsible for the rising tensions" in Harlem.

However, Thurgood Marshall, General Counsel of the NAACP, came to Kennedy's defense.

"While I may be kicked for saying this, they are crucifying that man (Kennedy)," Marshall said. He and Kennedy paid visits last night to the two wounded policemen.

Foreign Steel Pouring Into Houston Port

Apparently Seek
American Market

Houston —Foreign steel poured into Texas through the port of Houston today as the nationwide steel strike entered its second day.

Foreign steelmakers "are throwing the book at us" in an effort to take over the market, said Walter H. Leo, sales manager of the strikebound Sheffield Steel plant at Houston.

About 21,600 tons of the metal from Belgium and Japan was unloaded from five ships at Houston yesterday. Two other ships were waiting empty berths.

Leo said foreign steel prices rose $6 to $9 per ton yesterday "and my salesmen report customers have been told the price will go up more."

Plants Closed
Asked if it appeared steel importers were trying to take over Sheffield's markets, Leo replied: "I don't think they could try any harder. They are throwing the book at us now."

The huge Sheffield plant on the Houston ship channel was shut down as 3,000 workers joined in the strike.

Two other Houston plants were picketed.

Most steelworkers said they expect a long strike. Picketing was peaceful at Sheffield, at the Armco Draining and Metal Products, Inc., plant and at the Tennessee Coal & Iron division of the United States Steel corporation. Armco has about 73 steelworkers and Tennessee 50.

Another 175 union workers at Southwest Steel Products, Inc., walked out at midnight. A union official said they are not covered by the union's general contract but had given a 24-hour notice of plans to quit work.

Southwest, like Sheffield and Armco, is a subsidiary of Armco Steel corporation.

Union Officials Making Tour of Steel Mill Towns

Meet With U. S. Mediator

By William A. Swartworth
Pittsburgh —Top officers of the United Steelworkers set off today for a tour of mill towns to fill in rank-and-file members on the 2-day-old steel strike.

There was no indication of an early break in the walkout of 500,000 steelworkers. As union and management marked time the walkout spawned growing unemployment in other areas of the nation's economy.

President David J. McDonald planned to tour Bethlehem, Pa., Trenton, N.J., Philadelphia and other eastern steel points during the week-end.

Vice President Howard R. Hague was scheduled to visit Chicago and Calumet, Ill., and Gary, Ind., while Secretary-Treasurer I. W. Abel concentrated on the Pittsburgh area. R. Conrad Cooper, industry's chief negotiator, planned a short rest before a meeting in New York with Joseph Finnegan, director of the federal mediation and conciliation service.

Growing Idleness
Industry's top negotiators will meet with Finnegan Monday morning with the union scheduled to meet with him in the afternoon.

Patches of unemployment have sprung up and will grow daily in such allied industries as rail, coal, truck, inland water shipping, iron ore mining and processing.

Roughly 20,000 or more workers in these industries have been idled. Those idled in allied industries.

Legislature May End Session July 25

Madison —A July 25 recess date for the legislature appeared a little more definite today.

A statement made on the floor of the senate gave the much rumored date added significance.

It came from Sen. Robert Travis of Platteville, the Republican floorleader. He said he had met with Assembly Speaker George Molinaro, D-Kenosha.

Police Commissioner Fears New Incidents

BY LAMAR FALKNER
New York —Police Commissioner Stephen P. Kennedy has moved quickly to beef up the police force in Harlem and warned against potential race riots there.

He said such a riot could be more destructive to community relations than an atomic bomb. Kennedy also moved in reinforcements to other areas of the city populated mostly by Negroes.

The police commissioner said yesterday that increased tensions among New York's big Negro populace has resulted from things over which the police have no control—housing, schools, and other economic and social factors.

Kennedy complained that some Harlem politicians had unjustly blamed their troubles on the police. Answering the charges that he was creating a "police state," Kennedy said he was trying "to protect law-abiding people there."

"Incipient race riots, if permitted to go unchecked, spread like wildfire and result in disorder and injury to the innocent," he declared, "and they don't correct the real basis of the tension."

Jawn A. Sandifer, chairman of the legal redress committee of the local National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, charged that "the police, more than any other single factor, are responsible for the rising tensions" in Harlem.

However, Thurgood Marshall, General Counsel of the NAACP, came to Kennedy's defense.

No War, Khrushchev Vows

Russia Will Not be Aggressor, He Says

BY STANLEY JOHNSON

Sosnowiec, Poland —Nikita S. Khrushchev today said the Soviet Union would never start a war.

The visiting Soviet premier told a cheering throng of delegates at the third international congress of miners unions in this Silesian industrial town:

"I give you our solemn pledge that never, never, never shall we launch any war against any country anywhere at any time."

He said he did not believe capitalist countries would start war either but claimed that was because the "balance of forces" is now overwhelmingly in favor of the communists.

Khrushchev appeared dynamic and reinvigorated. All signs of weariness that marked his appearance during the first two days of his tour of Poland had disappeared after a night's sleep. He is 66.

Khrushchev spoke without either text or notes in an impromptu address after he canceled a scheduled visit to the Nazi extermination camp at Oswiecim.

Sees Red Triumph

"The next war will mean calamity for all humanity," he said and added he thought capitalists realized this too.

He predicted inevitable victory for communism — with "struggles" but without war.

"I believe that as I believe the sun will rise tomorrow."

"We want coexistence; we don't want war. We don't need war. Neither do the capitalist countries. When they thought

Typhoon Hits China, Formosa, Philippines

Causes Number of Deaths, Loss
To Property and Heavy Flooding

Tokyo —Typhoon Bili struck Chekiang province on the red China mainland today after causing extensive flooding and possibly seven deaths on Formosa, and one death and property damage in the Philippines.

More than a million mainland Chinese were frantically harvesting early rice, menaced with destruction, in coastal counties, the New China News agency reported.

Tens of thousands of fishermen headed for safe harbors. In southern Japan the death toll from a week of torrential rains on the fringes of the typhoon rose to 45, with 75 hurt, 16 missing and nearly 1,000 homeless.

Freighter Aground
Three U.S. Navy ships rushed to aid the 3,692-ton Japanese freighter Bansei Maru, aground on a reef off Ishigaki island, 170 miles south of Okinawa. The ship reported 42 of her crew had taken to lifeboats. It was not known how many were still aboard.

One American rescue ship reached the scene but was unable to get close to the freighter because of heavy seas. Okinawa-based American sea-rescue planes took off to help.

One-third of Taipei was flooded and hundreds of Americans were forced to flee their homes during the night when the typhoon sideswiped Formosa. Seven Chinese were missing and more than 10,000 in the capital were homeless.

Reds Ease Demands That Germans Sit in on Talks

Russians Indicate Readiness to Attend Function Where Delegates From German Regimes are Barred

BY JOHN HIGHTOWER
Geneva — (AP) — The Soviet Union has eased up on its demands that east and west Germany sit in on secret talks at the big four foreign ministers conference, informed sources said today. The Soviet maneuver had threatened serious delays in the talks.

Informants said the Russians indicated a readiness to take part with the British, French and U. S. foreign ministers at social functions from which the Germans would be barred.

Secret Talks

Much of the real negotiations in the early phases of the conference took place at secret sessions, semi-public sessions at which the Germans sat as advisers produced little more than speechmaking.

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko threw the conference into confusion Monday after it returned from a recess by announcing opposition to secret sessions unless east and west Germany took part.

The outlines of the compromise emerged after a dinner conference last night at which Jakob Malik, Soviet ambassador to London, was guest of Sir Patrick Reilly, British ambassador to Moscow.

Still snarled
The conference still remained snarled, however, over a solution for the Berlin crisis—the basic issue that drew the four powers to Geneva.

The west stood fast against any Soviet truce formula for Berlin granting new power and prestige to the east German communist government.

Western leaders said they would not go along with Soviet efforts to obtain a Berlin deal recognizing the east and west German regimes as political equals.

Proposal Rejected
The west at Wednesday's session of the foreign ministers' conference rejected the Soviet proposal for creation of an all-German committee

Some Hope Seen for Bill On Civil Rights

Opponents Continue Attempts to Block Measure From Senate

Washington — (AP) — A first, short step toward getting a civil rights bill before the senate brought expressions today of guarded, but contrary, hopes from opposing sides.

Southern opponents emphasized they would continue their fight to block a bob-tailed measure that squeaked through a senate judiciary subcommittee yesterday by a 4-3 vote.

"It could be amended into something more drastic," cautioned Sen. Olin D. Johnston (D-SC).

Advocates of a stronger bill saw in the subcommittee's action the possibility that the logjam may be breaking.

Only a Skeleton
Sen. John A. Carroll (D-Colo.) called the bill only a skeleton, but said some meat may be put on it when it goes before the full judiciary committee. And Sen. Clifford P. Case (R-NJ) said he hoped the senate would go "a great deal further."

The bill approved by the subcommittee has only two sections.

One would require state and local officials to keep voter registration records for three years and ballots for 18 months and to make them available to the U.S. attorney general for inspection upon demand.

The other would extend from Sept. 9 of this year until Jan. 31, 1961, the life of the civil rights commission—created two years ago primarily to investigate complaints of discriminatory denial of voting rights.

Shifted Battle Arena

The subcommittee's action shifted the immediate battle arena to the full judiciary committee, presided over by Sen. James O. Eastland (D-Miss), a determined foe of civil rights legislation.

Sens. Sam J. Ervin, Jr. (D-NC) and John L. McClellan (D-Ark) as well as Johnston said they will carry on in the judiciary committee the efforts they made in the subcommittee to defeat any bill.

Majority Leader Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Texas) has put the civil rights legislation on the program for this session and has said he expects the bill out a bill.

Hoffa Pledges Attacks on Political Foes

Miami, Fla. — (AP) — James R. Hoffa says the Teamsters union will make free use of radio, television and the mails in the 1960 election campaign "to let the American working man know just where all the politicians stand."

The Teamsters president said on an eventful Miami visit that city directories throughout the country would be combed to compile a mailing list of 10 million persons.

"The rest of the people we'll reach by television and radio," he said.

Asked about the union's choice of candidates, Hoffa said it is too soon to say.

"The only one we know who seems to be a candidate is Jack Kennedy (Sen. John F. Kennedy, Massachusetts Democrat). I'm against him because he's anti-union and anti-working people."

The teamster president said his men "won't go through any steel strike picket lines."

Accusing business and government of an increasing crackdown on the labor movement, Hoffa said "our problems no longer belong to the I.L.A., the Teamsters, the steel workers—they belong to the American workers."

Early Victim

Medical Pioneer Faces 92nd Operation on X-Ray Burns

Chicago — (AP) — He lay there—a wreck of a man after 64 years of pain and 91 operations—one of the first victims of radiation.

He spoke from only half a mouth, and his words were sometimes bitter. The operations also have claimed his left hand, most of his nose, his upper lips and parts of his cheek and jaw.

He asks, "Why should I, an innocent individual, have to suffer like this? For 64 years I have known pain."

First Attempt

The white-haired man is Dr. Emil H. Grube, 84, credited by medical science with being the first to apply radiation in an attempt to cure cancer.

Tomorrow he is scheduled to undergo his 92nd operation for radiation burns and cancer resulting from some of his experiments. Doctors say they probably will have to remove two fingers from his right hand.

Dr. Grubbe gave a rare news conference yesterday in and has said he expects the Swedish Covenant hospital. "I was the first one burned by radiation," he said. He told of how in 1895, as a physicist, he worked on the manufacture of plutonium tubes called Crookes tubes, used to rarify gases.

Many times he touched the tubes or brought them near his face, not knowing of the danger. An irritation appeared on his hand. But he didn't know what it was.

X-Rays

Then on Nov. 8, 1895 the discovery of X-rays was announced by Wilhelm Roentgen.

"I knew then I had been burned by X-rays," Dr. Grubbe said, "but it was too late."

Six months later he had his first operation for radiation burns.

Declines Martyrdom

In the meantime, Dr. Grubbe, on Jan. 26, 1896, began treating a woman afflicted with breast cancer by exposing her to X-rays. The pain left her shortly. Since then he has instructed more than 7,000 doctors in radiology techniques.

Dr. Grubbe declines the role of a martyr, but admits he would not have conducted his experiments if he could have seen the results.

"No, not with all the misery I've had," he said.

Boys Take Long Hike in Search Of Lost Dime

Milwaukee — (AP) — Four boys emerged unharmed from a storm sewer Wednesday into the midst of police and firemen sent to halt their quest for adventure and a lost dime.

Steve Czerniak, 14; his brother, Michael, 13; Ronald Pietruszyski, 11, and Bruce Staedler, 14, opened a manhole cover and climbed down a ladder into the sewer.

A tavern operator who saw the boys called to them and they said they were "after a dime." He notified police.

Firemen entered the sewer, about six feet in diameter, and found three of the boys. The fourth youngster walked 400 yards through the sewer and emerged on the banks of the Milwaukee river.

Senate Committee Plans Probe of Reuther Union

Set Closed-Door Session to See if Evidence Warrants Public Hearing

Washington — (AP) — The Senate Rackets committee plans to start a preliminary investigation of Walter Reuther's United Auto Workers union in hearings behind closed doors.

The 3-day inquiry, starting July 27, is to determine whether evidence compiled by the committee's Republican members is sufficient to justify public hearings.

Political Fight

The investigation could set off a political row among the senators as a similar one did when the committee investigated the UAW in 1958.

The union traditionally supports Democratic candidates for political office, although it has supported some Republicans at times.

Sen. Karl E. Mundt (R-SD) announced the committee had decided to go ahead with the preliminary inquiry which will deal among other things with UAW "flower funds"—which usually buy few flowers.

Campaign Funds

Reuther told the committee last year flower funds really are union campaign funds raised by voluntary contributions from members. He said the funds are used mainly to finance the campaigns of incumbent UAW officers, including himself, and the campaigns of rivals, with each side having its own flower fund.

Mundt and Sen. Carl Curtis (R-Neb.) want to know more about the raising and spending of these funds. Mundt said the committee also would look into the affairs and finances of some UAW officials.

Reuther told the committee in hearings last year he knew of no corruption in his union.

but that if the committee could point to some he would start cleaning it out within 24 hours.

Mundt said the committee also has agreed on "preliminary ground rules" for another touchy inquiry, this one on charges that both industry and labor unions have been circumventing or even flouting federal election laws.

At main issue here is whether unions or corporations have been getting around a law which forbids them to participate directly in financing partisan political campaigns.

Youngster Courageous After Leg Amputated By Propellor of Boat

Sedalia, Mo. — (AP) — Courage shone like a beacon from the face of 7-year-old Donna Stapel.

"I'm glad this happened to me instead of some other little girl or boy," she told her mother, Mrs. Elmer Stapel of Calumet Park, Ill.

Donna's right leg had just been amputated above the knee by a motorboat propeller at a Lake of the Ozarks resort yesterday.

Donna screamed in terror when the boat backed into her. But the little blonde didn't shed a tear during the 60-mile ride to a Sedalia hospital.

And after undergoing surgery she managed to smile at a newsman as she was wheeled to a hospital room. Her condition is satisfactory.

John Beaver, resort operator and friend of the vacationing Stapel family, said his boat struck Donna as he backed it away from a dock.

Tax Revision Report Postponed to Aug. 15

Madison — (AP) — Gov. Gay will provide the basis for tax revision recommendations to be made by the 19-man blue-ribbon citizens committee, appointed recently by the governor. The recommendations would be to the governor and the legislature.

The citizens committee, which held its second meeting today, agreed the study group's delay might force postponement of its own Sept. 15 deadline. The committee had hoped to present recommendations then for the legislature's fall session.

Conference of Mayors Asks Public Hearings On Housing Bill Veto

Los Angeles — (AP) — The United States Conference of Mayors wants congress to hold public hearings on President Eisenhower's veto of a federal housing bill.

The 400 delegates at the closing session of the annual conference also described as unacceptable the administration's compromise housing bill. The delegates said the administration bill provides for no public housing and would subject urban renewal projects to additional red tape.

Other resolutions praised the president's Berlin policy but criticized his veto of a 4-year extension of the federal airport act.

Mayor Richard J. Daley of Chicago was elected president, succeeding Los Angeles Mayor Norris Poulson.

Hold Bids on Clearing Land At Growth Park

Established Charges

The board of public works Tuesday declined to recommend a contractor for removal of buildings from the industrial park site.

Bids from both Madison Moving and Wrecking corporation and Kuhn Enterprises requires the city to pay for the work.

This would mean, Mayor Mitchell said, that the established price for acreage in the industrial park would have to be revised slightly upwards and this would include the price already quoted Appleton Manufacturing company which is buying 10 acres.

May Move House
The city has a gentleman's agreement with Appleton Manufacturing, the mayor said, to have the buildings removed before the company takes over the land.

Board members said they would entertain bids to have the house moved from the site if it would be moved outside the city. Other buildings would be burned by the fire department after removal of salable items.

Madison Moving wants the city to pay $484 to raze the house and $3,195 to burn all other buildings. Kuhn wants

Woman's Tip Led to Death of Dillinger

BY CHARLES HOUSE
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Next Thursday — July 22 — is the 25th anniversary of the day that John Dillinger, America's number one bad boy, walked into an alley and onto page one of every newspaper in the country.

House
Hamilton; his final Clark Gable movie was "Manhattan Melodrama," showing at the Essaness Biograph theater in Chicago.

Dillinger was the most wanted man in the United States—for jail break, for bank robbery, for murder. But his international notoriety and his reputation for being a mastermind of the underworld made him a prime fellow for capture or sudden death. The price on his head was $15,000 and the general police order was "shoot to kill."

Put in Jail

Dillinger and his gang had robbed banks in Greencastle, Ind., Racine, Chicago, and tavern where Purvis waited East Chicago, Ind. Following to give the signal. Dillinger that robbery, Dillinger was glanced at him and walked captured and jailed at Crown Point, Ind.

That escape - proof jail was not escape-proof at all. Dillinger carved a pistol from a piece of wood, made it realistic with some touches of black shoe polish. Then he brandished the toy weapon and bullied the warden and 13 guards. He escaped in a stolen car.

In April, 1934, the FBI had a tip that this ace bad man was hiding near Mercer, Wis. Forty-eight FBI agents surrounded the Little Bohemia resort and a gun battle ensued. Two men were killed and several more were wounded. But Dillinger somehow escaped through a well-guarded back door.

James Lawrence

The heat was on. The FBI, embarrassed by this seemingly impossible escape, declared an all-out war on John Dillinger; his days were drawing to an end. The break came when Anna Sage learned that her roommate, Polly Hamilton, was "going steady" with a fellow named James Lawrence.

James Lawrence wore gold rimmed glasses. He had black hair and scars on his fingertips as from acid. Dillinger was recognizable anywhere for his sandy colored hair, blondish mustache and for a deep cleft in his chin.

But hair dye can turn sandy hair black, a face-lifting job can remove a chin cleft, and acid can scar fingertips and obliterate tell-tale whorls. lake.

Trap Set

Ultimately this lady of the streets talked to Melvin Purvis, a special FBI agent in charge of the Chicago office. She would arrange that Dillinger would take her and her roommate to a movie but she would not be able to guess where or when. She would telephone.

She did; Dillinger was to treat the ladies to a movie Sunday, July 22. He would not say which one, but she believed it would be either the Biograph or the Marbro. The FBI sent two detachments and covered both theaters.

Purvis, who had seen Dillinger and could identify him, observed him enter the Biograph with two ladies, one of whom was wearing a brightly-colored skirt which appeared red under the lights of the theater. He sent for the Marbro detachment and 16 men waited for the No. 1 criminal of America.

At 10:30 p.m., the house lights went up and the crowd spilled into the street. Dillinger and his lady friends walked past the doorway of a brightly-colored skirt which appeared red under the lights of the theater. He sent for the Marbro detachment and 16 men waited for the No. 1 criminal of America.

Shot Three Times

FBI men moved fast, separated the women from Dillinger as though by accident. Then one agent came up behind the most wanted man and whispered, "Hello, John."

Dillinger made a swift move for the revolver in his trouser pocket. It was his last voluntary move.

Two slugs bit through his back into his heart. As he pitched forward on his face another slug ripped through the back of his head, emerging under his left eye. America's toughest killer was dead in an alley.

What was left of John Dillinger was a cheap suit of clothes, a cheap shirt, $7.70 in cash, an inexpensive watch attached to a small pocket knife, an expensive revolver which had never been fired—and three small red holes.

State Fights Chicago Plea For Water

Washington—Gov. Gaylord A. Nelson of Wisconsin Tuesday accused Chicago of attempting to use the waters of Lake Michigan as a substitute for expensive new sewage facilities.

Wisconsin Atty. Gen. John W. Reynolds also challenged the right of Chicago to seek permission of congress to divert more water from the obliterate tell-tale whorls. lake.

James Lawrence wore gold rimmed glasses. He had black hair and scars on his fingertips as from acid. Dillinger was recognizable anywhere for his sandy colored hair, blondish mustache and for a deep cleft in his chin.

"I'm a lot more interested in Illinois than I am in Canada," Kerr declared, adding "I'm no more interested in Canada than I am in a sheik's harem."

Kerr expressed the opinion Monday that Canadians have no legal claim whatever to the waters of Lake Michigan, which lies entirely within the United States.

Menominee Bill Approval Stalled Again

Trinke Waiting Federal Decision On Restrictions

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

Madison — Menominee Indian lobbyists fretted Wednesday as an influential state senate again threatened to stall legislation to terminate national control of their affairs.

Sen. W. F. Trinke of Lake Geneva, chairman of a committee holding Indian bills, declined to permit a vote on them until he has received concessions by the U. S. department of interior. Late last week Trinke had said he would arrange a vote on the bills Tuesday.

Trinke explained he wanted a direct declaration from Sec. of the Interior Fred Seaton, addressed to the legislature, that the national government would approve a clause in the deed to transfer title of the reservation to the Indians.

Agree Reluctantly

Last week the secretary wired such a promise to James Frechette of the tribal council, although the department said it was done reluctantly.

But Trinke was not satisfied. The government official should make the pledge directly and officially to the legislature, he said.

What Trinke demands is a restriction providing that the tribal corporation which will own the Indian lands, mills and forest cannot sell, lease or mortgage without the approval of the governor and the state conservation commission.

The senate waited Tuesday night while Trinke tried without success to telephone Seaton. He asked for the intervention of Wisconsin congressmen including Sen. Wiley.

Planners Hold Two Requests For Rezoning

The city planning commission has declined to take action on two requests for rezoning of property.

Involved are parcels at the southwest corner of Randall avenue and Meade street and at 913 N. Division street.

Ben Cherkasky, who seeks the Meade street rezoning to commercial and light manufacturing district, said he intends to build a Ben Franklin variety store on the corner.

Commissioners said they want to check with Donald Mueller, alderman of the ward, and may consider rezoning of all property in the block to commercial and light since all the land south to Wisconsin avenue and across the street already is in the commercial and light zone. They also talked of establishing a 10-foot setback requirement.

Raymond Van Heuklon, 527 N. Division street rezoning to multiple family district. Ald. Kenneth Loos will be asked to check neighbors' views and the ordinances will be consulted to see whether Van Heuklon's has enough land to meet requirements. Van Heuklon said health hazards and unsightly conditions of one house next door preventing him from renting the house as a 2-family dwelling.

School Census Now 14,559

837 More Than In 1958; Boys Outnumber Girls

Appleton children of grade and high school age have increased 837 in one year to a total of 14,559. Supt. of Schools John P. Mann has told the board of education.

"There's our new school already," he said as he distributed the census report.

Greatest growth since 1958 was in District 1 town of Grand Chute with 249 more school-age children. Major growth also occurred in District 4, south of the river, with 173; District 6, the northeast section of the city, with 119; and District 2 in the town of Grand Chute, with 138. City and other projects at the rear school districts are the same as the original six wards.

Pre-School Children

There also are 4,774 pre-school children in the city. Mann reported. A total of 1,258 are two years old—the largest group and more than 2½ times the number of 18-year-olds.

Boys still outnumber girls. In the school-age group, there are 7,470 boys and 7,089 girls; in the pre-school group, 2,485 boys and 2,289 girls.

Mann estimated 50 per cent of the grade school children would attend parochial schools and that in the future perhaps 35 per cent of the high school-age group would attend Xavier Catholic and Fox Valley Lutheran High schools.

Need Teachers

The superintendent reported he still must find four teachers—two in the primary division, one social worker and a director of instruction.

Five new teachers have been hired, he reported. They are Mrs. Eleanor Buckman, backyard swimming pool. Miss Mary Lou Germit, Mar-costing an estimated $1,200, tin J. Kirka, Mrs. Ruth S. was issued today to Sidney Gresham and Mrs. Geraldine Dutcher, 1712 S. Mason street.

Park Board Seeks Fill From City for Pierce Park Ravine

The park board Tuesday agreed to ask the city to place fill material from street work and other projects at the rear of the Appleton Curling club property.

A dangerous cliff condition exists because of a ravine at the southwest corner of Pierce park, the board said, and fill will eliminate some of trouble.

In other actions, the board rejected land offers for a park north of Highway 41 and an addition to the southeast corner of the golf course.

The park land offer was too far north and the price was too high, Board Sec. Arthur Jones said. The golf course addition would serve no useful purpose, the board was advised.

Board members will appear before the board of public works with plans for an addition to the golf course clubhouse. Jones said, as soon as they are returned by McMahon Engineering company, Menasha.

Permit for Pool

A building permit for a backyard swimming pool. Miss Mary Lou Germit, Mar-costing an estimated $1,200, tin J. Kirka, Mrs. Ruth S. was issued today to Sidney Gresham and Mrs. Geraldine Dutcher, 1712 S. Mason street.

Whittling the Road Budget

When the average auto driver refuels at a service station and pays six cents a gallon into the state treasury in gasoline tax, we may guess that he believes he is paying that substantial impost for the support of the state road system.

That was the original purpose of the motor fuel levy when it was enacted by the legislature. It remains the basic purpose today, as far as we can construe the laws governing. But as the state highway commission showed in testimony on its budget recently, the proportion of state automotive taxes reserved for state roads is a steadily diminishing share of the whole.

In spite of the fact that there are more motoring taxpayers than ever before, in spite of the fact that the legislature a few years ago increased the tax on motor fuel to a new high level, the governor of the state is now seriously proposing and the highway department is endorsing the idea of borrowing through long term bonds to build state trunk highways.

Current collections, for all of their breath-taking volume, are not sufficient to maintain the budget of construction that the legislature has authorized, the public evidently desires, and the commission wants to execute.

One of the reasons is that more and more millions of revenues are being earmarked for special purposes, most of them related to roads in some sense, indeed, but not directly related to the primary trunk roads that are the main concern of the state highway administration.

Who's on First?

If the present session of Congress were scored like a baseball game, a victory would have to be recorded for the underdog Republican team.

Managed by Sen. Dirksen and Rep. Halleck, the GOP congressional team can be compared to a fast, sharp-fielding squad that has gotten its hits at the right times and scored runs when it counted.

Much of the credit for the Republican edge should go to the opposing Democrats. A good team makes its own breaks, but the Democrats have gone out of their way to contribute to the GOP edge. Their lack of success on the congressional diamond can be laid to uncertain management, outright mutiny in the clubhouse and spotty hitting. Press dispatches indicate that many of the Democratic players are willing to admit they're taking a beating — it's just a question of who to blame for the debacle.

Sen. William Proxmire, a rookie from Wisconsin who was up briefly last season, blames the Democratic manager, Sen. Lyndon Johnson, a veteran who played his early political ball in the Texas league. The Texan has been playing a cautious game and doesn't consult with team members before calling a play, Proxmire declares. He also charges Johnson with being too friendly with the opposition.

The mutiny seems to have made an uncertain man out of Manager Johnson. His heavy hitters haven't come through in the clutch and needed runs are lacking in crucial innings. He has been unable to juggle his lineup to get voting majorities.

The Boating Code

Objections from boating organizations are likely to scuttle the state's proposed first boating code which is the product of long and diligent work by a commission of legislators and citizens set up by the 1957 legislature.

There is need for some degree of state regulation of a sport which now involves more than 200,000 owners and uncounted others who rent their craft, and which according to all the signs is entering on a boom of the kind the automotive industry enjoyed a quarter century ago.

But the boating clubs, with strong voices in the legislature, demand amendments of a kind that are likely to stalemate the discussions and defer the whole matter indefinitely.

Some of the amendments are relatively minor and can be accommodated without difficulty. Others are more strategic, such as the demand that the state code supersede local regulatory ordinances entirely. Another demands that local boats be exempt from local property taxation.

Both the demands are natural enough, considering the interests of the boating enthusiasts alone. But the parallel of the booming automotive industry of the late 1920's may be useful here. When the legislature adopted the first highway code, it did not outlaw the ordinances of localities. This city and all others are within their rights to regulate traffic, within the framework of the basic state laws.

Can't Beat Sailing For Sport

From The Tacoma Wash. News-Tribune

One of the handsomest sights from any shoreline on a sunny day is a number of sailboats spanking along under a steady breeze. Few can watch them without wishing they knew how to sail a boat of their own.

Those who sail agree it's an entrancing sport and one that is relatively inexpensive. A boat will give many years of service if properly maintained. Its value depreciates at a slow pace. The wind still blows free.

Sailing gives young people forces of nature. They must be alert to currents and cross-currents in the aid the sea, and the interplay between them. It must be a delight and a pride to be able to tack against the wind and to hoist and lower the proper sails at the proper time.

Sailing on salt water is recommended as one of the most healthful and restful of all recreations. The experienced sailor seems to have not a care in the world. One of them was asked how fast his sailboat would travel.

"Who cares?" he answered. "All you do is go someplace and then come back, and what's the difference how long it takes?"

This is a politically sensitive subject, as the highway department chairman inferred when he treated it so gingerly in his testimony before the legislature.

But the fact is that the time has come for a review of the budgetary relationship of state and local roads, as Mr. Plummer proposed.

Even if the governor is successful and gets a state highway bonding program — which would appear to be a long shot at the moment — there is need for a re-examination of the budgeting of our current state road tax receipts. Such bonds will require amortization payments, and as the budget is now constructed it is difficult to see how such bond payments can be made.

Earlier this year there were some loud noises from the sidelines suggesting that the towns lobby, for one, was going to demand an even greater slice of the state highway tax melon. It is now evident that such publicity was a ruse. It was intended to distract attention from the fact that the towns' shares already are generous by any definition. An offensive move is good defensive tactics, in legislative politics as elsewhere.

The legislative interim committee on highways is asking for the extraordinary sum of $60,000 to finance its studies during the next two years. If the legislature grants it there should be a condition attached, in the way of an express mandate for a realistic review of how our generous present road tax yields are being used.

for itself. Except for a few innings — the Strauss and Luce affairs, for example — the majority team has scored precious few runs.

To make matters worse Democratic troubles threaten to reach into the front office. Sen. Mike Mansfield, an outfielder from Montana, blames front office mogul National Chairman Paul Butler for upsetting the team's offense. Butler's attacks on the Democratic field management have given aid and comfort to the GOP, Mansfield asserts.

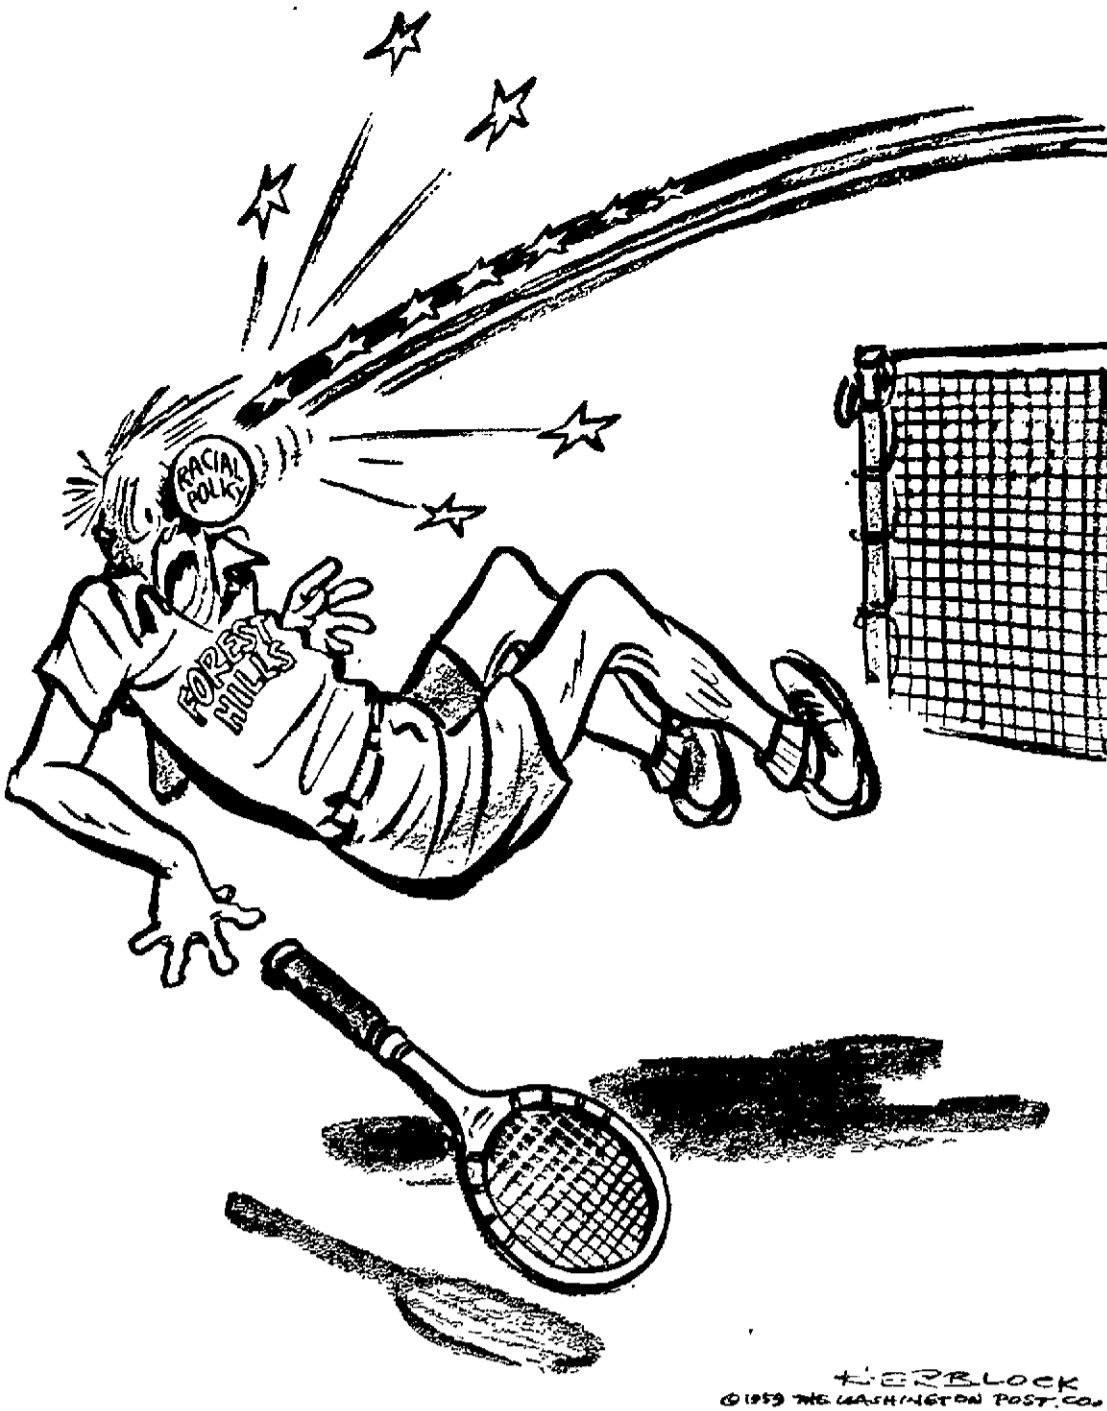

The Democratic team has been further upset by the political play of Sen. Wayne Morse, an erratic veteran from Oregon who used to play for the Republicans. Morse has too often been found arguing with fellow team members and badgering Republican appointees while major portions of his party's program have been stranded on base. Some members of his team probably feel the Oregon prima donna did the Democrats more good when he played for the Republicans.

Taunts from the Republican side of the field haven't helped the Democrats. GOP players have been known to jeer that the Democrats have been too busy figuring out how to spend money taken in at the box office to play a heads-up legislative game. The season is drawing to a close. The GOP team deserves a pat on the back from the management and a cheer from the crowd. The Democrats can use the off-season to put together a more effective offense for next year's presidential World Series.

We see no reason why the boating laws cannot be written with the same approach. In any event, the state's traditions of local government rights are such that any other demand upon Madison will be quite futile.

Those who demand that boats be excused from the assessment of local property taxes also are ignoring the history of motor vehicle regulation. The state licensed motor vehicles, in lieu of the personal property tax. But the state taxes motor vehicles at a flat $16, which is a far cry from the nominal $3 suggested in the boating code.

Anyone who has observed the traffic congestion on a popular lake or river on these summer weekends must be aware that some degree of public regulation is required for public safety. A glance at the map, moreover, suggests quickly that if there is to be enforcement of any code, however minimal, it must be with state assistance and possibly under state direction. Here, again, there is a precedent in the motor vehicle code. The legislature four years ago, after long delay, recognized that the state must take a hand in the enforcement of highway traffic laws in rural sections, precisely because the towns and many of the counties do not have the resources. The problem will be even more acute as boating law enforcement problems grow, for virtually all the recreational waters lie outside the jurisdictions of the reasonably well-policed cities.

Catholic Publication Applauds School for Retarded Children

From The Green Bay Register

An article in the Appleton Post-Crescent a few weeks ago told of the beginning of a fund to build a special school in Outagamie County for the education of retarded children. Remarkable about the fund and the proposed school is the fact that the planning and the work are being done not by a governmental agency or a group of professionals, but by a group of interested citizens, many of them parents of retarded children. The Register salutes them for their initiative and the large strides they have already made toward the accomplishment of their goal.

The proposed school will be erected on a six-acre plot especially donated for that purpose. It is expected that the school will cost about $40,000. More than $2,000 has already been collected for that purpose. . . . In an age that is filled with drives and funds for just about every physical, mental, and moral malady under the sun, the retarded child is one of the most forgotten. In many cases he is forgotten because he is hidden in the recesses of a home where loving parents are ashamed of their offspring. In other cases he is forgotten because he is off in some institution where only those who truly love him come to see him often and the rest of the world never comes to know that he ever exists. . . . We know now that a very high percentage of retarded children can be educated, that their limited world can be made more meaningful, and their life can be made more capable of happiness and joy, if trained persons are but permitted to exercise their patient teaching skills in helping them along the way to a wider world and a fuller life. It would, in fact be true to say that very exceptional indeed would be the retarded child who cannot be educated at least a bit and so brought to a fuller appreciation of the good things of this world than he might have had at birth. To pass these children by and to leave them live and die in just about the same mental state in which they may have been born would be cruelty indeed. . . .

There are no provisions made for their training in the schools under the State Department of Public Instruction. That department operates schools only for the visually handicapped and for the deaf. Many retarded or exceptional children are cared for in two institutions operated by the State Department of Public Welfare, the Northern Colony at Chipewa Falls and the Southern Colony at Union Grove.

The Church too has had difficulty providing facilities to care for these youngsters. The only school in Wisconsin specially directed to their training is St. Coletta's at Jefferson. The high ratio of teachers to students necessary in such a school is demonstrated by the latest figures on St. Coletta's, showing 505 students being cared for by 103 sisters and three priests. . . .

This is a highly specialized field and, even though parents can supply the all-important ingredient of love, they are seldom able to do a really good job of unfolding the very few but highly treasured talents that God may have given in a limited and loving way to their retarded child.

It is for that reason that the Register is proud to salute the Outagamie County Council for Retarded Children and all its members.

Quoted from the Appleton Crescent for the week of July 17, 1880.

A goodly number was present Wednesday night at the meeting of the Hancock and English club and universal satisfaction with the prospects of success was expressed.

James Lennon was chosen chairman and Sam Ryan secretary. The constitution of the club was adopted and the preamble reads as follows:

"We the undersigned do hereby unite ourselves together as the Appleton Hancock and English club, and do pledge ourselves to vote and work for the election of Hancock and English to the presidency and vice presidency of the United States."

The following committee was appointed Saturday evening to select officers of the club at the office of Barnes and Goodland and report to an adjourned meeting to be held in the rear of the sheriff's office, over Conklin's shoe store:

J. S. Buck, E. Heidemann, First ward; H. W. Meyer, H. D. Ryan, Second ward; James Lennon, G. T. Moeskes, Third ward; J. W. Lawler, A. H. Conkey, Fourth ward; Joseph Roem-

NRA was focusing its energy on completing Blue Eagle codes for industry under the leadership of Hugh S. Johnson. Under the national act, the basic agreement guaranteed labor's right of collective bargaining, banned child labor, set safety, health and related standards, established a system of open-price reporting and permitted later fair trade practices if 75 per cent of the industry approved.

Counselors for the YMCA camp at Onaway island were named, including George Hirschler, swimming director; Clark Carnes, swimming and canoeing; John Frampton, campfire programs; Walter Wright, camp orchestra; Robert Thoms, handicraft; William Ogilvie, sports and games; Robert Graef, bugler; Frank Hammer, handicrafts and assistant bugler; Elmer Ruth, handicraft and swimming. C. C. Bailey was camp director and the Rev. Ernest Hasselblad, camp chaplain.

Billboard Opponents Lack Organization

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

Madison — A subscriber sends a letter, expressing disappointment and puzzlement, and asking about the reasons why the drive to win legislation for the control of billboards on the right-of-way of public highways is lagging in Madison.

The reasons are not really obscure, although perhaps some of the bare dispatches have failed to explain them fully.

The subscriber remarks that nearly everyone with whom she has discussed the matter favors some kind of legislation. They are good and responsible people, she adds with what must have been a frown as she penned her inquiry.

Well, as they used to say, nice guys don't win fights.

There are doubtless many Wisconsin residents of decent instincts and good reputations and local influence in their neighborhoods who would respond favorably on a poll covering the issue. But they are not being heard from in the legislative process. There are some petitions and an occasional delegation of clubwomen. But they have some tough antagonists, and it is not entirely clear that they have even identified them.

COMPETITION

The front in the other camp, of course, is the billboard industry itself, the entrepreneurs who rent the space, erect the billboards and lease rights thereon to the advertisers. It is the latter, however, that constitutes the real resistance. Any motorist can project the size of that opposition by the merest glance at the typical Wisconsin roadside. Perhaps not all of them really have a vital dependence upon such media. But they think they do, which amounts to the same thing politically. And there are some who would be obviously hurt by restrictions or prohibitions. The motel proprietor is perhaps the most easily grasped illustration in that category.

But the legislative hearings recently showed other elements customarily lumped into the brief phrase "the billboard lobby." There were the agents of the various craft unions, printing house spokesmen, suppliers of various kinds.

There also are some considerations involved that the zealous advocates of billboard outlawing are not always ready to recognize. There are property rights involved, as a couple of dubious senators explained with fair effect during a floor debate the other day. It is perfectly true that the value of the road-side is generated by the public traffic. But the man who owns the land does own it, and if he objects to the appropriation of his income rights without compensation that objection is equally as valid in legislative competition as is the complaint of another citizen who is concerned with esthetic values on a motoring trip.

POWER PLAY

It may be impolite to say so, but the anti-billboard campaign is regarded in many quarters, perhaps unfortunately, as a plaything of some of the women's clubs.

It is pretty difficult for a couple of ladies, earnest and persistent and public spirited as they may be, to compete with the resolution of the professional agents of the vested interests involved in this conflict, as well as with the philosophical reservations of some of the legislators themselves.

If a public hearing in the legislature is intended to provide a kind of ready reference to the state of public opinion — as the procedure intends and as many legislators assume — then there is comparatively little active interest in the populace about billboard control, however widespread the passive sympathy on the matter may be.

All this, Madame, may be quite irrelevant to the merits of the case.

But you asked for an explanation, and that is how it looks from this perch in the legislative press gallery.

Perhaps as in many other campaigns, more time is required. A good measure has a habit of picking up backing with time.

Engineer Proves Bumblebee Can Fly After All

From The Tulsa Tribune

One of the oldest saws in aviation circles is that the slide-rule boys who design airplanes are not infallible, and that according to accepted aerodynamic principles, a bumblebee simply cannot fly.

Origin of this opinion was was a French zoologist, Antoine Magnan, who claimed that the bee had too great a wing-loading for flight and his busy soaring could not be explained by any known mechanism.

This recently piqued the curiosity of Ray W. Van Aken, an American aeronautical engineer, and he has worked out a formula for flapping wings: add times 0.12 (snb) squared plus 0.17 suvV. A is the area swept by one flap, d the air density, s the span, n the flapping frequency, b the amplitude of the flap, and V the airspeed.

The result: the unlikely bumblebee can fly after all. All he has to do is flap hard enough. What a lesson for our children.

She said the horse at the right is tied to a tire to wear it down after capture. Congressmen are studying a bill to ban the use of planes and motor vehicles in the hunting of the wild horses on public lands.

tions and 1959 taxes due would overlap, with the result that there would be a bonus of tax money collected. Originally Nelson proposed that the localities share in the windfall. When they failed to rally to his cause, he proposed a partial "forgiveness" on 1959 taxes, on condition that current installment payments start in September.

The defeat of the withholding scheme means also the death of the administration's $20,000,000 building funds appropriation request.

Republicans will counter next week with a continuation of present building funds at the rate of about $6,000,000 a year.

The governor had pledged to devote the remaining state treasury "windfall" for educational and welfare buildings.

Judge Denies Union Motion

Milwaukee — U. S. District Judge Robert E. Tehan Wednesday denied a motion by the United Auto Workers union for a temporary injunction to block proceedings in unfair labor practice charges brought by the Allis-Chalmers manufacturing company. He ruled the union could find adequate relief in state courts.

Allis-Chalmers claims that threats by UAW locals at West Allis and LaCrosse to fine members who crossed picket lines during the recent 77-day strike constitute unfair labor practices.

The union action contended that the state board was not the proper forum for hearing the charges and sought the injunction in federal court.

Senate Kills Bill on Withholding Tax

that he had given up hope for passage of the "pay as you go" system that has been adopted by other states and most recently in New York under the initiative of Republican Governor Nelson Rockefeller.

Democrats taunted the majority GOP members with reminders that other Republican governors around the country have endorsed payroll withholding for state tax collections.

Legislators defending with holding concentrated mainly states have found their income tax yields increased through "pay as you go".

Senator Henry Maier, Democratic floorleader, started the long argument on the senate floor with an amendment he candidly described as a concession to Republican opponents.

He offered to increase the amount of tax "forgiveness" for individuals under the withholding bill from 25 per cent, to the figure suggested by Nelson, to 35 per cent. But the Republicans ignored the gesture, called by Maier "a realistic one to meet a practical situation", and knocked it down promptly in a party line vote.

"Windfall" Proposal (A part of the appeal of withholding for the financial pressed Democrats was the "windfall" result of a withholding law. Current collec-

Considered by GOP

Republican comments during the floor argument disclosed publicly for the first time that Gov. Thomson and Republican legislative leaders two years ago seriously considered a "withholding" bill, but discarded it because it would mean too much harassment of employers. The explanation came from Sen. A. A. Laun of Kiel, who was finance committee chairman of the legislature two years ago.

Democrats jeered that one of the prime reasons for Republican resistance to the measure is the GOP's desire for a sales tax.

Busby Hits Proposal

Most Republicans have explained privately that they fear a withholding system will make income tax boosts less painful to the electorate and make the financial road easier for the Democrats.

Democrats had evidently hoped for some aid from the instant opposition of the business community when it was introduced last winter, but it jacks, for their independent voting habits.

But Sen. Allan J. Busby of Milwaukee, leader of the group, promptly blasted that hope when he denounced the Nelson bill as a "breach of faith," asserting that the governor had promised early inhis term to defer all major tax revisions until his "tax impact" study has reported in the fall.

Busby said he may vote for withholding later.

Senate GOP Leader Robert Travis denounced the measure as "double taxation, and nothing else."

Withholding would have applied to more than 1,000,000 individual income taxpayers and thousands of corporations. Farmers would have been exempt.

Individuals would have had their taxes due taken from their salaries or wages, as under the federal tax system.

Independently employed persons and business corporations would have been required to pay in advance and to file estimates, as under the national government's requirements.

The measure aroused the instant opposition of the business community when it was introduced last winter, but it had considerable backing from some of the labor organizations. Democratic state headquarters several months ago called for a grass roots campaign on behalf of the measure, when it became apparent that it was headed for trouble in the senate.

Soviet Leader Says Reds Will Not Start War

they would win they wanted war but I believe they have become wiser."

Khrushchev said people accused him of having said that communism would be the gravedigger of capitalism.

"All right, I did say it. But I didn't mean we would take shovels and dig their graves, only that history will inevitably give the victory to socialism—not voluntarily, we must struggle. The more organized working classes of the world there are the sooner that victory will come about."

Boasts of Might
Khrushchev said he had told recent American visitors: "We are stronger than you are. You have no intercontinental ballistic missiles. You send up rockets containing oranges. We send up rockets which can carry several tons. Imagine the size of the bomb that could be contained in our missiles compared to the size which could be contained in yours."

"You cannot equal us." His listeners cheered and applauded.

"We have much better equipment than the United States, which will never be able to catch up with us technically," Khrushchev continued. "We are first technically, but second to the United States in all economic fields."

The Soviet leader did not refer directly to the Geneva foreign ministers conference but, discussing the western position on Germany, he said:

"They say 'let's have elections?' We point out there are many more people in West Germany and so they would win. We say if East Germany agreed all right, if not we are not going to prompt them. On the contrary, we are going to support them."

Khrushchev asked himself when will the struggle between capitalism and communism end. He answered:

"When we have unified society all over the world, because all workers have the same interest, the best way to eliminate war is the gaining of power by communists all over the world."

After about an hour, Khrushchev apologized for speaking so long and said he did it because "I am an old man. As long as I am allowed to talk, I talk."

He spoke with bitterness about capitalists.

"I say to you capitalists, if there were a God and He could act He would take strong broom and sweep you out."

He went on to say capitalists are fond of quoting from the Bible. He said he could find his text there, too. He quoted accurately the story of Christ expelling the money changers from the temple.

"This is in the gospels," he said. "This is not a Marxist saying."

Discussing his recent interview with the former New York governor, W. Averell Harriman, Khrushchev said he consoled him on his election defeat by Nelson A. Rockefeller by asking "what's the difference to workers whether a Harriman or a Rockefeller wins?"

Khrushchev said he met Rockefeller in Geneva in 1955. "I talked with him and even drank a few brandies with him, but Rockefeller still remained Rockefeller and Khrushchev still remained Khrushchev. That shows there is no danger of contact between capitalist and communist."

At this point Khrushchev denounced the United States charges of building an Iron Curtain to keep Soviet visitors out.

"We do not refuse a single tries include about 10,000 railroaders, 3,700 Great Lakes seamen, 5,000 coal miners and nearly 2,000 in truck company employees.

Finnegan summed up the deadlocked situation yesterday when he stated:

"I don't think it's susceptible to easy or early solution."

At the direction of President Eisenhower, Finnegan had met separately with both sides in New York to explore their positions. He said after-visa to anybody," he said.

Predicting the demise of capitalism, he said he looked forward to the day when "capitalists are going to be kept in archives like old newspapers or newsreels. We will look at them as today we look at the remains of prehistoric monsters and say 'look, that was a capitalist.'"

Khrushchev claimed that in 1939 Britain and France wanted a war but wanted it fought between Hitler and the Soviet Union.

"Was Stalin right to sign an agreement with Hitler?" he asked. "At that time he was right. Stalin told me then 'We'll have to fight Hitler. He won't be satisfied with war against the west. He wants to fight us. Therefore we must gain time.'"

"Stalin was right. He was forced to do as he did."

"What was the result?"

ward he plans no formal peace moves until Monday.

Earlier, the union proposed—and the industry rejected—a plan to submit disputed issues to a 3-man fact-finding board. The industry said the facts already are well known.

The strike has brought to a standstill nearly 90 per cent of the country's steel-making capacity.

Most major steel users report they have sufficient steel stock-piled to permit uninterrupted production for at least several weeks.

System-wide furloughs went into effect today for 6,200 Pennsylvania railroad employees. This is the biggest single layoff so far as a result of the strike.

Central State Committee Heads Airport Drive

Wisconsin Rapids — A 15-man citizens committee comprised of business and labor leaders from Wisconsin Rapids, Marshfield, and Stevens Point has been organized to head a drive for construction of a central Wisconsin airport.

James Banks, a Marshfield sales manager, was elected chairman of the group at an organizational meeting Tuesday night. Stanton Mead, a Wisconsin Rapids paper manufacturer, was named secretary, while Edward C. Wotruba, a Stevens Point fishing tackle company president, was chosen treasurer.

Stevens Point has a municipal airport served by North Central Airlines. Marshfield and Wisconsin Rapids each have plans for airports.

Supporters of construction for an airport to serve central Wisconsin are attempting to ward off competition for airline service by various communities.

She was Mrs. Isabel Marz, accused of looting two vacant homes in suburban Shorewood of furnishings valued at $3,429. She is charged with theft and possession of stolen property, and with contributing to the delinquency of two juveniles involved in the looting of empty homes along an expressway.

Her attorney, Phil P. Murphy, said the woman was suffering from hysteria and used the towel because she didn't want her picture taken.

Social Drinker Worse Menace On Highway Than Roaring Drunk

BY HOWARD WHITMAN
It's high time at least three points are cleared up about the bottle and the throttle:
1. The social drinker is a worse menace on the road than the roaring drunk.
2. Coffee does not offset the effects of alcohol.
3. Chemical tests for drunken driving can be passed by many drunken drivers.
Let's take these one at a time.
The roaring drunk knows he's drunk, or at least everyone else does. To be sure, he's a potential killer when he gets behind the wheel, but the fact is he doesn't get behind the wheel nearly as frequently as the driver who's had "a few" and is sure he's cold sober.
"The real highway delinquent appears to be the so-called social drinker," states a report of the Association of Casualty and Surety companies. "The driver who has had just enough alcohol in his system to release his inhibitions, who has reached the

The rest has to be burned up, or oxidized, in the body. It takes time. If five drinks are downed in one hour, and no more is consumed, it will be at least 12 hours before the brain has burned up its alcohol. And drinking coffee won't hasten the process.
At the Harvard school of public health an individual was given the alcohol equivalent of eight highballs in four hours. He had reached the drunk level (.15 per cent alcohol in the blood)

Which of These Two Men Would be the greatest menace on the highway, the one who is thoroughly drunk or the fellow who's just "had a few"? Surprisingly enough, it's the latter, says the Association of Casualty and Surety companies.

This is the tenth in a series of 12 articles on today's drinking patterns and how you may be involved in them.

state of apparent stimulation, or has a false sense of well-being, is the one who forms a significant link in the casual chain of many traffic accidents.

"Since his moral code is temporarily relaxed, the driver with 'only a few' tends to abandon normal precautions. He often submits to an urge to use a heavy foot on the accelerator, to pass when other cars are approaching, to take over the right-of-way or create other tight squeezes as if he owned the road.

"Unfortunately, this 'superman complex' is acquired by the drinking driver at a time when his physical and mental qualifications for driving have been seriously impaired."

There's a catch here, almost a trap. People think the great danger in driving after drinks is impairment of the sheer physical ability to handle a car. It's a danger, all right.

Greater Danger

But more and more evidence points to a greater danger: the cockiness, the bravado, the puffed up confidence and the clouded judgment of the driver who's been drinking.

Dr. Herman Heise, of Milwaukee, chairman of an American Medical Association committee studying driver intoxication, asserts, "Many people firmly believe that if they don't run into a hydrant as soon as they drive with a few drinks under their belt, and have actually negotiated long trips in spite of a load of alcohol, then alcohol does not affect their driving. The loophole in such reasoning is that no man can judge the effects of alcohol on himself when all his judgments are somewhat added by alcohol.

Point 2 which needs clearing up is the coffee story. Some people have the idea that coffee "neutralizes" alcohol. Or that it somehow speeds alcohol out of the system. It does neither.

The virtues of coffee for one who's been drinking are (1) it may settle his stomach if he's about to get sick, (2) it may keep him awake if he's about to fall asleep, (3) he will be less drunk to the extent that he's drinking coffee instead of more booze.

Must Oxidize Alcohol

Once alcohol gets into the body, the phenomenon which we call "sobering up" is the process of eliminating it. Some comes out in the urine, some in the breath, and some through the skin; but these routes accommodate only about one-tenth of the alcohol in two hours and he stayed above that level for nine hours. He still had a blood alcohol level of .09 per cent (about half drunk) 14 hours afterward.

The brain, as far as we know, holds its alcohol to the last. It is eliminated from the brain even slower than from the blood.

Drunk Test

Point 3 to be set straight is the drunk test. Forty-six states use chemical tests to determine whether a driver is "under the influence" of liquor. The customary scale is:

Safe—.05 per cent of alcohol in the blood (two ounces of whiskey or two bottles of beer).

Questionable—up to .15 per cent of alcohol in the blood (six ounces of whiskey or six bottles of beer).

Illegal—over .15 per cent of alcohol in the blood.

That's what the law says. What does science say?

Tests were conducted at the medical school of the University of Washington, in Seattle, with electrically controlled driving apparatus and drivers scientifically primed with martinis, Manhattans, or straight whiskey.

Their ability to drive showed a measurable sag when the blood alcohol reached only .03 per cent (one to two drinks). When the blood alcohol reached .10 per cent (four drinks) ability to drive fell to 85 per cent of normal. When it finally reached the legal level of .15 per cent alcohol in the blood, driving ability fell to 70 per cent.

Law Too Lenient

Drs. T. A. Loomis and T. C. West concluded: "The results of the present study indicate that blood alcohol levels well below .15 per cent induce measurable objective impairment of the functions tested in the simulated driving test. All the subjects showed some impairment of function at blood alcohol concentrations of .05 per cent. Current law is thus too lenient, since impairment of function is present before the legal limit of blood alcohol concentration is reached.

"If the intention of such law is to enable legal action to be taken when impairment of function is present, then .05 per cent alcohol in the blood (now regarded legally as 'safe') should be considered as the base level at which a person is under the influence of alcohol for the purpose of driving an automobile."

If it takes six drinks to reach the present legal limit (and some laboratory tests suggest it takes eight to 10, all imbibed within one hour) then it's obvious that many an inebriated individual could get under a legal wire of a drunk test. Haven't you seen someone bombed on less than six?

Accident Chances Rise

Experiments at the University of Toronto, Canada, suggest that as few as four drinks in an hour will triple the driver's chances of an accident, while eight drinks raise the accident hazard 10-fold. Even two drinks, says the National Safety Council, may reduce the effectiveness of eyesight as much as wearing dark glasses at night.

New York Traffic Commissioner T. T. Wiley has challenged our electronics engineers to develop the "only real drunk test." He wants a device that would automatically immobilize a car if the driver has been drinking. What would it be? Perhaps an alcohol-sensitive plate that would catch the driver's breath and disconnect the starter on the scent of booze.

P.S. Last year a drinking driver was involved in 30 per cent of all fatal traffic accidents. In these accidents 11,550 men, women and children died.

BEST ENGINES!

One of 7 Big Bests Chevy gives you over any car in its field

Open invitation to excitement, the Impala Convertible... and America's only authentic sports car, the Corvette.

Try the hot one—visit your local authorized Chevrolet dealer!

You've got more to go on than our say-so: Every motor magazine has given Chevy's standard passenger car and Corvette V8's unstinted praise. SPORTS CARS ILLUSTRATED says it this way: "... surely the most wonderfully responsive engine available today at any price." And if you want the thrill of a six, you still get the best of it in a Chevy.

BEST ECONOMY No doubt about this: a pair of Chevy sixes with Powerglide came in first and second in their class in this year's Mobilgas Economy Run—getting the best mileage of any full-size car, 22.38 miles per gallon.

BEST BRAKES Not only bigger, but built with bonded linings for up to 66% longer life. Just to prove what's what, Chevy out-stopped both of the "other two" in a NASCAR-conducted test of repeated stops from highway speeds.

BEST RIDE A few minutes behind the wheel will leave no doubt about this. MOTOR TREND magazine sums it up this way: "... the smoothest, most quiet, softest riding car in its price class."

BEST TRADE-IN Check the figures in any N.A.D.A.* Guide Book. You'll find that Chevy used car prices last year averaged up to $128 higher than comparable models of the "other two."

BEST ROOM Official dimensions reported to the Automobile Manufacturers Association make it clear. Chevy's front seat hip room, for example, is up to 5.9 inches wider than comparable cars.

BEST STYLE It's the only car of the leading low-priced 3 that's unmistakably modern in every line. "In its price class," says POPULAR SCIENCE magazine, "a new high in daring styling."

Menasha City Officials Saw the filter room in the swimming pool Wednesday at the windup of a tour of park and recreation facilities. Recreation Director Robert Vanevenhoven, center, points to the filter chambers, explaining operations. ## Park, Recreation Program Needs Shown Menasha City Officials

Menasha — Elected and appointed city officials Wednesday saw the Menasha park and recreation department program in action on a guided tour and heard the department's needs.

Department personnel explained aspects of the program at tot-lots, playgrounds and the municipal swimming pool.

On the tour were representatives of the city council, board of education, park and recreation board and library board.

They were welcomed at the Memorial building by Robert Vanevenhoven and Harry Kargus, recreation and park directors, respectively.

Vanevenhoven told the group he hopes to add tumbling classes this year to the recreation program, especially for coordination teaching to youngsters.

Use Other Courts

Leo Kenney, tennis instructor, said three or four more tennis courts, in addition to the seven now in Smith and Sixth street parks are needed to offer tennis instruction to all interested. Now, he added, the chance to learn the game is "sparse."

For tennis matches, Kenney said, the local department must use courts in Doty park in Neenah and in Appleton, when there are many entries. Ted R. Neely, president of the board of education, asked Kenney if statistics on tennis court needs had been given proper authorities, the board of education and park and recreation board.

Vanevenhoven told Neely figures had been prepared and will be given in advance.

Oshkosh Bank Buys Hotel

Schedule Razing In 1961 to Permit Drive-in Facility

Oshkosh — Purchase of the State hotel property here by the Oshkosh National bank was announced today by Carl A. Biederman, bank president.

The building will be torn down in February of 1961 and a parking and drive-in banking facility erected. This will be the first for Oshkosh since the governor recently signed a bill permitting such facilities.

The hotel, an Oshkosh landmark for almost a century and formerly known as the Tremont house, is less than 100 feet from the bank. It is a 3-story structure with 111 feet on Waugoo avenue and 120 feet along State street, a block south of the Oshkosh library.

Leases for stores inside the hotel expire in February of 1961. The drive-in facility, designed mainly for paying and receiving operations only,

Reassessment of Neenah Looms in Next Few Years

Study Ordered by Council of Need for Property Revaluation

Neenah — Reassessment of the city of Neenah, the first in more than 20 years, may be undertaken in the next few years.

The council Wednesday night authorized Mayor Bell to name a committee to look into the various aspects and need of a reassessment. On this committee are to be the mayor, two aldermen and two other city officials.

The mayor said he would name the committee at the next council meeting.

Ald. Warren Sanders, reporting for the finance committee, said the committee had a long discussion Tuesday night with City Assessor Carlton F. Williams.

Neenah's assessment is about 37 per cent of the state's true value figure since it is more than 20 years since a complete physical assessment had been made. This makes it look like our tax rate is high, he said.

Sanders also said that in a period of more than 20 years, some inequities on valuations could arise.

3rd Lowest In Group

Mayor Bell today cited several statistics compiled by League of Wisconsin Municipalities which show that among cities in the 10,000 to 20,000 population group, Menasha has the lowest true value will be completely detached from the bank.

Until the time of the razing the bank will continue to operate the hotel.

ue tax rate and Neenah the third lowest.

The average for the 14 cities in this group is $23.46 tax rate per $1,000 of equalized valuation. Menasha's true value tax rate is $16.99. Two Rivers has a rate of $18.12 and Neenah is third low with a rate of $19.25.

The other cities below the average are Wisconsin Rapids with $20.07 and Cudahy with $22.17. The other cities in the population group with rates above the average are South Milwaukee, Beaver Dam, Marinette, Chippewa Falls, Greenfield and Ashland, the latter being high with $32.94.

Compared with the neighboring cities, Neenah's $19.25 rate is below Appleton's $19.35 and Oshkosh's $20.54 rate. Menasha's rate went up from $16.05 and Neenah's from $18.14 this year, on a true value basis. For assessments locally, Neenah has a $51 rate and Menasha $32 rate.

37 Pct. Assessment

Mayor Bell pointed out that Neenah has the second lowest assessment per true value of the 175 cities in the state. Whitewater is lowest with an assessment of 33.36 per cent of the state's true value figure and Neenah is next with 37.74 per cent.

Ratios of other cities in Neenah's population group are Menasha, 53.09 per cent; Two Rivers, 77.11 per cent; Wisconsin Rapids, 100.36 per cent; Cudahy, 52.8 per cent; South Milwaukee, 44.45 per cent; and Watertown, 104.53 per cent. The average for the 14 cities in the group is 63.10 per cent.

Of the 175 cities in the state, the mayor said, one, Port Washington, has a true value tax rate of under $15, 18 pay from $15 to $20, 57 from $20 to $25, 79 from $25 to $30, 17 from $30 to $35 and three from $35 to $40.

Neenah Girl Hurt

In Fall Out of Car

Neenah — Pamela Lillcrap, 3, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Lillcrap, Vera street, was bruised about the nose, back, hands, elbows and knees when she fell from a car driven by her father at the corner of N. Commercial street and Wisconsin avenue at 8:05 p.m. Wednesday. She was taken to a physician's office for treatment.

Her father said the daughter fell out the right rear door onto the pavement while he was making a left turn.

February Bidding Date Sought For New Neenah Junior High

Neenah — Opening of bids for the new Neenah junior high school about the first part of February and completion of the building by Aug. 1, 1961, is being aimed for, the school board was advised Wednesday by architects from the Perkins and Will firm of Chicago.

These dates hinge upon the architects securing a survey of the site bordered by Oak street on the east, Haylett avenue on the north and Higgins avenue on the west and also a soil test analysis.

The board authorized the securing of a soil analysis.

Ask Less Glass

Board members approved several of the changes made in the original plans submitted to them a week ago but asked the architects to try various designs to reduce the amount of glass in the cafeteria which faces east.

Board members thought the large expanse of glass along that east wall would cause a considerable heat loss in the winter and too much heat from the sun through the glass in the other parts of the year. They said they realized the esthetic beauty of the glass but it creates problems since the sun will shine through those windows for the larger part of the school day.

The glass section would be about 68 feet wide by 16 feet high, starting from 3 feet above the floor level.

An extra eight feet was added to the length of the southern wing and an entrance on the east side removed to enable adding 1,000 more square feet to the home economics section. Instead of one large room as originally planned last week, there will be two rooms in the home economics section, one for cooking and the other for sewing. This would handle 32 students in each section.

Supt. of Schools Harold B. Memmes indicated it was not likely that a "living center," desired by the home economics teacher, could be fit into the plan.

One of the other changes suggested by board members was to enlarge some of the classrooms. They felt the 23 by 28 foot size of some of the rooms would be too small and the architects said these probably could be increased to a 28 by 29½ foot size by

Neenah, Menasha Firemen, Boards Pay Tributes

Menasha — Four retired officials of the towns of Neenah and Menasha were honored by the present boards and other officials and members of the joint Neenah-Menasha town fire department Wednesday night at Gmeinweiser's at Stroebe's island.

Earl Hughes, himself a town Neenah chairman for many years previous to his retirement several years ago, showed slides and talked of his trip to Colombia, South America. Ken Heinz, outgoing chairman, paid tribute to the work of Hughes, a pioneer in county zoning efforts.

Heinz emphasized the need for vision of town officials in the rapidly expanding areas of the Neenah and Menasha towns and commended the retired officials for the thinking and decisions they had made during their tenures.

Honored were Ollie Jacobson, who retired after 17 years as town of Menasha chairman; James O'Conner, former chairman of the town of Neenah; A. T. Hudson, who retired as a town Neenah supervisor this spring; and Don Reinhardt, former town clerk and treasurer who also retired this spring.

Amos Page, present town Menasha chairman, paid a tribute to Jacobson and Laurel Heaney, town Neenah chairman, introduced the retired town Neenah officials. Firemen were introduced by Elmer Sievert, president of the volunteer group.

Neenah Board Views Changes In School Plan

The architects said they were trying to effect as many economies as possible to keep the building cost within the $956,625 cost approved in a referendum last year.

Location of the washrooms will stay as originally planned rather than being placed back-to-back because the economies in labor and fitting saved is offset by the need to increase the building size. It was pointed out. It would have required 200 more square feet for the washrooms if placed back-to-back.

Supt. Mennes inquired about the building being designed to permit addition of a health education room as part of the physical education setup at some future time when all the other rooms are filled to capacity. He wondered if the boiler room could be lowered and this room placed above the boiler room.

Officials Tour Menasha Park Facilities

Kargus told the touring group the Smith park pavilion about 75 years old, is about the oldest in use in the state. The master plan, he said, is for a new pavilion in Jefferson park, if the city helps. Little can be done with the present Victorian-style pavilion, he said, pointing out ancient, sagging floor timbers.

"Troop In" Kargus was joined by Vanevenhoven in telling of departmental worries when upwards of 600 teenagers "troop in" for dances in the summer. Garfield park, in the shadow of the sewage disposal plant, is the "most appreciated park because of the isolated position this part of the city holds," the officials were told. Needs there are extensive, Kargus and Vanevenhoven said — toilet facilities, water and a small shelter at least for storage of equipment.

The touring group saw the department's show wagon in rehearsal Wednesday afternoon for tonight's Garfield park performance — a talent show. Norbert Brunner, show wagon director, who was conducting the rehearsal told the group the show wagon's idea is to "give all youngsters a chance to perform in public, regardless of talent." He said an all-city talent show will wind up the summer show wagon season. During the summer, it stops at each playground for one visit.

Donate Water, Power Neighbors of the Garfield park area, the group was told, have been donating water and electricity for the program. For shelter, a small building now in Racine park might be moved to Garfield park, it was suggested. Two park and recreation board members informally concurred with the idea.

The archery instruction behind the high school building was pointed out from the cars as they passed. Adequate safety measures are used on the range for the 150 in the program, Vanevenhoven said. Clem Massey demonstrated his baseball instruction at Seventh street park.

Next year, Massey said, boys will be grouped more by ability than by age, for better instruction. This year, grouping is by age — 7-9, 10-12, 13-14 and over 14. About 650 boys are in the program. Dustless Diamond Kargus pointed out the diamond — dark in color and

Home Economics Project Members Participate in Demonstration Contest

Winneconne — "Honey of a Cheese Bread," "Ambrosia Dessert," "Wiener Wrap-Ups" and "Salads for the Sand-Box Set" were among the demonstration titles of 36 food and clothing demonstrations presented by Winnebago county 4-H members in the annual contest, Wednesday, at Winneconne Central school.

Judges were Phyllis Garside, Fond du Lac county home agent, and Joyce Schultz, Manitowoc county home agent.

In the clothing division, Susan Arens and Bonnie McLaren of United Uica club presented a senior team presentation and Barbara Witzel and Sandra Miller, Local Lasses club, a junior team demonstration. Judy Radloff, Mikesville club, was the only entry in senior individual class.

Individuals In the junior individual class, demonstrations were given by Sue Miller and Gail Zuege, Local Lasses; Rosemary Feyen, Golden Oak; Christine Grimm, Mikesville; and Susan Parsons, B-Square. "Chocolate Cakes and Chocolate Deluxe Icing" was demonstrated by Janet and Priscilla Pribbernow, Mathison, in the senior team foods division. Junior team demonstrations were given by Joan Sobieski and Dawn Kallas, Fair and Square; Joyce Brown and Jeanne Maxwell, Sally Breitreiter and Sue Kellett, Gillingham Girls.

Welcome Strangers To Plan Program

Neenah — YWCA Welcome Strangers club board members and interested persons will plan the program for the 1959-60 season at 10 a.m. Saturday at the home of Mrs. John Leshner, 106 Olive street.

Mrs. Oscar Dorn and Mrs. Ray Murphy. Another luncheon will be held Aug. 19. Mrs. Richard Meyer was named chairman of a bridge marathon to begin in the fall.

The Rev. H. E. Norenberg, pastor of the local church, will be camp director. Counselors from the church on his staff are Mrs. Harold Keen, Mrs. Norenberg, Richard Zwickey, Olivier Hoppe, and Mrs. Zwickey, secretary.

Junior high campers will be Ruth Norenberg, David Norenberg, Donna Blohm, Suzanne Williams, Billy Netz and Gerald Steif.

Elks Ladies Hold Luncheon

Menasha — Elks Ladies of Neenah-Menasha held a summer luncheon Wednesday at the Elks club with officers serving on the committee.

Prize winners were Mrs. Max Kern, Mrs. Anna Johnson, Mrs. Robert Bachhuber, dustless, achieved through use of playground oil, mixed in with the dirt. Fewer complaints have come from neighbors since the oil has been used, he said.

At Clovis-Grove school, on a lot is conducted this year. Future plans call for developing the city-owned land adjoining the school as park area. In the coming year, land immediately north of the school will be blacktopped, said Supt. of Schools M. J. Gegan.

Frank Meyer, swimming pool manager, told the group 38,585 swimmers had used the pool from its opening until Tuesday — an average of about 1,100 daily. After a walk around the pool, including a look in the filter and chlorinating rooms, the tour disbanded.

Women, 2nd Class Citizens in Church, Forum Leader Says

Neenah — From the beginning of church history, women have been second or third class citizens in the church, she declared.

Miss Helen Turnbull charged at the Wednesday evening forum session of the National Women's conference being held this week at American Baptist assembly.

Top policy-making boards of the church, both local and national, seldom have women as members, Miss Turnbull pointed out. "If the church is really the people of God, how can it fail to recognize that women also are members?"

Women do not contribute the same skills as do men, but they do have contributions to make, very necessary ones, she stated. Women have a "ministry of holiness and wholeness to make to the church." They can be in the world, but not worldly, and still not be alone in pride of self-righteousness, because they are members of the household of God, the church, she explained.

Cooperation

Another part of the ministry of wholeness, which women must work toward, is further cooperation between men and women in the church, she advocated. "Cooperation is not against men, but for the releasing and freeing of re-

Change of Diet Necessary For Vigorous Middle Age

New York — The most important insurance for a healthy and vigorous middle age is a complete change of eating habits.

If you are over 25, says an article in the new issue of Diet Treasury, it's time for a change — now at this time in life the mysterious process of aging begins. Excess weight, lack of pep, nervous irritability and miscellaneous aches and pains are all part of the middle age pattern.

According to J. Russell Tarantino, director of the New York Institute of Dietetics, middle age people no longer have the leeway in eating that they had earlier in life. Cells are unable to absorb nourishment and convert proteins into new tissue as fast — "equipment just isn't that efficient any more."

Just what is good food for a vigorous middle age?

Cut down on foods with a high caloric content. At 25 it is necessary to slowly decrease caloric intakes and concentrate on building up of foods rich in proteins, vitamins and minerals. Suggestions by diet experts on how to maintain steady weight are: Avoid emotional eating which has nothing to do with the body's need or nutrition; Don't eat rich desserts, fried foods, gravies and sauces; Don't eat out of habit if you are not particularly hungry.

Vitamin Loss

While your needs for calories decrease during middle age, your needs for other foods might actually rise. Loss of vitamins or minerals from a diet can mean trouble. For instance, lack of iron from a diet tends to give you a rundown feeling; calcium is necessary to maintain healthy bones and teeth; vitamins, such as B complex must be maintained for a healthy nervous system and Riboflavin must be included in a diet to keep up appearance.

These important "pep-and-appearance" vitamins are abundant in the foods adults oft-times leave out of their diet. It is essential during middle age to give great thought to maintaining a good "vitality diet" (More vitamins and minerals, less calories and fats).

In order to continue a youthful middle age, you should plan your eating around basic foods. Among the list are milk, eggs, citrus fruits, potatoes, green vegetables, meat, fish, poultry, whole grain breads and cheese.

Lyle Beck Herd $160,000 Gillingham Plat Project Okayed

Tops County in Milk Output

Council Authorizes Sewer, Water, Streets in 85-Acre Site West of 41

George Brennand Farm Has Highest Butterfat Average

Oshkosh — Top producing herds averaged over 56 pounds of butterfat per cow and more than 1,600 pounds of milk based on June summaries recorded by the Winnebago county Dairy Herd Improvement association. The high cow gave 107 pounds of butterfat and the high milk producer was 2,625 pounds.

George Brennand with 39 registered Holsteins in milk averaged 1,434 pounds of milk and 56.5 pounds of butterfat. The high milk producing herd as that of Lyle Beck, 25 registered Holsteins in milk, listed at 1,625 milk and 50.9 butterfat.

The next high herd was that of Earl Hughes, 26 registered Holsteins, all milking, 1,561 pounds of milk and 49.2 of butterfat.

A high grade Holstein herd, 23 all milking, belonging to Joe Scherer, averaged 1,453 milk and 49.2 fat and the high grade Holstein herd of James Clark, 39 head in milk, averaged 1,362 milk and 49.1 fat.

Other High Herds

Registered and grade Holstein herds were those of Dr. G. R. Anderson, 12 in milk, 1,372 milk and 47.3 fat; E. W. Atkins and Son, 27 in milk, 1,365 milk and 47.3 fat; Everett Lewis, 36 in milk, 1,356 milk and 46.3 fat; and Louis Jensen, 16 all milking, 1,177 milk and 45.1 fat.

L. W. Cowan and Son, with 78 registered Guernseys in milk, yielded 972 milk and 45.4 butterfat.

The top butterfat cow, with 107 pounds of fat and 1,820 pounds of milk, was a registered Holstein in the county hospital herd. The cow producing 2,625 pounds of milk and 97 pounds of butterfat was a registered Holstein in the E. W. Atkins and Son, Clark herd, 2,300 pounds of milk and 94 pounds of butterfat.

Wayne G. Bryan, public works director, pointed out the cost to the city is an "investment in the future" because the city will install mains and sewers larger than that needed to serve the area already annexed to the city, but big enough to handle future annexations in that area.

Instead of a normal 12-inch sewer and 8-inch water main, the size big enough to serve the area annexed to the city, an 18-inch sewer and 16-inch water main will be installed.

The share of Farms, Inc., of the estimated $66,937 sewer cost is $51,667 while the city will pay $15,274. The water main cost totals an estimated $74,520 of which Farms, Inc., high group also included one from the Winnebago state farm with 2,595 pounds milk and 106 butterfat; one in the Leo Anderson herd of 2,390 pounds milk and 91 pounds fat; Phil Lautenbach's "Elma Jean", 2,130 milk and 90 fat; and one in the George Brennand herd 1,970 milk and 90 pounds fat and another in his herd with 1,940 milk and 87 fat.

Grade Holsteins with high records were one in the Joe Scherer herd, 1,970 milk and 98 fat; one in the county hospital herd 2,210 milk and 97 fat; and one in the James Clark herd, 2,300 pounds of milk and 94 pounds of butterfat.

Motorcycle Ruined, Tavern Scorched in Fire, Explosion

Oshkosh — A motorcycle listed to a Myron Stumpner, route 1, Pine River, was destroyed and the front of Terry's Ranch house tavern on County Trunk HH in the town of Wolf River was scorched by flames in an explosion and fire about 10:57 p.m. Tuesday.

Robert N. Terry told county police two young men purchased gasoline at his station about 8:45 p.m. and then later two other youths returned with the motorcycle and asked for more gasoline.

He said he returned to the tavern when one of the young men came in and said the motorcycle was on fire. After the motorcycle was dragged away from the gasoline pumps into the center of the road, the gasoline tank exploded and flames shot out which scorched the front of the tavern.

The Fremont fire department was called and the motorcycle was dragged to the other side of the road. One of the young men said he noticed the gasoline line was broken when they returned for gasoline the second time. It was believed gasoline dropped onto the hot motor caused the fire and explosion.

No one got the names of the young men.

Macs Defeat Kaukauna, 14-3 As Balthazor Tosses 4-Hitter

Menashans Clout 4 Home Runs;
Felix Hits Grand Slam in Win

BY JIM HARP
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Menasha — Unloading four homers and getting a nifty 4-hit pitching performance from Tom Balthazor, the Menasha Macs opened second round play in the Fox Valley league with a 14-3 rout of Kaukauna here Wednesday night.

The loss gives Kaukauna a 1-1 mark for the second round. The Klubbers were runners-up in the initial half of play to the Little Chute - Kimberly nine.

Balthazor had his strikeouts ball working as he fanned 15 Klubbers and had a 2-hitter going until the ninth. Seven walks kept the strong-armed right hander in hot water throughout the game but he managed to regain his form each time.

Bob Karisny, Bob Felix, Fritz Heiss and Jack Konezke pounded homers for the winners. Felix's was a grand slam over the left field fence and sent the Macs off on a seven run uprising in the third inning.

Karisny socked his over the short right field fence in the second after Heiss had doubled to account for the first two Menasha tallies. Jack Konezke poled one on top of the Wire Works building in the fifth with Massey on base after a walk. It was one of the longest clouts of the season in the park.

Heiss pushed one over the right center field barrier with room to spare in the fifth, his second hit of the night. Heiss scored three times for the winners.

The Macs opened with a pair of runs in the second on Karisny's blast and then took a comfortable lead by counting seven in the third. Jack Konezke opened the frame with a single, Eggert skied to the left fielder for the first out and Kaukauna starter Joe Van Linn proceeded to walk Heiss and Karisny to load the bases.

Felix worked the count to 3-2 and then connected with Van Linn's fast ball and sent it well over the left field fence. Balthazor fanned for the second out but Jim Haack kept the inning alive with a single. "Butch" Konezke followed with a double that scored Haacks and "Butch" scored when Massey's grounder was kicked away in the infield.

Massey scored when Jack

Konezke laced a sharp single, his second hit of the frame. Eggert followed with another single but Heiss fouled to the catcher to close out the frame. Twelve Macs had batted.

Kaukauna counted its first two runs in the fourth when "Butch" Fahrenkrug opened with a single. Dick Busse grounded to Felix but the Mac third baseman fired it over the first baseman's head with runners going to second and third.

Bad Throw Dick Mulry grounded to Massey who booted it and Fahrenkrug scored. After the throw to the plate Busse tried for third, the throw got away and Busse came all the way to count.

Kaukauna added a run in the fifth when Jerry DeBruin walked. Two wild pitches put him on third base and a passed ball allowed him to cross the plate without the help of a hit or error.

The Macs kept pouring it on as they counted three more in the fifth as they gained revenge for a 10-9 loss to the Klubbers in the first round. Massey walked and Jack Konezke pasted his homer on top of the Wire Works plant. After Eggert fanned Heiss poked his four bagger to push the Mac margin to 12-3.

Final runs for the winners came in the eighth when Bill Gamme doubled down the right field line. Balthazor bunted and Jack Coenen, pitching for the Klubbers, tried to get Gamme at third but threw it into left field. Gamme scored and Balthazor kept right on running as the fielder had trouble locating the ball. Balthazor crossed the plate as the Kaukauna fielder searched long grass by the fence for the ball.

Van Linn lasted three innings for the Klubbers and Coenen finished up. Van Linn allowed nine runs and 12 hits in his brief stay.

Jim Haacks led the Mac hitting with three for four while Karisny had two for two and walked three times.

Cyclist Pleads 'Half-Guilty' in Oshkosh Court

Oshkosh — Two Twin City motorcyclists were arraigned in municipal court today on charges of improper driving, their cycles Wednesday.

Both were arrested by county traffic police about 2:15 p.m. on County Trunk P in the town of Menasha.

Marshall W. Elmer, 21, 930 Riverlawn street, Neenah, pleaded innocent of inattentive driving, and Wayne William D. Protheroe, 18, 63 Tayco street, Menasha, pleaded "half-guilty" to operating on the left side of the roadway.

Trial was set for both for 3:30 p.m. July 22.

Police said Elmer had taken both hands from the handlebars of his cycle while moving toward Highway 47. Protheroe, police said, was riding alongside Elmer at the time over the center line.

Wildcats, Sox Giants Score Neenah Wins

Post Triumphs In Recreation Summer Leagues

Neenah — The Wildcats, White Sox and Giants scored victories in Neenah Recreation league action this week.

The Wildcats posted their win in the Grade loop with a 5-3 triumph over the Badgers. The White Sox counted a Junior loop win over the Tigers by a 7-4 count and the Giants marked a 12-2 win over the Dodgers.

Four runs in the last two innings gave the Wildcats their win over the Badgers. The losers had a 2-1 lead going into the fifth when the Wildcats counted three tallies to see their margin fade.

Gets Three Hits

Nine hits were banged out by the Wildcats off losing hurler Dan Haertl. Dave Koehn was the winner and allowed the Badgers six hits, three by Haertl.

Larry Tesch pitched a 4-hitter as the White Sox won their third Junior league game against five losses. The Tigers now have a 1-7 mark.

Tesch also paced his team at the plate with two for two. Fran Goetz was the losing hurler despite limiting the winners to four hits. Nine walks kept him in trouble.

The Giants jumped off to a six run lead with three runs in both the first and second innings. They clinched it with a six run outburst in the sixth.

Don Althaus was the winning hurler and held the Dodgers to five safeties. The winners had 12 hits off George Goetz including three by Mory Handler.

The Dodgers had single runs in the fifth and sixth. Larry Tesch had two of the five hits, one a double.

Mims Defeats Benton on Decision

Miami Beach, Fla. —(P)—Holly Mims' manager is still worried, even though his clever fighter outpointed hard-punching George Benton in 10 rounds Wednesday night.

"I was afraid of this guy Benton," said Manager Nick Trotta. "He was the most feared middleweight around. I suppose now that we've beaten him we won't get any other fights for 10 months."

Mims, eighth-ranked middleweight who fights out of Baltimore, weighed 155½ as he tied up Benton's attack, refusing to give the 159½-pound Philadelphia puncher room. The winner concentrated on short right uppercuts in taking an unanimous decision in the nationally televised bout.

1848 Baptismal Bowl Presented To Doty Cabin

Neenah — Recent additions to the Doty cabin collection include a baptismal bowl used in the Welsh Calvinistic church about 1848, and a snuff box owned by Charles Doty, son of James J. Doty, Wisconsin's second territorial governor.

The snuff box was presented by Mrs. Ruth Falvey, 415 Park drive and a small cannon with the caption "Thunder" was given by Mr. and Mrs. George Yost, 767 S. Commercial street.

The Welsh Calvinistic church was located on division street near the present Neenah High school. It previously had been displayed at the Neenah library and was a gift of Miss Mary Price.

Attendance this season has been good, according to Harvey R. Leaman, curator, with a record 2,315 persons visiting the cabin thus far this year, compared with 1,988 last year. The visitors have come from 82 cities and 18 states.

18-Hole Golf Courses Will be Up for Sale

Jacksonville, Fla. —(P)—Jacksonville's two municipal golf courses — closed since April 7 when they were ordered integrated — will be sold to the highest bidders, City Commissioner Dallas L. Thomas said Wednesday.

The buyers will be required to operate them as golf courses for at least 10 years.

Former Braves' Skipper Is Dead of Cancer

Boston —(P)—Bob Coleman, 68, wartime manager of the Boston Braves, died of cancer today at Peter Bent Brigham hospital.

Coleman, who had spent a half century in professional baseball, was brought to the hospital recently after being stricken at his Evansville, Ind., home.

Mulrooney Hurls 1-Hitter In Marathon Softball Loop

Menasha — Bob Mulrooney pitched a 1-hit shutout as the Main Office scored a 17-0 triumph over Central Shipping in the Marathon Men's Softball league.

In other loop games Carton Finishing posted a 10-5 victory over River Street Plant and Carton Press pounded the Neenah Plant in a 20-7 rout.

Mulrooney displayed sharp control as he held the Central Shipping squad to the lone safety. Gene Bahlman slapped a homerun for the winners as they knocked out 14 base hits.

Lead Hitting

Jack Zolkowski went four for four and Gordy Abramson and Rog Thiel each posted three for four to lead the Central Shipping attack.

The winners scored four times in the first, second and fourth innings while sandwiching in five tallies in the third. The tilt was halted after five frames.

Carton Finishing trailed 3-1 after the first inning but made short work of the River Street Plant lead by counting five runs in the second.

The losers came back with a pair of runs in the fourth to slice the margin to one run but Carton Finishing scored a pair in both the fifth and sixth to ice the game.

Ankerson Homers
Herb Buss was the winning hurler with a 5-hitter to his credit. Mike Wisneski tossed for the River Street plant and also had a 5-hitter. Cliff Ankerson poled a homer for the winners.

Carton Press banged out 25 hits in their victory over the Neenah Plant. Harold Marx was the winner and Bob Currie took the loss.

Form New 3-Man Bowling League

Menasha — A new three-man bowling league has been formed at Muench's Recreation and is slated to open action Monday night.

The circuit will operate under the Peterson point system for a nine week schedule. It will be a handicap circuit sanctioned by the American Bowling Congress.

Expect 300 Cattle for Holstein Show

Oshkosh — An increased number of cattle will be on hand for the second annual Fox Valley Black and White show at the fairgrounds here Wednesday.

Last year's show brought out 185 animals shown by 53 exhibitors from the Fox River valley while this year entries have been received for showing 312 animals by 86 exhibitors. Winnebago county Holstein breeders are entering 69 cattle from 16 farms.

The cattle will begin moving in Tuesday and the showing will begin at 11 a.m. Wednesday with ribbon awards. Harvey Schwartz, Waukesha, a widely recognized Holstein judge, will serve as judge again this year.

Edgar Schoepke, Oakfield, is chairman of this year's show and John Bartlett, Oshkosh, is assistant chairman. The Fond du Lac county extension office has prepared the catalog of entries.

Entries are expected from nine Northeastern Wisconsin counties.

Melons Star in These Luscious Salads Of Summertime

Bleu Cheese dressing enhances the fresh fruit salad above that combines various melon pieces and seasonal berries. To make two cups of dressing combine the following ingredients in a jar and shake until blended: one-third cup vinegar, one cup salad oil, one-half cup pineapple juice, one-fourth teaspoon pepper, one teaspoon paprika and three-fourths cup crumbled Bleu cheese.

For a Buffet Service, here's a way of serving melon balls that is most attractive. Cut a chilled watermelon in halves, lengthwise. Make balls and cubes of the inside of the melon, removing seeds while preparing them. Scoop out the two shells as completely as possible. Fill the watermelon bowls with cubes and balls, adding other melon balls such as cantaloupe and honeydew for a pleasing color combination. Garnish the finished bowl with plump, ripe strawberries or other seasonal fruit.

Molded Chicken Salad is served on honeydew melon rings for a tempting combination. The chicken salad is quite simple to prepare. Soften one tablespoon unflavored gelatin in one-fourth cup cold water and dissolve over hot water. Combine one-half cup mayonnaise; one cup sour cream; one-half teaspoon salt; one and one-half cups diced, cooked chicken; one-half cup split, toasted almonds; three-fourths cup halved grapes, and one cup chopped celery. Fold in gelatin and pour mixture into six molds; chill until firm. Place melon rings on crisp lettuce and unmold a chicken salad on top of each ring.

Shake, Pinch, Plunk Methods Poor Ways To Pick Ripe Melons

BY LILLIAN MACKESY
Post-Crescent Food Editor

How can a shopper tell when a melon's ripe? Mostly by its looks, say commercial growers.

For a Summer Salad supper, left, fill slices of peeled and chilled cantaloupe with assorted melon balls and serve with a separate dish of chilled strawberries, banana sliced lengthwise and fresh pineapple chunks.

No, Ma'am, in spite of grandma's way of plunking a melon with the second finger snapping briskly from the thumb, it's better to know what the ripe fruit is supposed to look like. Nor does pinching, shaking, or poking help too much, except to do more damage than good.

It's true that the rind and blossom end of some melon varieties give a little under light pressure, but it's more probable that it has become softened by other, earlier Polly Prys.

Ripe Watermelons

With watermelons, it's easiest to buy those which have been halved or quartered. The flesh of a fully ripened watermelon is crisp and juicy, pink or red, depending on the variety. Those of good quality are firm, fresh and attractive in appearance.

The color of the upper rind should be uniform on the surface, giving the melon a velvety appearance; the rind color may range from a deep solid green to a gray, depending again on variety. The lower side of the melon should be yellowish in color.

The most popular of the cantaloupe varieties is the salmon-colored melon that has a sweet flavor, fine texture and pungent fragrance.

To be able to select a vine-ripened, mature melon there are two definite signposts. Look for a slightly sunken, smooth and well-calloused scar at the stem end. This means that when the melon was mature and ready for harvest, it separated cleanly from the vine, leaving this "finger" or "thumbprint" that tells the cantaloupe was picked at full ripeness.

The second guide is the netting effect of the rind. This netting on a vine-ripened melon is well raised and stands out in bold relief all over the surface of the cantaloupe. The color should be corky gray and the background of the netting lighter in color.

Honeydew Melons

To select a ripe honeydew melon, look for one that has a creamy yellow surface color and a velvety feel to the rind. During its evolution of growing, the honeydew starts out as dark green, changing to light green, whitish green, creamy white and finally to creamy yellow, the peak of good eating.

Since honeydews usually are cut from the vine before they are fully ripe, due to their high sugar content, the condition of the stem end gives little indication of its stage of ripeness as with a cantaloupe.

A ripe honeydew has a faint, pleasant fragrance and the flesh is a delicate green, very juicy, very sweet and fine-grained of almost melting texture. Somewhat oblong in shape, a honeydew usually measures from six to seven inches and weighs from four to six pounds.

Other Varieties

Other melon varieties that are lesser known are the round, large Persians with a deep green rind very evenly covered with a fine netting similar to a cantaloupe; the Casaba melon that is almost globe shaped with a rough rind, no netting and furrows running lengthwise; and the more perishable Cranshaw is green and gold, pointed at the stem end, round at the base. Most of these varieties are grown in California and Arizona.

Melon growers also give these tips on the care of melons. After choosing a melon, it should be washed and dried well before refrigerating. Then it should be wrapped well in waxed paper, aluminum foil, piffilm or transparent wrap to keep its special flavor in the melon and out of other foods.

Care must be taken not to overchill melons or the flavor will be lost. Never chill one by filling its cavity with ice. This dilutes the flavor that made the melon choice in the first place.

UW Alumni Plan Fall Jamboree

Plans for the annual Fall Jamboree scheduled for early September were made at a recent meeting of the Board of directors of the University of Wisconsin Fox Valley Alumni club. Co-chairmen of the event will be Dr. Ralph Kennedy and Del Hanke.

The Jamboree will include golf, bridge, dinner and entertainment. Don Bradley, chairman of the alumni club's extension site project reported that a portion of the Menasha site will be purchased by area UW alumni.

Activities of the state alumni organization were reviewed by F. A. Meythaler, the club's state representative. Sydney Jacobson who was chairman of the Haresfoot club presentation submitted a report and profits will be used by the Alumni club for its annual scholarship presented to students at the Menasha Extension division. Board members Del Hanke and Erik Madisen, Jr., assisted in the Haresfoot program.

Club president, Donald Herring, announced that a board meeting would be held in October to complete plans for the annual Christmas dance planned for the Appleton Elks club.

Marie Penterman Bride In Catholic Ceremony

Miss Marie Penterman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Penterman, route 3, Kaukauna, became the bride of Mr. Martin Engstrom, route 3, Kaukauna, at 10 a.m. today at St. Francis Catholic church, Hollandtown. The Rt. Rev. Msgr. John De Vries officiated at the nuptial high mass and double ring ceremony.

Miss Donna Clark, Appleton, served as junior bridal aid for her cousin.

The bridegroom's cousin, Paul Meyerhofer, Kaukauna, was best man and groomsmen were the bride's brother, John Penterman, Kaukauna, and Harry Van Nuland of Kimberly.

Following the ceremony a dinner will be served at Van Abel's hall in Hollandtown where a reception, supper and dance will be held this evening. After a honeymoon to the southern states, the couple will live at 113 Grignon street, Kaukauna.

A Kaukauna high school graduate, the bride is a secretary in the Boy Scout office in Appleton and her husband, who served four years in the navy, works for Badger Tissue in Kaukauna.

Deuce of spades.

Sometimes bidding happens which cannot be explained — even by a canasta player. Such a hand is this one. There can be no explanation of South's 6-spade bid. It is true that on many hands, South might be right but it also might be intelligent to see if North has the right cards. I might also add that there are hands where South would have no play at all. On any hand where North had the ace and king of diamonds as part of his no trump bid, South would be a decided underdog to make a slam. So, we have arrived at an impasse — we have a cold slam here and there is no way to bid it. Correct but I suggest that you miss "cold" slams like this and you will be a great deal better off in the long run.

If South's bidding was wild, his play was not and he succeeded in bringing a happy ending to the bidding catastrophe.

James Brown and Mr. and Mrs. Marinus Van Weel. Mrs. Jule Boggess was chairman of the evening's lunch committee. She was assisted by the Mes. Daniel Boldt, Jr., C. J. Giesbers, Norbert Dresang, John Frese, Mae Wegenke and Raymond Potter.

trope. Notice that West did not double even with his two aces and king. That action is not only admirable but sensible. If South was overboard, West could get only 50 extra points by doubling and he did not think it was worth it.

Great.
The opening trump lead was taken in the South hand and two more trumps were drawn, declarer ending in dummy with the ace. Now, the king of diamonds was led and when East played small, South ruffed it. A small club was led and West won the ace and returned a club which was won in dummy with the king. The jack of clubs was now led and declarer overtook with the queen in his hand — West discarding a heart. South now cashed his two good clubs as West discarded two more hearts.

Now a trump was played and West had to let go of the jack of diamonds as dummy came down to the queen of diamonds and the ace and ten of hearts. Declarer now played his last trump and West was a goner. He could not discard the ace of diamonds so he blanked the king of hearts as the diamond queen was thrown from dummy. Declarer now led a low heart winning the king with dummy's ace. The heart queen was trick number 12.

Tots Take Style Spotlight in Rome Showings

Rome — Tots and teenagers took the fashion spotlight from their elders today as the Italian high style fall showings got under way in Rome.

Wearing Zingone's specialized creations and their best behavior, the miniature models paraded down the ramp with professional aplomb.

Leather lapels and metal buttons are the latest thing in daytime trappings, but long-haired fur collars and pom-pom topped tam o'shanter seem here to stay, at least until next spring.

Zingone's collection stressed classic lines from kindergarten to junior high school, setting the pattern for senior styles that have not yet been shown.

Pleated plaid skirts are back in favor for grade school society, just as they are expected to be in the station wagon set. This year the tailored suburban look is getting the high fashion focus.

A Lovelier You

By Mary Sue Miller

Home Wave Tips

A lovely writes: I have just had a home perm. I used a well-known brand, but the ends came out frizzy and there's no curl on the top of my head. As my hair is quite short, I am at loss for a reason. Have you an answer?

Many damsels run into this problem. The cause is poorly-conditioned hair or inept waving.

To take a good wave, your hair must be healthy and properly shaped. To give short hair a good wave, you must prepare the head extra-skilfully. And therein is where women go wrong. They block and wind carelessly, and then expect the lotion to curl perfectly. This is not possible, as lotions only have the power to fix the curl you set.

While application methods vary somewhat with brands, all agree on these points: Systematically block in neat squares—large ones for loose curls, small for firm curls. Use correct size roller—large to neckline—on every square. While winding, keep strands stretched and even; turn roll-or in direction curl should lie at finish; fasten rollers snugly to head. Take a test curl in both front and back of head. You do, and you will get satisfying results.

Rule Your Waves? What's your hair problem? You will find a way to overcome it in my 16-page booklet, (Copyright, 1959)

Practice on Horn Irks Readers

BY EMILY POST

Dear Mrs. Post: Will you please tell me how we can (if at all) let our next-door neighbors know that their son who is taking trumpet lessons is driving us crazy with his incessant practicing? When the windows were closed during the cold weather we couldn't hear it too much but now that the windows have to be open, it is very nerve-racking. Is there anything we can do in a polite way?

Answer: You might open the subject by asking your neighbors if they would keep their son from practicing between, let us say, two and three o'clock, so that you can have the nap your doctor wants you to take every afternoon.

Meeting the Cook

Dear Mrs. Post: We have just built a beautiful house and whenever guests come to visit us for the first time, they ask me to show it to them—of course I am very pleased to do. However, when we get to the kitchen, I never know what to do about introducing the cook. I don't think she should be introduced formally, and yet it seems some introduction should be made when she is standing right there. Will you please tell me the proper thing to say in this introduction?

Answer: If she is busy, you don't interrupt her in what she is doing. But if she looks up,

At center is a shirtwaist dress in white satin with jeweled buttons designed by Mollie Parnis. At right is her narrow dress in nutmeg and gold lame with a matching evening coat.

From the House of Dior's New York collection comes this long dinner sheath in charcoal taffeta featuring floor length panels of pale gray taffeta draped over the neck to form a knotted stole. The gown was designed by youthful French couturier Yves Saint-Laurent.

Trigere Stops Show With Regal Styles

BY DOROTHY ROE

New York — The French have a word for it—elegant.

That's the way women should look at all times, says Pauline Trigere, Parisian-born designer who previewed her fall collection for 240 members of the fashion press today, drawing an ovation which stopped the show.

The slender, chic Trigere, who always wears her own clothes and loves them, shows a group of clothes for day and night, town and country, which would make any woman look like a queen traveling incognito.

Highlights of the collection are her "conquistador" capes—great, swashbuckling wraps shown for both day and evening, with huge cape collars which can be drawn up to cover the head. They are shown in velvets, in brocades and in wools, and are thrown back to reveal slim shafts of dresses, often in matching fabric.

Trigere also features many full skirts in suavely cut black silk dresses, the backbone of any Frenchwoman's wardrobe.

robe. Among these is the eight-pointed skirt, the points being in evidence at the hemline, umbrella fashion.

There is much width at the top in her gracefully draped afternoon dresses and also in the new suits, many of which are fur-bearing. Trigere favors the "ellipse" armhole, a graceful, elongated line, and shows also the "blossom" sleeve, tight on the forearm, and full above the elbow.

Shows Furs

With slender evening dresses she shows many shoulder capelets, of various furs such as broadtail, white mink or a newcomer, cheeta, first cousin to a leopard.

A series of theater suits have tailored jackets, slender ankle-length skirts and high-necked, long-sleeved blouses. One such is of a muted green plaid tweed, with white satin blouse.

Other New York designers who showed their fall collections today include: George Carmel, known for distinguished coats and suits; Paul Parnes, a specialist in wearable, ladylike clothes, and Originala, maker of fabulous coats for upper income brackets.

Trigere's remark as she commented on her fashions could be echoed by all designers:

"It's wonderful to make beautiful clothes, but it's also nice to sell them—and these are selling like what you call the hot cakes."

Scholarship Won By Manawa Girl

Miss Faye Lightfuss, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Erich Lightfuss, Manawa, has received a freshman scholarship to Wisconsin State college, Stevens Point. She is a 1959 graduate of Little Wolf High school, Manawa, being one of the three top honor students in her class.

Midwest Favorite

Midwestern favorite: add finely chopped maraschino cherries to chocolate-cake batter. Bake as usual. Some of the cherry syrup may be used in a white frosting for the cake and of course extra cherries will make a pretty garnish.

Do Youths Learn to Accept Murder, Violence as Sport?

BY ANGELO PATRI

Where we live in the country there are woods and brooks, birds and rabbits, squirrels and deer. Not too far away there are several large towns and in those towns are many small boys and boys not so small. Now there is an instinct in boys—in most boys at least—to go hunting, kill some creature and carry its dead body home triumphantly. "I got him."

There is, I well know, a wide span of time, experience and feelings between me and a boy. I can see the boy's desire to get out into the woods, the trackless forest of his imagination, carrying a gun ready to shoot the dangerous creature lurking in the shadows. His imagination is, unfortunately for all concerned, wide of the facts. The woods are not a trackless wilderness; the animals are not wild and dangerous; the hunt is not for his protection or is it for food. It is an answer to an old instinct whose use has long since passed for the boy of today. When he takes a gun into field and forest, he takes it for the fun of hitting a mark although that mark is a harmless, beautiful creature whose presence in the world adds to its beauty. Why then the hunt with the gun?

Adults Responsible Recently a group of boys, armed with 22's went to a woody place to play Indians. These were not little boys. They were in their early teens. They played among the rocks and trees and as one rose behind the rock that was his hiding place, his friends fired and hit him. He fell dead. Now imagine the feelings of the parents of both boys. Of course it was an accident but the boy was dead. Were not the adults who gave the boys the guns responsible?

It is all very well to say that boys should learn to shoot. I cannot see any reason why they should—but maybe there is one. If so, would it not be the better part of wisdom to supervise the boys when they are learning about a gun?

Would it not be common sense to make certain that no boy took a gun out of the house unless he was accompanied by an adult who was responsible for him?

Also, why must tiny boys—I saw one just learning to walk alone—be dressed in what is supposed to be a cowboy's outfit, with a gun each side of him and be taught to play "shoot-him-dead" games? Why should they see crimes of violence day after day on the home screen? It is not good for their minds which are being conditioned to accept violence, murder as entertainment.

Such experiences are what prepare boys to play games with real guns and ammunition. We ought to do better by the children.

Spoiled Brat Fights Over TV Shows; He Wants to 'Belt' Her

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN: I've been married to a spoiled brat for six months. We are both 23. The character-istics I once considered "cute" now get on my nerves. When she used to get mad at me and pout, I thought she looked adorable. Now I'd Ann Landers like to belt her one in the chops and put that lower lip back where it belongs.

Last night we argued about which TV channel to watch. I figured since she had her choice for two hours it was my turn. She stamped her feet and had a real tantrum. So I simply yanked the plug out of the TV set and said "O.K., let's both read."

She ran to the bedroom, locked the door, and it stayed locked until morning. I had to sleep on the couch. This is the third time in two months she's locked me out. Are we beyond help?—Sore.

Dear Sore: The wife who locks her husband out makes a big mistake. Some men might take this as a cue to try other doors—which might be open. Far better to stay in the same room and slug it out verbally. A good argument is much healthier than stony silence or complete retreat. You two need a third party to mediate this war. Not a friend or a relative—but a marriage counselor. If you've been married only six months chances are good this marriage can be set on the right track. Get going and good luck.

DEAR ANN: My little brother is a thief. He takes so I simply yanked the plug out of the TV set and said "O.K., let's both read."

neighbor told Mom she saw Sonny take it. Mom got mad at her, but we know now she was telling the truth.

Sonny is 10 and I'm afraid he's going to wind up in jail if he doesn't stop this. No amount of hitting seems to do any good. Daddy strapped him three times last week, but he took a dollar off the teacher's desk after that. What can we do about this problem boy?—Sister

Dear Sister: There is no such thing as a "problem boy". Only boys with problems. He needs professional help. I hope your father will stop hitting him with a strap and take him to a doctor who deals with disturbed children.

DEAR ANN: You may have 20-20 vision, but you're blind as a bat in one area. May I be your seeing eye dog?

A woman wrote she was fed up seeing her husband around the house in a moth-eaten sweater and old army pants. Did it ever occur to you that he might be the kind of guy who'd rather spend whatever money was available on his wife and kids? Not everyone can afford to buy "whatever is needed" for the whole family. Maybe this fellow deserves a bouquet instead of a boot, Ann.

I know about these things because I'm married to a selfish, egotistical man. Every year he has to have a new car so he can show off for the people at work. My old washing-machine fell apart in 1957 so now I wash by hand. He goes to the barber shop every Saturday and leaves our kids standing in the driveway looking like little urchins. If he took his eyes off the mirror long enough to pat them on the head he'd see that they need haircuts worse than he does.

I hope you'll print this for the sake of the unselfish and sometimes heroic men who sacrifice for their families. I know there must be such guys around even if I didn't get one.—Emmilly

Dear Emmilly: I am sure there are such men around, but the guy you refer to doesn't happen to be one. The letter clearly stated "he has a closet filled with nice clothes and he could buy whatever his heart desired—but he's a slob." Thanks for writing anyway. It was a good letter.

Does almost everyone have a good time but you? If so, send for Ann Landers' new booklet, "How To Be Well-Liked," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

(Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.) (Copyright, 1959)

Grand Chute Asks $500 for Aid in Council Blaze

Town of Grand Chute assistance in fighting the A. W. Council company fire on June 10 will cost the city $500, a billing from the town to the city revealed today.

City Clerk Broehm said the bill will be forwarded to the council's finance committee for a recommendation on payment.

The billing supposedly is controlled by a mutual aid agreement between the town fire department and city firefighters which could have resulted in a bill of $700. Fire Chief Neumann has said.

One alderman, in a recent committee meeting, said the city ought to charge the town for filling its tank trucks from city water hydrants if a bill is received.

The Council company is on Highway 41 at the far northeast corner of the city and too are from existing city services to permit use of water from hydrants during the fire. The city, limited in tank capacity, had to call the town for aid.

Otis' Invention Helped Make Early Elevators Safer

BY RAMON COFFMAN

Early elevators were employed to lift or lower objects which, together, were called "freight." Food supplies, pieces of furniture and so on were placed on platforms which rose to the second, third or fourth floor of a building.

In due course, elevators were made to serve people. This kept the passengers from becoming tired, but too often there was trouble. A pulley might become jammed or, much worse, the main rope might break. When the rope broke the passengers were in danger. If they escaped with their lives, they were likely to suffer injury.

During the first half of the past century, several inventors struggled with the problem of building safe elevators. Among them were Henry Watertman of New York and George Fox of Boston. Another pioneer was Elisha Otis, who opened a shop in Yonkers, N. Y.

A little more than a century has passed since Otis invented "the first safety device to prevent the falling of the car platform in case the ropes should break." His work marked a new chapter in the history of the elevator. Various other men have made safety improvements since that time.

The so-called "counterweight" was employed on many early elevators, as it is today. It balanced the weight of the platform or car. When it sank, the elevator rose. When the platform went down, the counterweight went upward.

That balanced the platform, but the problem remained of lifting or lowering the passengers or freight. Power came into use, and changes in water pressure made some elevators work. Later the work was taken over by electric motors.

A speed of six or seven feet a second was considered good during the past century. Today an elevator may travel more than 20 feet a second. One problem is to keep the speed down so passengers will feel comfortable.

For invention section of your scrapbook.

"The Story of the Alphabet" is the title of a free illustrated booklet Uncle Ray is offering to his readers. Just send a cut-out doll, clothes to color, envelope to Uncle Ray in care of this newspaper.

Tobacco Trade Feels It's Beat Tax Increase

But State Industry May Resume Fight With Administration

Madison — Tobacco trade sources believe they have defeated state administration proposals to increase their tax load, at least temporarily.

The legislature has balked at a proposed extension of the state's cigaret tax to cover all tobacco products, including cigars which provide a market for Wisconsin tobacco, and another suggestion to reduce the discount allowed tobacco distributors for affixing cigaret stamps to the state.

But the industry has been alerted for a resumption of the fight in the fall, when the legislature and Gov. Nelson expect to concentrate on spending and taxation matters to the exclusion of most other subjects.

Still Have Worry

But distributors are worried that if the discount and cigar tax proposals are defeated, the administration may turn to higher cigaret taxation, as did several preceding administrations on revenue hunts.

Each one cent of cigaret tax in Wisconsin yields nearly $4,000,000. The tax has gradually been increased, without significant reaction from consumers.

The dealers pass on the levy to the consumer, but they oppose increases because they have experienced, they say, a tendency for reduced sales and consumption as the price rises.

The Wisconsin Food and Tobacco institute is reminding state lawmakers that the combination of state and federal cigaret imposts now is the equivalent of a $50,000,000 yearly tax payment by the people of Wisconsin.

Wiley Asks Negotiations About Canal

Link Owned by Canada Could Be Bottle-Neck

Washington, D. C. — Immediate negotiations with the Canadian government about enlarging the Welland canal, a threatened bottleneck for the St. Lawrence-Great Lakes seaway, has been proposed by Sen. Alexander Wiley of Wisconsin.

The senior Wisconsin senate representative, who made promotion of the seaway his major interest during more than 20 years in Washington, made the proposal in his weekly newsletter to constituents.

Wiley hailed the heavy flow of traffic through the seaway during its first months of operation, but said the future offers "challenges and problems".

Among them is the necessity for improving the Welland canal, the link between Lakes Ontario and Erie which is wholly owned and operated by Canada.

Wiley also called for: Further development of American port facilities to handle maximum flow of trade.

Dovetailing water traffic with railroad and road facilities for expeditious handling of goods and services.

Deepening and improving connecting Great Lakes channel.

Establishing seaway charges that will attract trade and still pay off the debt for the seaway construction.

Pan-American Nations Plan Meeting to Halt Unrest in Caribbean

Washington — The foreign ministers of the 21 American republics will meet soon—possibly in early August—seeking both to quell Caribbean unrest and to promote democratic principles.

They may name a watchdog committee for the Caribbean, and move for stricter implementation of human rights.

The council of the Organization of American States unanimously voted Monday to call the meeting. The place and date have not yet been set.

The Dominican Republic requested OAS action after it was twice invaded by revolutionaries it said were backed by Cuba and Venezuela.

Cecilia Anderson and Tom Kiley are two of 150 Appleton High school students giving up nine weeks of vacation for an intensive summer school session. They are studying art. Other courses are offered in algebra, geometry and typing.

9-Week Schedule

AHS Summer Classes Efficient, Effective

Intensive, high-speed learning in summer courses has proved an effective and popular program at Appleton High school, according to Werner Witte, assistant principal.

It's a well known fact that students can learn more when studying one thing at a time, Witte explains. And when the courses are taught four hours daily for a 9-week period with extremely strict attendance requirements, learning reaches what Witte calls almost ideal proportions.

Summer school is no snap for students these days. Work begins precisely at 8 a. m. Monday to Friday in Appleton High school classrooms. There is no vacation from the routine for either students or teachers. Three absences, and a pupil is dropped without further delay.

Says Witte, "We can't be that strict during the school year."

And the students live up to their responsibilities. Walk in to any of the four classrooms, and students are bent over their work, concentrating on completing the day's quota.

Make Up Classes Despite the hard assignments and long hours, the program has boomed in popularity. Enrollment stands at about 150 for the credit courses in algebra, geometry, typing and art and at about 300 for the non-credit music courses. The figures have been growing yearly since the courses were started about 15 years ago.

Some students are forced to attend summer school in order to make up deficiencies required to graduate. But most of them are dedicated scholars who want to pick up the extra credits in order to broaden their educations.

For example, a girl enrolled in a commercial course has no time for geometry during her school years. Yet she might attend college and will need a geometry course if she does. So she takes geometry in summer school.

Art New In a few instances, when approval is given by the high school principal, younger, brighter students can take algebra and geometry, enabling them to complete their high school mathematics in two or three years, rather than in four.

This is the first year that art has been taught as a summer course, but it's popularity indicates that it will be continued, Witte said. Students work at various levels in the art course, but it is designed as a first-year class.

Teachers and their courses are Carl L. J. Voecks, algebra and geometry; Herbert A. Simon, typing, and Jack Checkis, art. Checkis teaches at Webster Stanley Junior High school in Oshkosh. The others are Appleton teachers.

Best Food Buys Found On Produce Counters

The Fox Cities housewife will find her food bargains on the produce counters again this week, as beef prices have remained generally stable and pork, down a few cents last week, has taken a slight rise this week.

Fruits become better buys as the summer goes on, and this week melons and green grapes are especially good, both in price and quality.

Markets are featuring watermelons at 70 cents to $1.09 for a whole melon and 33 cents for a chilled quarter section. Cantaloupe are 23 to 25 cents each this week, and green grapes are 19 to 29 cents a pound.

Other featured fruit buys are California navel oranges at 39 cents a dozen, plums at 15 to 29 cents a pound, and peaches at 15 cents a pound. Lemons are 5 cents each and limes can be found as low as 39 cents a dozen.

Other Fruit Prices
Bing cherries, still not at the peak of their season, remain 49 cents a pound.

Other fruit prices are blueberries, 33 cents a pint, red grapes at 19 cents a pound, Valencia oranges at 49 cents a dozen, pears at 18 cents a pound, strawberries, at the end of their season, at 45 cents a quart, raspberries at 59 cents a quart and pineapples at 29 cents each.

Beans, down from last week at 17 to 29 cents a pound, and lettuce, at 17 to 19 cents a head and 9 to 15 cents a bunch, are among the best of the generally good vegetable buys.

Potatoes Good
New and California potatoes also are good at 8 and 9 cents a pound. Sweet corn, appearing on market shelves but not yet at the peak of its season, is 5 cents an ear.

Other vegetable prices are carrots at 15 to 29 cents a bunch, cucumbers at 8 to 13 cents each, tomatoes at 39 cents a pound, green peppers at 6 to 8 cents each, radishes at 5 cents a bunch and pod peas at 20 cents a pound.

The picture at meat counters is somewhat dimmer, as it usually is during the summer months. And again, as usual, frying chicken at 33 to 39 cents a pound is the best protein buy.

Best Pork Buys
The best of the pork cuts, which are generally higher this week, are spare ribs at 45 to 53 cents and pork butt at 39 to 43 cents. Center and loin cuts of pork chops are higher at 79 to 85 cents, and pork steak is up to 55 cents.

This week pork loin is 55 cents, center cut pork roast is 39 cents, pork tenderloin is 69 cents, and pork loin roast ranges from 39 to 79 cents, depending on the cut.

Beef prices, which generally have remained steady, are sirloin tip roast and boneless rump roast at 95 cents, chuck roast at 55 to 65 cents, standing rib roast at 89 cents, higher than last week, and boneless stew at 75 cents.

Steak Prices
Steak prices are 89 cents a pound, $1.29 for porterhouse, 65 cents for center cut chuck, $1.05 to $1.09 for sirloin, $1.35 for T-bone, 95 cents for boneless sirloin tip, and $1.15 for boneless short rib.

Lamb prices include leg of lamb at 79 cents, chops at 83 to 85 cents, and spring lamb steak at 75 cents.

For barbecue and outdoor cooking enthusiasts, bratwurst is higher this week at 55 to 69 cents, cornish hens are 63 cents, frankfurters range from 55 to 79 cents, and ground meats are 45 to 49 cents for beef, 69 to 79 cents for chuck and 85 to 89 cents for round.

Large Grade A eggs remain about 42 to 45 cents a dozen.

Dough Spiral-Wrapped Around Stuffed Franks

Simmer eight large franks in water five minutes. Split, leaving hinge, and fill with mixture made of one and a half cups grated Cheddar cheese and two tablespoons each minced onion and prepared mustard.

Now make "blankets" to wrap franks in: place in bowl three cups biscuit mix, two tablespoons mustard, one and a half teaspoons chili powder. Add two-thirds cup milk; stir until blended. On floured board, roll into 12-inch square; cut into eight strips. Spiral-wrap strips around franks, pinching ends to secure.

Place (with space between) in 2-piece grill basket. Cook, turning often, four inches from coals about 10 minutes, till brown.

Sardine Gumbo, a Tasty blend of sardines, spices and hot cooked rice, fares well in these individual dishes—for special occasions or an everyday treat.

Maine Sardines Popular For Salads, Sandwiches

BY EDITH M. BARBER

Maine sardines are plentiful in the coastal waters.

While all sardines are small, those from this state are larger than the average and very meaty. Each sardine canner has his own specialties that differ in regard to sauce and seasoning.

Barber

Perhaps sardines have their largest use in sandwiches. They are often featured with antipasto and make an excellent spread for canapés. They add a flavorful touch to potato salad and stuffed eggs. For a hot dish, sardines may be combined with rice for a Louisiana gumbo that is neither soup nor entree.

Sardine Gumbo
2 cans (4 ounces each) sardines
1 large onion, sliced
1 cup thinly sliced celery
2 tablespoons salad oil
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon basil
1 can (16 ounce) tomatoes
1 cup water
1/2 teaspoon sugar
1 tablespoon cornstarch
1 cup cooked okra
Cooked rice

Drain sardines. In heavy saucepan, sauté onion and celery in salad oil until tender. Add salt, basil, tomatoes, one-fourth cup water and sugar. Simmer, covered, 30 minutes. Blend cornstarch and remaining water to smooth paste and stir into tomato mixture. Cook, stirring constantly, until sauce thickens and boils one minute. Add okra and sardines and heat. Serve over hot cooked rice.

Sardine Pizzas
2 cans (4 ounces each) sardines
1 1/2 cups drained canned tomatoes
3 tablespoons chopped green pepper
2 teaspoons grated onion
4 English muffins, split and toasted
8 slices American cheese
8 pimiento strips

Drain sardines. Combine tomatoes, green pepper and onion. Place on toasted muffin halves. Top each half with slice of cheese and one or two sardines. Broil until cheese melts. Serve hot, garnished with pimiento strip.

Curried Apples Easy Dessert for Baking

We suggest Curried Apples for a delicious treat.

To prepare: Boil together for 10 minutes one-third cup water, one cup brown sugar, one teaspoon curry powder and one tablespoon butter.

Pour syrup over six peeled and cored apples in baking dish. Bake in 350 degree oven about 45 minutes or until apples are tender. Baste frequently with syrup.

Canned Lobster Dish

Want a delicious main dish for a bridge-luncheon? Bake thin 5-inch pancakes and roll them around a filling of creamed canned lobster.

Rude Russian Visitor Kozlov May Have Learned Something on Trip

BY GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY
New York — Great men from many countries pass through the port of New York day in and day out. Most of them attend to their own business and occasionally are interviewed by the press, but not often. Sometimes there is a state visit when a king or queen or president shows up; then there is a ticker-tape parade and the mayor gives a luncheon at the Waldorf-Astoria and that is that.

However, let a Russian come to town and all business stops. Everybody is ordered by the state department to get busy entertaining the Russian and to be careful not to offend the creature lest he get angry and tell Khrushchev on us!

When Asastas Mikoyan kind of sneaked into New York as a tourist, the preparations were so secret that only a few hundred people knew about them. When he switched from a tourist to an official, all the formalities were readied for him and a group of businessmen had prepared expensive but private banquets for him all over the United States.

Russian Peasant
Mikoyan, being an Armenian, has a lighter touch than Kozlov, who is a heavy Russian peasant type. Mikoyan's sense of humor was attractive; Kozlov angers too quickly and an angry man often talks too much. Kozlov talked too much and beyond his knowledge on several occasions, particularly when he blithely announced that Russia had paid in gold for the aid we gave its hungry people in the early 1920's.

When Kozlov said that, he lied and the record of his lies in correspondence between Herbert Hoover and the leaders of Russia at that time. A smart man would have been thoroughly briefed on Russo-American relations before he came to this country.

Also when Kozlov got into his argument with Gov. "Soapy" Williams, Kozlov talked like a fool. Again he should have been better briefed. A governor of Michigan, if he knew anything at all, would be well-informed about such countries as Poland and Hungary. Hamtramck, a city within a city in Detroit, probably has the greatest concentration of people of Polish blood anywhere in the world outside of Warsaw. It is, indeed, a little Poland. A Michigan politician would have a pretty clear idea of what Poles in the United States think.

Nearly Rude
Although people of Hungarian extraction are not as numerous as the Poles in Michigan, they are a large segment of Governor Williams' constituency. From the Poles, the Hungarians, the Rumanians and the Finns in Michigan, Gov. Williams has heard plenty about the doings of Soviet Russia in those countries. Kozlov so lost his temper during his discussion with Williams that the conversation became rude.

But he got no quarter from Adm. Hyman Rickover, who welcomed him at the Shippeningport, Pa., atomic power station. Rickover has yet to discover the gentle art of diplomatic palaver. He says what he has to say, straight to the point, and usually has had his way because he asks for little enough for himself.

It was stupid of Kozlov to attempt to downgrade Rickover by telling him that such a man as the admiral would be president or vice president of the Academy of Sciences in Russia—the job that pays the highest salary in that country of 360,000 rubles a year, which, if you live in Russia, is a lot of dough. Rickover holds several jobs but only gets the salary of a vice admiral which is small enough.

Monetary Conversation
As the story was reported: "Adm. Rickover expressed surprise at Mr. Kozlov's reference to payment, and asked: 'Is Mr. Kozlov interested in money?'"
"Everybody needs money," Mr. Kozlov replied. "We need to live and for that we have to buy food and clothe our-

Saving to State If Congress Cuts Aid $17 Million

The Wisconsin State Chamber of Commerce has estimated that Wisconsin taxpayers will save $17,825,600 if congress cuts 21.8 per cent, or $857 million, out of the almost $4 billion sought by the administration for foreign aid. The 21.8 per cent figure is the average amount of the cuts that congress has made in the last six years in foreign aid requests of the administration.

Interpreting foreign aid figures in terms of taxes that must be borne by Wisconsin, the state chamber showed that this state has already paid $1.677 billion for foreign aid from 1945 to date. The $3.9 billion requested by the administration for 1960 would cost $81,744,000 more.

The state chamber estimate was based on a mathematical formula which shows that Wisconsin taxpayers bear 2.08 per cent of the total federal tax burden.

The state chamber declared congress should reduce the administration's aid request at least in proportion to the cuts in the last six years.

selves and to buy the many other things that you people buy too."

To tell that to Rickover, who in private industry could earn whatever he chose to demand but who prefers to stay in the navy and serve his country, is to disclose the spiritual poverty of communist logic.

When Kozlov got busy with his peace propaganda, Rickover said to him:

"It's all right to talk about peace. Now you go home and do something about it."
Kozlov may have learned something on this trip. When the next Russian shows up, we might treat him like a human being instead of a curiosity—and leave him to his own devices.

Gentleman Thief Glad Career Comes to End

Los Angeles — Iain Anthony Hemensley, self-styled gentleman burglar who reaped a fantastic haul working in broad daylight, knew all along he'd eventually wind up where he is today — in jail.

But the dapper visitor from southern Rhodesia — credited with making off with between $50,000 and $100,000 in loot in six months — says his fling at crime "was fascinating while it lasted."

Admits 50 Thefts

Hemensley, in the United States on a visitor's visa, told police he committed at least 50 burglaries during his stay, striking at the homes of the rich while they were away.

Actresses Zsa Zsa Gabor and Rosemary Lane are listed among his victims.

Hemensley's method was bold, but he figured that was the smart way to play it. "I got away with it for a long time," he said, "because of a Japanese philosophy which I applied to crime. You take the obvious and reverse it, and then do the obvious and it remains unobvious."

Flashy Cars

One of the obvious things about Hemensley's routine — outside the fact he worked in daylight — was the way he went to work. He drove to and from his jobs in a flashy white convertible. Trouble is, the car was stolen and Patrolman Don Ferguson spotted Hemensley driving it Sunday. That's how he landed in jail.

Hemensley, who said he spent four years in medical school and served as a British paratrooper during World War II, gave conflicting versions of his motives. At one point he said he took to burglary mainly "because of the adventure it offered," and also to furnish his honeymoon apartment. He recently married a nurse.

Felt Relief

But he also said: "It's difficult to tell why I did it. I felt no real enjoyment or excitement from it. Only the feeling of relief when they caught me."

At the home of one of his victims, Hemensley wrote a verse in lipstick on a mirror before leaving. It read: "It is with regret your goods I begot, but for over a week I should be imprisoned."

"I should be imprisoned," he said.

Council Limits Access to South Side of 41

The city council Wednesday designated Highway 41 as a limited access highway.

This will prevent driveways and other entrances or exits from being constructed to the highway, city planning commissioners, who made the recommendation, said.

Buildings constructed on the city side of the highway will have entrances on a service road which the commission is requiring in all new plats, or on a street south of the highway, if the plat does not want the service road.

The council also decided to ask the county board to take similar action when the highway is abandoned by the state upon completion of new 41.

Ald. Roy Pointer asked for the limited access because, he said, the highway will some day be a city thoroughfare and should be protected from encroachment.

At the home of one of his victims, Hemensley wrote a verse in lipstick on a mirror before leaving. It read: "It is with regret your goods I begot, but for over a week I should be imprisoned."

"I should be imprisoned," he said.

your SOCIAL SECURITY

Q. I am already retired from my regular job and drawing social security. I own a farm and have a tenant on it who works it and pays me shares of rentals. What does social security care what I have to do with the farm, where I myself am not actually farming?

A. The congress has intended that earnings from personal services, rather than income from investments, count for social security purposes and so the law reads the rentals from real estate are not social security earnings. When it expanded social security to farm operators, congress originally provided that farm owners whose farms are worked by another person under a tenure arrangement received "rentals from real estate" therefrom, not counting as earnings from self-employment. Later, congress amended the definition, so that land owners' earnings are considered to be income from a business activity if he materially participates in the farm operation.

A. What does that have to do with me—I told you I am already retired?

A. If you materially participated in the production, or in the management of production of farm commodities on your land, you aren't entirely retired. Your income from the farm is considered to be earnings from work and can affect your right to receive your social security checks for some or all months of the year. It's the same whether you have had other work which qualified you for benefits, or whether you qualified through these same rentals or shares from your farm tenant. Loaded Dump Truck Runs Over, Kills Man

Janesville — Russell B. Kries, 39, Eau Claire, was killed Wednesday when he was run over by a loaded dump truck on a highway construction project. Kries evidently slipped beneath the wheels of the truck after alighting from the vehicle he was driving, authorities said.

An Enthusiastic Crowd Filled the grandstand at the Seymour fairgrounds and responded heartily to the country music of the Red Foley show Wednesday night at the first of three performances scheduled as

Capacity Crowd Remains Until Last Note of Red Foley's Country Music

Red Foley, the old master himself, served up his special brand of country music in fine fashion for a capacity crowd of 2,000 to open the 5-day Outagamie county fair at Seymour Wednesday night.

Foley was supported by Slim Wilson, his Tall Timber Boys trio, Betty, Foley's daughter, Uncle Cyp Bras-himself, served up his special field, country comedian, and brand of country music in fine an excellent group of teenage square dancers, the Ozark Promenaders.

Red himself got things off to a flying start with vocal renditions of the numbers that skyrocketed him to national prominence. He started with the sentimental "Old Shep," and bounced through "Chattanooga Shooeshine Boy" in a way that had the audience clapping hands and stamping feet.

Uncle Cyp, a country favorite, was funny enough at times but he was on too long and some of his jokes were risque, the kind of jokes which are cut out of his TV script.

The duets sang by Red and his daughter were good but when Betty sang alone, she did not meet the standards set by her father. Her voice boomed through the speakers too loudly and she left her audience a bit restless.

Power failures caused microphones to go dead and stopped the show several times. Much of at least one act involving Uncle Cyp and Foley's wife was lost to most of the audience.

Red's rendition of the lovely Negro spiritual, "Steal Away" was one of the high points of the show.

The power troubles will be fixed for the Foley shows to be presented this afternoon and tonight.

Council Wants Plumbing Fees Upped by Half

Appleton aldermen Wednesday approved a 50 per cent increase across the board for city plumbing inspection fees.

They also voted a penalty fee for fixtures or openings of fixtures for which the plumbing inspector finds there is no city permit. The penalty would be $5 for each such fixture or opening.

Fees for two types of installations which previously were not subject to fees for inspection were added.

May Seek Ravine Land for Parking, Opening Street

The board of public works probably will try to buy enough land in the Packard street ravine to open Franklin street across the ravine and create a parking area.

Board plans were indicated Tuesday in a discussion after Mayor Mitchell reported 8 of 10 ravine owners Monday indicated a willingness to sell.

Inspector Walter Bogan on proposed increases in the building permit fees. Talks will be continued next week.

Has Made Neophyte Head of Aviation Base

Newark, N. J. —(AP)— Guy Drake can't fix airplanes or fly them but at 27 he's head of the Newark Air service at Newark airport, one of the country's largest general aviation bases.

"Aviation - wise I'm just a neophyte," says the blond executive who took over the family business a year ago and since then has made it pay.

Drake has started serving pots of coffee to pilots and customers who look like they need a lift. "It's just a question of applying the important service philosophy of keeping the customer happy," he says.

Name Winners In 2nd Boys Archery Shoot

Competition Held
In Four Brackets
Of Recreation Event

Kaukauna — The second archery meet of the summer was held Wednesday by students in the recreation department classes.

The youngest group shot at a 36-inch target while the three older age groups shot at a 24-inch target. Winning in the seven and 8-year old category were Tom Busse with 34 hits and 162 points. Bernie Van Zeeland has 23 hits and 105 points; Terry Kobin, 18 hits and 86 points; Pat McPhail, 13 hits and 80 points and Paul Haen, 18 hits and 78 points.

Jeff Kobin, with 21 hits and 82 points, won the nine and 10-year old competition followed by Bruce Specht with 17 hits and 77 points. Al Jansen with 19 hits and 73 points, Jim Ebert with 14 hits and 70 points and Pat Coffey with 17 hits and 65 points.

Other Winners
Leading the 11 and 12-year old competition was Steve Kappell with 32 hits and 166 points while Dennis Gerhartz had 33 hits and 161 points. Other totals showed Mike Blenke with 25 hits and 107 points, Dennis Borree with 25 hits and 106 points and Tom Cleveland with 24 hits and 101 points.

Roger Leick was the winner in the 13-year old and up group with 35 hits and 144 points. Jim Jansen finished with 31 hits and 139 points while Tom Borree had 26 hits and 118 points, Ron Van Hammond had 24 hits and 92 points and Jeff DeBruin had 21 hits and 85 points.

Men's Tennis Meet Planned

Kaukauna — The recreation department will sponsor a men's doubles tennis tournament with registration to remain open until noon July 22.

Adults planning to participate are asked to register by calling Harold Kobin, tourney director. Entrants must be residents of Kaukauna and be high school seniors or older. A schedule for matches will be set up and published after it is ascertained the number to compete.

All play is to be concluded by Aug. 5. A time limit will be set for completion of each round and players failing to meet this time will forfeit matches. Awards will be given first and second place winners and the persons taking consolation honors.

Air Force Captain Visits Kaukauna

Kaukauna — Capt. and Mrs. Richard J. McGrath and family, are visiting at the home of Mrs. James McGrath, 119 E. Tobacco street.

Capt. McGrath is executive secretary of National SAC Aero club and stationed at Offutt Air Force base, Omaha, Neb.

To Your Good Health

A Little Alcohol Often Proves Helpful Tonic to Oldsters

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

"Dear Dr. Molner: Is it true that:

"Alcohol is better than milk in the diet of elderly people?"

"Calcium in the milk can cause poison in an older person's system?" — Mrs. A.M.Y."

I won't answer your question as you have phrased it, because it doesn't make sense, and I think you know it.

On the other hand, I am aware of the controversy which led you to ask the question, and you are certainly entitled to my opinion.

Comparing alcohol and milk, just isn't reasonable, any more than a farmer would ask whether it is better to plow a field or use fertilizer.

I will say and I am quite aware that some people will criticize me for saying it — that a little alcohol is often helpful to oldsters. A bit of wine, a cocktail, or highball, or glass of beer may perk up the appetite or help relax the system.

The dedicated foes of alcohol will, of course, take offense at this. I can only say that moderation in this, as in so many things, is the important aspect. Moderation — not being an extremist in either direction.

And I cannot help saying, in passing, that it is fact, not fiction, that uncounted temperance people who have inveighed against alcohol in any form have found that they themselves felt better if they took a tablespoon or two of a tonic which was as high in alcohol as any cocktail ever served in a bar.

As a physician, I would not prescribe an alcoholic drink to someone who was a violent prohibitionist. I would consider it more important to his health to keep his mind at rest on what he believes to be you believe to be right—even a moral principle. Doing what if you aren't absolutely right—is important. Nor do I say that a modest bit of alcohol is necessary, or even that it will be useful to everybody. It will help some — and that's as far as I go.

Now as to milk: Milk is a more complete food, and it is not toxic to old people, or to young ones.

In fact, the calcium in milk may relieve some of the complaints about cramps in the legs, which are so frequent.

Milk is a source of protein, Vitamin A, and Vitamin D. It is easily assimilated food. There may be the occasional individual who is overly sensitive to milk, but this is the exception, not the rule, just as some can't eat strawberries or something.

Furthermore, to many a person a glass of cold milk may be more refreshing than an alcoholic beverage.

But you can't compare alcohol and milk.

Count your calories the easy way! To receive a copy of my pamphlet, "The Calorie Chart," write me in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 5 cents in coin to cover handling.

A budget for the coming year and other school problems will be discussed.

Modern Wins to Take 1st Place

16-Inch Softball
Loop Standings Now
Reverse of 1st Half

Kaukauna — Modern bar, last place team in the 16-inch Tavern League in first half play, took over top spot in second round action Tuesday by downing Clune's tavern 6-0. The leaders won one game and lost five in first half play and now have a 2-0 record.

The second contest saw Ranch bar hand Gertz bar, first half champs, its second straight defeat in second half play. The winners now have a 1-1 record as does Clune's tavern.

Modern downed Clune's behind the 4-hit pitching of Vic Diedrich. The winners scored three runs in the second inning on a double and four singles and then added three more in the sixth on five singles and a fielder's choice. Tom Bauer and Clarence VandHey each had three for three for the winners.

Ranch Victory

Ranch bar and Gertz had to battle for 10 innings before Ranch tallied a run on three singles and a walk to take a 4-3 win. The winners opened the scoring in the second inning with three runs on three singles, a fielder's choice and a sacrifice fly.

Gertz scored two in the fifth on an error, three singles and a fielder's choice and then tied the contest in the sixth with one run on two singles and a fielder's choice. Al Schumann was the losing hurler and Jack Damro the winner.

Two Youths Pay $75 Fines for Being Disorderly

Kaukauna — Two youths from Two Rivers pleaded guilty to charges of disorderly conduct when arraigned before Oscar T. Jahns, justice of the peace, Tuesday and were fined $75 or 30 days in the county jail.

Unable to pay fines, George C. Dennis, 18, and Gordon A. Radandt, were taken to jail but released after their parents appeared to pay the fines. The youths were arrested Monday night when police noticed them speeding and gave chase.

After being apprehended the two were taken to the police station where they offered to pay arresting officers to let them go. When police refused the two became abusive and attempted to fight police. Both were locked in the city jail where they continued to act belligerent and uncooperative.

Police reported the two had been drinking prior to their arrest.

Ten Golf Matches Remain in Club's President's Cup Meet

Kaukauna — Ten matches remain to be played in second round competition in the President's Cup tournament at Fox Valley Golf club, these are to be completed by Saturday.

Winners in the second round automatically advance to the finals when 16 golfers will compete in medal play for the trophy. Handicaps will be used in the 18-hole finals.

Already listed among the finalists are Gene Hammen, Floyd Stegeman, Harold Welhouse, Art Mongin, Howard Meyer and Marvin Wittman.

Van Elzen's Tops Hillside

5-Hit Pitching
Leads Winners
To 6-3 Victory

Kimberly — Van Elzen's continued winning in the Village Softball league by defeating Hillside bar, 6-3, behind the 5-hit pitching of Don Van Elzen.

The losers opened the scoring in the first inning on two errors, a single and a sacrifice but the winners came back with two in the second on a walk, a wild pitch, a single, a fielder's choice and another single. Hillside tied the game in the third on a home by Vince Reynebeau.

Home Run

Two errors and a homer by Carl Vanden Boom gave the winners three more runs in the bottom of the third and they concluded their scoring in the fourth on two walks and a sacrifice. The losers picked up their final run in the sixth on an error and two singles.

The second game saw Shy's post an 11-3 win over Tom's with the winners scoring five runs in the sixth inning. Hitting homers for the winners were Tom Gossens, Tom Dupont and Del Gaffney. The losers managed only five hits off Tom Reider.

Third Contest

A 4-run rally in the last of the sixth highlighted by a bases loaded homer by Bill Baumgart accounted for an 8-5 win by Bill's over Dud's. The winners opened the scoring in the first on a walk and a double by Baumgart and then added one in the second

Area Archers to Participate in Fox Valley Test

Kimberly — The annual Fox Valley Archers outdoor target championship shoot will be held Sunday at Lakeside park, Fond du Lac, with members of the Kimberly Recreation Association archery club participating.

Fox Valley archers will be required to shoot both in the 10 a.m. and 1:30 p.m. rounds to qualify for championship trophies. The range will be set up for shooting practice rounds at 9 a.m.

Competition will be held both in sight and bare bow divisions with a clout shoot held after the target rounds.

Rural Kaukauna Man Fined for Speeding

Kaukauna — Harlan Eiting, 20, route 3, Kaukauna, signed a waiver stipulating his guilt to a charge of speeding and deposited a fine of $15 at the police station Tuesday.

Man Admits to Charge Of Being Disorderly

Kaukauna — Gus Van Denzen, 62, 101 W. Second street, Kaukauna, signed a stipulation of guilt to a charge of disorderly conduct at the police station Tuesday and deposited a $5 fine.

on two singles and a fielder's choice.

Three errors and a single accounted for the winners two runs in the third. A homer by Ron Kunstman with two men aboard in the third and another homer by the same man with one aboard in the fifth accounted for all the losers runs.

Evidence Shows Local Movie House Passing

Dying Like Big Network Radio Show, Live Vaudeville of Past

BY JINGO The era of the local movie house, like that of the big network radio show and the vaudeville house, is passing. Evidence is everywhere.

Here, it's a window-chalked, boarded theater where short years ago hundreds were entertained daily.

There, it's a report in the news columns of the sale of a favorite Moorish-styled, first-run edifice to a department store.

And, everywhere you read of giant motion picture companies switching more and more from theater to television films.

Oh, the movies aren't dead — yet. But, they will be. For, genius will solve the problems of color, stereophonic sound and big screens for standard home television sets. That's as sure as this year's automobile will become obsolete.

What brought on this? Two items in recent press releases: "Alec Guinness, Sam Spiegel and David Lean, star, producer and director of "Bridge on the River Kwai," will try for the movie jackpot again with "Life of Mahatma Gandhi."

"Frank Capra will direct Bing Crosby, Dean Martin and Frank Sinatra in "Clayton, Jackson and Durante," the story of fabulous Jimmy Durante and his partners. It's Bing for Lou Clayton, who held the act together; Dean for Eddie Jackson, the rebel, and Frank as the Schnoz."

You read this news, and you say to yourself, "The movies are better than ever." But ask yourself when it was last went to a theater, and consider how

MGM Executive Returns to Acting

New York —(P)—Kenneth MacKenna, head of the story department at MGM movie studios, is quitting to be a stage actor.

MacKenna is set to play the leading role in Dore Schary's new play "The Highest Tree." MacKenna was an actor before becoming a movie executive.

Dramatic Actress to Try Musical Comedy

New York —(P)—Lane Bradbury has ranged the thespic gamut on Broadway this season.

The Atlanta-born actress performed in "J. B.," the Pulitzer prize drama of man's triumph over tribulation. Now she is in the musical comedy "Kookie, Kookie," will "Gypsy," enacting the dancing-singing starlet of a vaudeville troupe.

Immediate Stardom Held Problems for Miiko Taka

BY BOB THOMAS

Hollywood —(P)—Two years ago, Miiko Taka created a sensation in her first acting role, as Marlon Brando's leading lady in "Sayonara." The Nisei actress has just completed her second role, as a terrorized Japanese housewife in a segment of Warner Brothers' new TV series, "Hawaii an Eye."

What happened to her between the two parts is pointed testimony of how immediate stardom can affect an unknown.

"Emotionally I wasn't ready for it," she admitted. "I had been thrust into a situation that wasn't my own doing. I had never been sure that I wanted to be an actress. It all happened by chance."

Seattle-born Miiko had never even acted in school plays — "I was always too shy." She was working at a travel agency when a Warner's scout spotted her at a Nisei festival in Los Angeles and asked her now, to follow through with a to try out for the prize "Sayonara" role. She was dubious high note.

but did so, and scored a success in the hit film.

Went to Europe

"Then I went to Europe for four and a half months to publicize the picture," she said. "It was hard work, especially because I do not like to talk about myself. But it was an exciting experience, too, because I was able to see all those foreign countries."

Her selling chores over, she returned home. Since the studio had no roles for an oriental actress, she was dropped. She took a trip to Korea with a USO entertainment tour and joined the junket to open the Nile Hilton.

The acting offers came in, but she found none she liked. She wasn't brave enough to face live Broadway audiences in the flurry of Oriental plays that attracted Miyoshi Umeki, been thrust into a situation that wasn't my own doing. I had never been sure that I wanted to be an actress. It all happened by chance."

The turning point in Miiko's career came when she lost the role of the Chinese girl opposite James Stewart in "The Mountain Road," to Lisa Lu. The experience firmed her resolve to be an actress. She spotted her at a Nisei festival in Los Angeles and asked her now, to follow through with a to try out for the prize "Sayonara" role. She was dubious high note.

Sal Mineo to Play Krupa in Coming Film

Famous Drummer Says Protege's Ready To Star in Biography

BY BOB THOMAS

Hollywood —(P)—Once upon a time there was a kid actor in New York who used to sneak into the Paramount theater to hear Gene Krupa play the drums. It wasn't easy to sneak into the Paramount theater, nor was it easy to work

Sal Mineo your way through the seats until you got a place right in front of the orchestra pit. But the kid did it, and once he realized his ambition to snatch a pair of drumsticks from the great Krupa.

Then, as the orchestra lowered into the pit, some joker leaned over the kid and he dropped the sticks.

This took place 10 years ago, and you'll be happy to learn that the kid now has a handful of sticks from his idol. He also has the lead in a movie called "The Gene Krupa Story." His name is Sal Mineo.

Gene looks plenty good himself for a guy who's around the half-century mark. In fact, he looks unchanged from the swinging 1930 when he was beating the skins for Benny Goodman. Tommy Dorsey and his own band. He could easily play himself as a young man.

"I'm delighted Sal is doing the picture. Maybe if he gets the young fans into the theaters, they'll develop a taste for good jazz and there'll be more work for all of us."

Gene is still doing well with his 4-piece combo, playing the jazz places around the country and occasional concerts. His audience is largely nostalgic old folks in their thirties. But he sees some hope in weaning teenagers away from rock 'n' roll.

"I find that when kids now get to the senior year in high school, they have outgrown rock 'n' roll. They either head in the direction of jazz or toward light-classical or long-hair stuff."

The movie will take Gene from his Chicago beginnings around 1927 to 1943, when he made a comeback after serving a rap for possession of marijuana. The incident will be included in the film—"It happened; you can't over-look it."

13 Aldermen Back Mayor's Veto Of North-South 1-Way Extension

Appleton aldermen Wednesday, after long debate, voted 13-10-6 to uphold Mayor Mitchell's veto of extending north-south 1-way streets to Wisconsin avenue.

Voting to reverse the veto were Aldermen Lautenschlaeger, Malmstrom, Pointer, Schneider, Mrs. Stillings and Tews. Ald. Priebe, known to support the veto, was absent.

Aldermen had approved extension of Oneida and Appleton streets' 1-way status north from Pacific street by Mitchell a 13-10-3 vote at the July 1 meeting.

The mayor five days later cited a half dozen reasons why he thinks the action ill-advised. He said Oneida street is the type of carrier which never should be 1-way, a traffic bottleneck would be created at Appleton street and Wisconsin avenue, Columbus street would have 1-ways on both sides and Appleton street is not wide enough to handle increased traffic.

Grudge Attacks? The debate Wednesday was punctuated with charges that one alderman is using the council floor for grudge attacks on the mayor.

It also produced an unsuccessful appeal from a ruling by the mayor after one alderman said the ruling was contrary to the opinion of "one of the best parliamentarians in the state."

Pointer started the whole thing, immediately after the veto message was read, by calling for re-adoption of the July 1 resolution. Schneider seconded.

Mitchell ruled the motion out of order, but changed his mind upon advice of City Atty. Jur.

Tucker, who asked for the extensions in September and now is opposed, explained he regarded the September objection to his request as valid marks were uncalled for and sarcastic. "There are a lot of people not in favor of this thing," he said. "I voted for it last time, but I'm going to change tonight."

"If there are any axes to grind with the mayor," added Hannemann, "it ought to be done off the floor. It doesn't look right in public."

Malmstrom said he would make no apologies for his statements, that they did not represent a personal attack on the mayor, but a difference of opinion with the mayor's line of reasoning.

Changing Votes Schneider proceeded to call to the mayor's reasons "shallow and illogical." He added that not one of 10 aldermen who have been on the safety committee in the last three years objected to the extension in committee, although some were changing their votes at the last minute.

The only logical argument against the extension plan, said Schneider is the bottleneck at Appleton street and Wisconsin avenue.

Schneider then called for amendment of Pointer's motion to stop the extension at Summer street, one block short of Wisconsin avenue.

Jury said he believed the amendment out of order.

Mrs. Stillings said she had other information.

"I'll rule it's out of order," said Jury.

Mrs. Stillings then appealed the decision of the chair.

Malmstrom seconded. She immediately repeated her contention Schneider's motion was in order, and Jury repeated his ruling.

"There can't be many more lawyers here," snapped Bogan.

Catlin Understood Malmstrom said "one of the state's best parliamentarians" had said before the meeting that Pointer's motion could be amended.

"You should have brought him up here," Bogan quipped. (Malmstrom mentioned no name, but it is understood he was referring to Mark Catlin, former speaker of the state assembly.)

When City Clerk Broehm called the roll on the appeal from the ruling, Bogan, first in the order, said he wouldn't vote because "they're trying to confuse the council."

Aldermen Groh, Malmstrom, Ogilvie, Pointer, Schneider, Mrs. Stillings and Tews in a losing vote wanted to override the ruling of the chair and permit Schneider's amendment.

"If it is discovered the ruling is illegal, what recourse do we have," asked Mrs. Stillings.

"I can't say offhand," replied

plied Jury.

Ogilvie brought debate back to Pointer's motion, saying he doesn't like Oneida street as a 1-way and would rather see Durkee street 1-way north and Superior street 1-way south.

Stoegbauer recommended Morrison street to replace Oneida street as the 1-way carrier.

Schumacher said he feels, Oneida street should be a 2-way street.

"I very definitely don't go for that expert crack," said Loos (referring to Malmstrom's statement) as he called upon Chief of Police Hendricks to give his views.

Hendricks said the safety committee has been kept well-informed by the police department. The committee, he added, has not made any suggestions without the police department's advice and suggestion.

On the deciding vote, the six aldermen voted to extend the 1-ways and override the veto.

City Needs Accounting Aid, Taxpayers Think

Clerk's Workload Tremendous, Schulte Tells Councilmen

The city clerk's office needs accounting assistance, the Appleton Taxpayers association told aldermen Wednesday.

Gregory A. Schulte, association director, said the association saw, for the first time last fall, what a tremendous workload, and fine work, City Clerk Broehm does.

"But," he said, "we feel the city would benefit by greater assistance, not only at budget time, but also in controlling budgets throughout the year."

Whether a bookkeeper, junior or senior accountant or certified public accountant is needed should be determined by a study, Schulte said.

Broehm in Favor Broehm has said he favors the move, but only if the new worker's duties are spelled out and he is not under Broehm's supervision.

Hiring an accountant was suggested by Ald. Mrs. Stillings and approved by the council by a 17-10-3 vote during last fall's budget meetings. The new employee was to become city controller.

However, members of the welfare and ordinance committee have refused to bring a draft of an enabling ordinance out of committee.

Cite Costs Committee men say, Chairman Hannemann reported, that Green Bay has a controller's office that costs $13,000 a year. Appleton, they feel, might better get assistance by hiring another man for Broehm's staff.

Appleton Association of Certified Public Accountants, Schulte said, has agreed to assist the city in making a study and hiring the right level of skill.

Because the discussion was in a committee of the whole meeting at which the area assessments also were due for discussion, Mrs. Stillings said Schulte should be asked to put his views in writing and the council should consider the matter again Aug. 19 Her motion carried.

It was said originally the accountant should be hired before budget hearings start this fall so Broehm has a chance to brief the man.

Menominee Mills Back In Operation

Workers Return to Jobs After Picking Bargaining Group

Post-Crescent News Service

Neopit—Sawmill operations at the Menominee Indian Mills were resumed this morning after a 36-hour strike as a special workers' committee sat down to work out wage grievances with mill, tribal and Indian bureau officials.

Some 300 employees returned to work this morning after electing 13 members of a labor bargaining committee to meet with management officials in sessions which are expected to last for two or three days.

Action Follows Meeting The election before the start of sawmill operations at 8 a. m. today and the beginning of the bargaining session now in progress followed a general meeting Wednesday night.

About 230 workers met at St. Anthony church auditorium here. Joseph Waubanasum, acting as spokesman for the workers, presented demands for a 19-cent across the board wage increase, a limit of a 10 per cent deduction from weekly paychecks for credit sales of merchandise to employees from the mills warehouse and for utility services and a permanent plan for labor representation.

Opposes Hike Robert D. Holtz, Minneapolis, Minn., area director for the Bureau of Indian Affairs, pointed out that general business conditions in the lumber industry would have to be considered in the wage negotiations. He said a small profit anticipated on operations of the Menominee Indian mills during the coming year would not justify a wage increase.

The plan to form an arbitration committee was proposed by Tribal Chairman James G. Frechette. It was agreed at the 4-hour meeting Wednesday that a committee of 13 members would be named and that the workers would return to their jobs.

Maneuvers in Politics Often Good Sense

Lack of Word From Presidential Hopefuls Explained

Washington — Now that Sen. Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota has "informally" announced his candidacy for the presidential nomination on the Democratic party ticket, it may well be asked: Why are the other prospective candidates so hesitant and coy about doing the same thing?

The Minnesota senator is among the first to throw his hat in the ring. But he is more or less compelled to do so now, because he is up for reelection next year as United States senator and, if he doesn't make the grade for the presidential nomination, he will doubtless want time to arrange to run again for the senate.

Strictly speaking, Sen. John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts, Sen. Stuart Symington of Missouri, Sen. Lyndon Johnson of Texas, and former Gov. Adlai Stevenson of Illinois have not announced — formally or informally — that they will be candidates for the nomination, but in the public-opinion polls these names are frequently mentioned.

In addition, there are a number of "favorite sons," like Gov. Pat Brown of California and Sen. George Smathers of Florida, who will have the endorsements of their particular state delegations.

Just 2 Republicans

On the Republican side, where only two names are being mentioned, Vice President Richard Nixon and Gov. Nelson Rockefeller of New York have not announced their respective candidacies.

There seems to be a basic strategy in politics never to announce too soon. The argument usually made for this approach is that the front runner gets bombarded from all sides and that, if a candidacy is launched early, it subjects the would-be nominee to attack by all other factions in a given state. For not all states have presidential - preference primaries, and hence the selection of delegates is more or less controlled by the state and local organizations of the party.

The problem of getting a nomination is not the same as the campaign to win an election after nomination. In the latter case, it is merely a matter of wooing large numbers of voters. In the pre-convention campaign, it's a question largely of lining up the individual political leaders who pick the delegates.

Invisible Campaign

This kind of campaign is more or less invisible, and, while popular sentiment enters into it somewhat, the local leaders are always anxious to put themselves in a position of power with a potential winner even though he is not out front early in the race. Local rivalries often cause politicians to line up for or against a candidate, irrespective of his actual merits, because of the political advantages that may come from defeating a local leader.

Vice President Nixon is well advised to bide his time before asserting himself as an active candidate. To emerge now with a lot of delegations in his pocket would give an opportunity for someone else to raise a cry of unfair advantage, and it could precipitate the very fight that would help an opponent to gain ground on the theory that the "party bosses" were dictating the selection.

As for Gov. Rockefeller, he, too, is playing the game cautiously in refusing to announce his candidacy at this early stage. For, if there is a division in the sentiment of the party, he can await the opportune moment for crystallizing the opposition.

Can Cement Relations

If, on the other hand, the party seems bent on nominating Nixon, Rockefeller can tactfully cement relations with the party-organization men for future campaigns by joining the bandwagon at the appropriate time.

Realism in politics makes it necessary always to be cautious. Issues change, and events arise that change the issues. A man who is popular today may not be strong, politically speaking, a year hence. It is, after all, at least 12 months before the national ing what each of them says conventions will be held. ## Delay Change In Wisconsin Court System

Senate Committee Asks Special Group To Study Situation

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

Madison — An effort to achieve a reapportionment of circuit court manpower by legislative action has been dropped for this session of the state legislature.

The senate committee on judiciary has asked, instead, for the creation of a special legislative council committee to study a redistricting program that could be submitted to the legislature of 1961.

Convinced of Need

The committee makes it clear that it is convinced of the need for some judicial circuit reapportionment, but evidently is convinced that the program cannot be achieved during this legislature.

Some judges have too little work, others are burdened with calendars that are bringing about serious delays in the administration of justice, the committee proposal related.

The population changes that have brought about demands for the reapportionment of the legislature justify a study of the need for redistricting of the circuit courts of the state, the committee declares.

Study Group

The proposed study would be made by a group consisting of legislators, members of the various court levels, and at least one private citizen.

(Both houses of the legislature have approved a form of Wisconsin court reorganization which will standardize procedure and jurisdiction of the lower courts of the state, to be called county courts, but which does not directly involve the circuit courts. The new system of county courts may reduce the calendar of cases in some of the circuit courts, however.)

Seymour Council Rules 2 a.m. Tavern Closing

Seymour — Seymour taverns will be allowed to stay open until 2 a.m. during the period of Wisconsin daylight saving time, the city council has ruled.

Councilmen also approved a plan to pay 10 cents a mile to police officers using their own cars. Roger Sachs was appointed a member of the fire department.

The board of review met and adjourned to Aug. 17 when assessments will be reviewed.

City Planners Talk Roads Past Limits

First Step Will Show Streets Extended Into Nearby Towns

The city planning commission intends to develop a plan for thoroughfares radiating from the city through surrounding town lands over which it has platting jurisdiction.

Planners said they had hoped the regional planning commission would have the thoroughfare plan finished by now when they abandoned plans to adopt an official street map within the platting jurisdiction some four years ago.

In order to get planning started, commissioners ordered the city engineering department to prepare a map of all thoroughfares in the city and show them extended within the city's jurisdiction.

The city's jurisdiction over plats extends within three miles of the city limits, except in cases where there is overlapping between the city's rights and those of a nearby city or village. In that case, there is a complicated formula in the law for determining how far the city's rights extend.

The need to pinpoint a thoroughfare to carry traffic east or southeast and south of the new high level bridge focused attention on the lack of an orderly plan for street extensions.

Ald. Pointer told the commission Monday that the city faces the same problem in assuring a wide right-of-way for Meade street in the town of Grand Chute and for Telulah avenue at Calumet street. He again urged the city adopt 70 feet as the minimum width for projected carriers.

Orderly Flow Downtown business needs an orderly flow of traffic in and out of the city to survive, he said.

Director of Public Works Duszynski said the problem may be somewhat simpler than it seems, since the state planning division has developed official street maps for a number of surrounding cities and villages. The city plan, he indicated, probably could be dovetailed to these other plans.

One problem which will have to be faced, it was said, was posed by surrounding towns during the 1954-55 talks.

Towns, it was said, do not want 4-road (66 feet) roads, wide enough to meet future thoroughfare needs, because it presents a problem of weed-cutting.

Town Opposition Plans for an official street map outside the city were abandoned, it was said, because it was feared town opposition at public hearings would defeat it anyway.

Meanwhile, Duszynski said he will need more time preparing a map of southeast side carriers, suggested by Ald. Thomas K. Schneider, before talks start on where the eastbound high bridge carrier should be put. Opposition to a straight east extension of Candee street again was voiced by Mayor Mitchell and Ald. Kenneth Priebe.

The talks on the eastbound bridge carrier are to include the street committee and the Outagamie county highway committee.

Youth Forfeits $125 For Failing to Appear

Seymour — Larry J. Garol, 18, Green Bay, forfeited bond of $125 when he failed to appear before Justice R. C. Schultz to face a charge of reckless driving.

The youth was arrested by Brown county police who said they chased him at speeds up to 105 miles an hour out of Oneida.

Floyd E. Baen, 20, route 1, West DePere, pleaded guilty and was fined $15 for speeding.

Pleading innocent of speeding charges were Willard H. Last and Glen Van Straten, both of Black Creek, and Louis Ulmer and Harvey Zuehlger, both of route 3, Seymour. They deposited bonds of $21.50 each.

Little Wolf to Keep 1 a.m. Tavern Closing

Manawa — Taverns in the town of Little Wolf will not come under the state's optional closing law, the town board has ruled, and must continue to close at 1 a.m.

41 Drivers Face End of Rough Gravel Detours

Motorists who have been bumping along the temporary Highway 41 route at the Winnebago-Outagamie county line will be traveling on the new concrete roadway this afternoon or Friday, Green Bay District Highway Engineer L. W. Empey says.

Highway 41 traffic will be 4-lane from the Highway 10 interchange to the vicinity of County Trunk BB, where traffic will be changed to 2-lane on the western section of the new concrete paving. Traffic will continue on the new section while the old highway is reconstructed and County Trunk BB is cut through the old road.

ened to southbound traffic. Northbound PP traffic will enter the old Highway 41, proceed to near Winnebago County Trunk U, then join the 2-lane traffic on the new concrete section. Southbound 41 traffic will cross over the present highway from the new west lanes between the PP overpass and the Soo Line viaduct. Flasher lights are being installed to guide motorists, Empey said.

Manty '11' Sets Meeting Here Tonight

Manitowoc — Fox Cities area football players interested in playing amateur football have a chance this season as the Manitowoc Chiefs—an entry in the Bi-States Football League... are sending a representative to Appleton tonight to discuss play in the league.

The Chiefs, in their maiden season in the Wisconsin-Illinois circuit last year, grabbed the runner-up laurels to an Elmhurst, Ill., Traveler team that was studded with former professionals and Big Ten stars.

Play in the league does not affect amateur standing and any former high school or college player is welcome to come to the meeting to discuss play with Hal Haberman, former University of Wisconsin end, now player-coach of the Chiefs.

The 8 p.m. meeting at the American Legion clubhouse, will also feature filmed highlights of the 1958 University of Wisconsin season and movies of two 1958 Chief games against Elmhurst.

Stressing Offense

MU Football Will be Wide Open, Head Coach Lisle Blackburn Says

Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Lisle Blackburn, Marquette university's football coach, has something both new and old to offer long-suffering Warrior grid fans this fall.

The new is his patented wide-open offense. The old is his reputation in Milwaukee and the state as a good football coach.

Touring the State

"We'll use an open style game this fall," the white-haired mentor said at the Appleton Elks club Wednesday. "We've used it before when I was at Marquette from 1950 to 1953 and we're going to use it again," he promised.

Blackburn is on a "barnstorming" session of 20 Wisconsin cities to promote interest in the Warrior opener — a day game with tough Pittsburgh, Sept. 19. With Mar-

As the Score (17-2 in favor of the All-Stars) indicates, there was plenty of action in the Three-I league All-Star game in Green Bay Wednesday night. In the photo at left the Fox Cities' "Zorro" Versalles is congratulated by Burlington's Sam Drake after Versalles pounded a home run off the light tower in left field, Versalles' first of four hits. The action in the center shot precipitated a minor rhabarb. Green Bay's George Scott is bearing down on Fox Cities third baseman "Potato" Pascual, who is waiting

Foxes Shine as 3-1 'Stars Bombard Bluejays, 17-2

Versalles Has 4 Hits, 5 RBIs; Pascual, Weatherspoon Double In 20-Hit Offensive Display

Green Bay — The Three-I league finally found a way to handle the Green Bay Bluejays — Join forces and gang up on them!

The first half champions and the second half leaders ran into a king-sized ambush at Joannes park Wednesday night as the Three-I league All-Stars blasted the Jays into submission, 17-2, before a fine crowd of 3,290.

The Fox Cities "Zorro" Versalles led a galaxy of stars in a great offensive show with 4-for-7 including a leadoff home run in the first inning. He had five runs batted in. The round tripper provided the Jays with warning of the avalanche to follow.

Versalles Has Help

The Fox Cities shortstop had plenty of help in the base hit department, more than the Bluejay pitching staff could handle. Deacon Jones of Lincoln chipped in with 4-for-6 at the plate, Jim Lynn of Lincoln coined three hits, and Des Moines catcher Al Kenders blasted a towering homer over the left field barrier with a man on in the third inning. Kenders added two more RBIs in the fourth with a double to center.

The Jays just couldn't get going against the league's best pitchers, although it must be figured that the club was not up to par physically. The Jays stumbled off a bus in Green Bay at 3 p. m. following a 15 hour bus trip from Sioux City.

Tim Harkness, the Bluejays' number one hitter and a potent force in the showing of the club in the first half championship drive, made a token appearance in the game as he opened at first and made one trip to the plate. Harkness pulled a shoulder muscle in Tuesday night's game in Sioux City.

Kenway Knocked Out

The All Stars bombed Don Kenway, Jay right-hander, for five runs in the first inning before "Red" Huffman put out the fire in a relief assignment.

Kenway, an ex-marine, just didn't have it. He did not retire a man. Versalles cracked a homer off the light tower, Sam Drake of Burlington reached second on Bob Parker's error, Deacon Jones singled to score Drake, Jim Lynn followed with a base hit to right, and Fox Cities' Carlos "Potato" Pascual doubled to left center to score Jones. Tom McDonald, the league's number one home run hitter, coined another run with a single to right. When Pascual tried to score on the blow, Camilli dropped the ball at the plate.

Al Kenders, the fine catching prospect for Des Moines, homered for two runs in the third and the All Stars picked up momentum. Versalles added

Likes State Players

Blackburn is hoping for a "loose" offense to unnerve some of the grinding teams he will face. He cited his spring sessions as proof. "We've stressed offense all along. If we're weak in anything, the Warriors will be slightly poor defensively. And, we lack speed."

When "Potato" put a firm tag on the runner, Bluejay Manager Stan Wasiak complained. The picture at right shows Green Bay's star catcher Doug Camilli just after he was hit on the head with a pitch by Cedar Rapids hurler Larry Maxie. Camilli, who was dazed though wearing a protective helmet, left the game after the incident.

The invaders fought from behind to take the lead, forced the first half champs to fight back to gain a tie and then saw their hopes die in the ninth as Thomas powered a drive against the center field fence to win the contest. Thomas was rounding third base before the center fielder had retrieved the ball.

Drives in Three

His blow was one of three in five times at bat as he drove in three of the seven tallies. Bob Schmidt started on the mound for the winners but was relieved by Al Harke in the eighth with the score tied and Harke was credited with the win. Gary Weigandt went all the way against the Papermakers, giving up 11 hits.

Proposal Returns To Senate for Amendment Action

Madison — A bill providing statewide boating registration and regulation sailed through the assembly Wednesday night, after amending action temporarily threw the measure off course.

The proposal now returns to the senate for action on three amendments tied on by the assembly. Three other assembly changes in the proposal were torpedoed.

One amendment adopted would add sailboats to the estimated quarter million boats that would be subject to a $1 a year registration fee.

Life Preservers

Another would require boat owners to provide one life preserver for each passenger and state conservation commission officials to show "reasonable cause" before boarding a craft in search of violations.

Sen. William Trinke, R-Lake Geneva, the bill's co-author, headed the interim study group which drafted the recodified boating law.

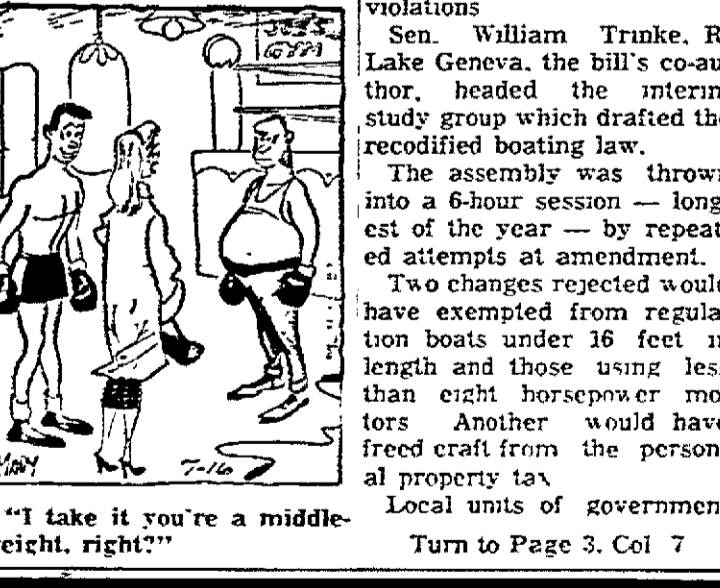

The assembly was thrown into a 6-hour session — longest of the year — by repeated attempts at amendment.

Two changes rejected would have exempted from regulation boats under 16 feet in length and those using less than eight horsepower motors. Another would have freed craft from the personal property tax.

Rita Houston Posts 4 and 3 NEW Win Over Mary Fossum

Sheboygan's Mary Testwuide Beats Caren Culp for Junior Title

Post-Crescent News Service

Green Bay — Rita Houston is still queen of Northeastern Wisconsin golf.

She defended her realm as only a real champion can, establisg an early superiority over a former great queen, then beating back the latter's closing rush in the finals of the 1959 NEW women's tournament at Shorewood Wednesday.

Unsuccessful bidder for a "palace revolution" was Mary Fossum, whom Rita dethroned a year ago. The margin of victory was 4 and 3, Cards 77.

Joining Mrs. Houston as a representative "princess" was Mary Ann Testwuide of Sheboygan who won the junior championship with a 2 and 1 conquest of Oneida's Caren Culp.

Rita swept through the morning round with a blistering 77 to reach the turn five up. Mary fought back in the afternoon to pick up two holes with ten to go but she couldn't break through.

Mrs. Houston matched her stroke for stroke from the twenty-seventh through the thirtieth, then delivered the Cubs. It was his second triumph over the Braves this season and ran his 2-year record against them to 5-0. He struck out three and walked five before a crowd of 22,206.

The Cubs pecked away at starter and loser Carlton Wiley. Bob Rush and Don McMahon for seven hits, including a run-scoring single by Hobbie, himself, and a home run by Sammy Taylor, his sixth, in the third.

Hank Aaron was responsible for both Milwaukee runs. He doubled in the fourth, stole third and came home on an infield out. He drove in the other Milwaukee run in the eighth with another double that scored Eddie Mathews who had walked.

The Cubs got out in front in the third on Taylor's home run and then added a pair in the fourth after the Braves had tied the score. Ernie Banks walked and Bobby Thompson sent him to third on a hit-and-run play. Art Schult hit a sacrifice fly and Banks scored. Thompson moving to second. Thompson scored on Hobbie's single.

Taylor Walks
In the eighth inning, Tony Taylor walked and stole second. He scored on Al Dark's single. Dark went to second on a throw to home in a futile effort to get Taylor. An infield hit by Lee Walls and a sacrifice fly by Banks got Dark across the plate.

Manager Fred Haney had shaken up the Braves' lineup in an effort to get more punch at the plate but it did little good. He sent Mickey Vernon to first base, Joe Adcock to left field and Stan Lopata in as a catcher. Vernon got the only hit between the three of them.

Lew Burdette (12-8) was nointed by Haney for mound duty against the Cubs today. He was slated to face Dave Hillman (4-7).

go up by four. Mrs. Fossum shaved the margin on the sixteenth, but Rita added two more pars on the seventeenth and eighteenth to open up the widest gap.

Mary took charge in the afternoon round, winning the first, fourth, sixth and eighth while Rita was salvaging only the second and fifth.

The well-played match was decided on the approaches. Each used 59 putts, but Rita more than compensated for Mary's greater strength off the tees with the accuracy of her pitch-ups. Mary was erratic in that category.

Another indication of the slight difference between them was that Mary 3-putted only one green. Rita did it three times. The latter had eight 1-putt greens. Mrs. Fossum had seven.

Caren Culp gave Mary Ann Testwuide a bitter battle before witting in the stretch of the 18-hole junior title match. Mary Ann gained an early lead but couldn't shake the Oneida youngster, and they finished the front nine all even. Caren went ahead briefly on the eleventh hole but Mary Ann came right back, moved in front to stay on the sixteenth and won her match two holes later.

Oneida Golf and Riding club walked off with most of the other honors. In addition to two title finalists, the club took eight senior and two junior flight championships. Betty Swanson also won the flag tournament.

Kenders doubled home two runs in the fourth to conclude his damage to the Jays cause as the Foxes' Chuck Weatherspoon took over behind the plate.

In the fifth, Jim Lynn tripped home Jones and then scored the twelfth run of the game on a wild pitch.

Sammy Drake singled in a run in the sixth inning but the Stars saved their final salvo for the seventh as Versailles punched a bases loaded double to drive in three runs. Jones added a single to make the final count, 17-2.

The Jays scored an unearned run in the sixth on two successive errors on Versailles and a sacrifice fly by Al Fantuzzi. In the eighth, a single by Doug Camilli, a wild pitch, and an error by Drake presented the Jays with run number two.

From now on, the Jays should be content to battle one club at a time. Weatherspoon doubled and scored two runs. The Foxes' Bert Guenther pitched the ninth inning, setting down Green Bay 1-2-3.

U. S. Track Coach Sees Win Over Soviets

BY GEORGE ESPER

Philadelphia — (U) — Frank Potts, head coach of the United States' men's track team that meets the Soviet Union this weekend, today predicted victory.

"I think we can outscore the Russian men," said the veteran coach who has been at Colorado for 32 years.

The Yanks won 126-109 last year at Moscow, taking 14 of 22 events.

Win Shot, Discus
"We're strong in the 100, 200, 400, 800 and 1500-meter runs and the 110-meter hurdles," Potts added. "We've got as good a chance in the 400-meter hurdles as they have."

"I think we can win the shot and discus. They'll probably win the walk, decathlon and hop, step and jump. It's about even in the high jump, pole vault and javelin."

"They're strong in the 10, 000-meter run but we've got better than an even chance in the 5,000-meter run."

"So as you can see our strength lies in the short races and weights. Their strength lies in the distance runs and decathlon."

The 19-member American men's team and the full Soviet squad of men and women worked out for about two hours Tuesday at the University of Pennsylvania's Franklin field, site of the match Saturday and Sunday. A heavy early morning rain dampened the field.

The Americans concentrated on the baton exchange for the 400 meter relay. Don Bragg, former Villanova star, practiced the pole vault while No. 2 decathlon man Mike Herman of New York University worked on the broad jump and pole vault. The No. 1 decathlon man, Dave Edstrom of Oregon, is expected to join the squad today.

MU Offense Will be Wide Open

Milwaukee's football caliber hasn't been too good recently. It was very fertile 10 years ago. When I was coaching at Washington High school in Milwaukee in the late 40's, I could have provided the whole football squad for Marquette on one occasion."

Wisconsin, naturally a state rival for the warriors, had to come into the conversation.

"I didn't see the MU-Badger contest while I was at Carroll last year. There were too many comments floating around that I might return to Marquette. I was still coaching another team and didn't want to encourage them," he said.

Blackburn pointed out that the summer, for him and his staff, has been spent in speaking engagements and reviewing movies of MU opponents.

"Our staff will get down to business Aug. 1 with 6-hour sessions each day. As our lineup looks now we'll have Hall at quarterback, Frank Mestnik (senior from Warrensville, Ohio) at fullback and St Woods (senior from Saline, Mich.) as the slot man—either side. Woods should be a highly sought after prospect. Backing him up at the other half is Mike Shea, Eau Claire Regis sophomore," he added.

Roedel Rated High
In the line, Blackburn is counting on former St. Mary of Menasha guard Herb Roedel. A 3-letter hefty lineman from Neenah, Roedel was rated "No. 1 guard prospect."

At ends, he'll start senior Larry Hubbard — his long pass threat — and sophomore George

History Pageant To Be Given at Menominee Fair

A pageant portraying two transitional periods in the history of Wisconsin's Menominee Indians will be presented at the Menominee Indian fair, Aug. 7, 8 and 9 at Keshena.

The pageant's title is "Wapau," meaning "tomorrow." One act will portray the relationships between the French and the Menominee and another act relationships between the British and the Menominee.

James G. Frechette, chairman and head of the tribal council supporting federal control termination legislation, said the theme was picked "because of the many similar situations that exist today."

Grandstand entertainment includes Jimmy Bowen, Buddy Knox and the Rhythm Orchids. Horse races will be conducted by John Boyd.

Indian dancers from the Keshena Falls arena also will appear. A power saw contest will be picked to compete in the state power saw contest at the Adams-Friendship County fair Sept. 10 to 13.

Sale, Purchase In Growth Park OK'd by Council

The city council Wednesday approved sale of 21.6 acres in the industrial development park and authorized purchase of all of an enlarged railroad right-of-way fronting the park.

Appleton Coated Paper company. Appleton Wire Works, Inc., and Tuttle Press company should be sold 18 acres on the east side of S. Perkins street north of the railroad tracks and Fox Valley Sheltered Workshop, Inc., 3.6 acres on the east side of the street, north of the tracks, the council ruled.

In each case, the board of public works was asked to determine the cost per acre, and complete negotiations with companies.

A 27.3-acre parcel of railroad right-of-way on the east side of S. Perkins should be purchased from the Chicago and North Western for $4,095, it was decided. The mayor and clerk will sign the agreement.

The works board was authorized to buy a similar strip from the railroad on the west side of the street, abutting the 18-acre site selected by the three companies. The land would be added to the 18-acre sale.

Ald. R. P. Groh asked for how much progress has been made in setting up deed restrictions for control of the park land.

Mayor Mitchell said the industrial development committee is about ready to bring in the recommendations. In any event, he said, the restrictions will be in all deeds, including Appleton Manufacturing company's. None have been signed, he said.

Ald. Roy Pointer wanted to know whether the sale to the workshop would mean there is no access to the park remaining.

The mayor said two east-west streets will be required on either side of the 10-acre Appleton Manufacturing tract.

The talk of extending a county trunk between College and Prospect avenue, he said, developed from a desire to make the western reaches of the park more accessible.

The council also gave the industrial committee permission to tour Chicago industrial parks at city expense, with George A. Howden, of Appleton Industrial Development corporation, arranging a date.

Rain Seen For Much Of Wisconsin

Scattered showers are predicted for much of Wisconsin tonight and Friday.

Today the state, including the Fox Cities, was blessed by clear skies and plenty of sunshine. Only a few widely scattered showers fell in the state Wednesday. Temperatures were comfortable.

Appleton had a high Wednesday of 89—one of the highest readings in the state. Madison and Lone Rock reported 88. The overnight low in Appleton was 68. At 11 a. m. today the mercury was back up to 86 and the discomfort index reached 74.

Hales Corners had the state low early today—a chilly 53. Needles, Calif., took national hotspot honors Wednesday with a sweltering 112. Fraser, Colo., had a low of 35 early today.

Wisconsin's 440th Air Reservists to Train at Bakalar

Fox Cities air reservists based at Milwaukee's 440th Troop Carrier "Flying Badger Wing," will leave for their annual encampment Saturday.

The wing will have more than 1,400 of its members training during the 15-day active duty period at Bakalar Air Force base near Columbus, Ind.

The wing will airlift 75 per cent of its personnel and all the equipment it requires for the active duty training period from Milwaukee's Mitchell field.

Aircraft and crews will participate in air drop exercises at Ft. Campbell, Ky., on a rotating basis with the army's 101st airborne division.

Fibreboard Paper Products Develops New Wall Partition

San Francisco — Pabco Building Materials division of Fibreboard Paper Products corporation announced development of a "self-supporting" interior wall partition for homes and offices made from special panels of gypsum wallboard.

One version of the material is designed for home wall partitions and is essentially three thicknesses of gypsum wallboard fabricated to form a rigid, self-supporting wall. The company says it eliminates the need for wood studs and supports in interior partitions.

A second type is designed for the office and industrial movable partition market. It has no access to the park remaining.

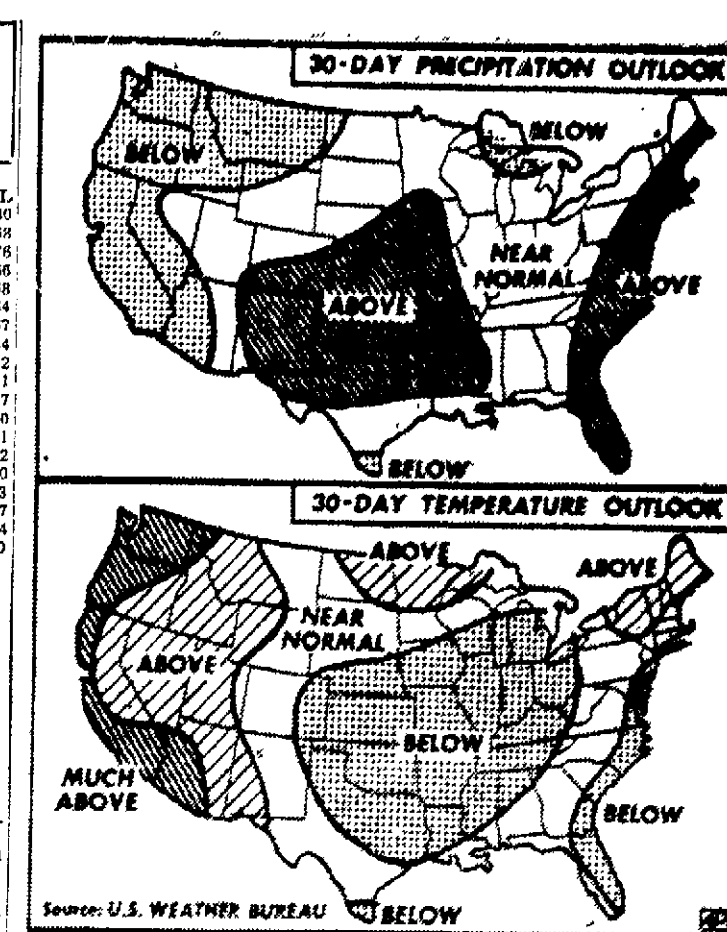

The mayor said two east-west streets will be required on either side of the 10-acre Appleton Manufacturing tract.

The talk of extending a county trunk between College and Prospect avenue, he said, developed from a desire to make the western reaches of the park more accessible.

The 30-Day Weather Forecast compiled by the U. S. Weather bureau shows near-normal precipitation for a good share of the country, including Wisconsin. Temperatures in the midwest are expected to be below normal for the month.

Cost Plus 70 Per Cent

Area Assessment for Sewer Trunks Ordered

The city council Wednesday unanimously adopted an area assessment policy for returning from property owners nearly all of the cost of sanitary sewer extensions to serve new areas.

When drainage districts are approved, property owners in a given district will be assessed total cost, actual if it's known, estimated otherwise, plus an additional 70 per cent for financing and other overhead charges.

The assessment will be made when the property owner connects his building to the city sewer system. It will be in addition to the usual front foot assessment for local sewers.

$600, $150 Thus, owners of land to be served by the proposed northwest lift station would be assessed about $600 an acre on the basis of present construction cost estimates and owners of land southeast of the city would pay about $150 an acre.

The difference in the assessment, a point about which aldermen have argued since last November, is because the northwest corner people would have to pay their share, based on total acres served, for work at the sewage plant, a river crossing, another trunk in Ballard road, an extension of an interceptor across the north limits of the city, the lift station and trunks to the lift station.

Southsiders would pay for the work at the plant and the trunk that would be extended to carry their local sewers. Less work, less cost, less assessment.

The action has been pending since November when Director of Public Works Duszynski asked the council whether it intended to continue financing trunk work from bonds paid by general property taxes in light of two would big tax rate increases and the prospect of several expensive trunk projects.

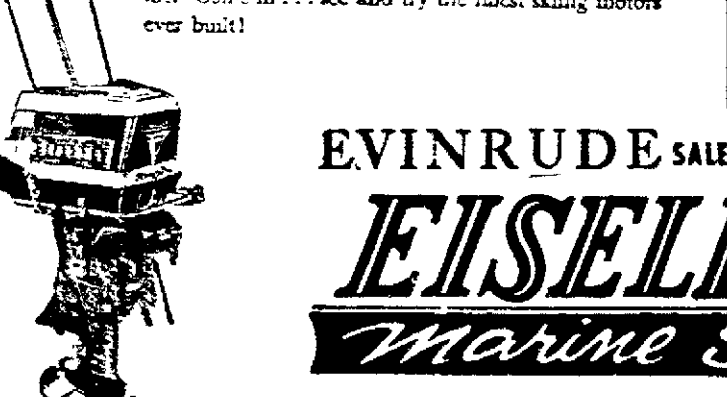

Councilmen answered a unanimous "no," but immediately fell into argument, or starting.

Asks Extension of Tavern Closing

League Cites Road Hazards Between Towns After 1 a.m.

Appleton should permit a 2 a. m. closing for taverns during daylight saving time, the city council was told Wednesday.

Al Breitrick, president of the Outagamie County Tavern league, said the move would eliminate hazardous highway traffic between communities after the present 1 a. m. closing. Some areas now close at 1 a. m., others at 2 a. m.

Mayor Mitchell referred Breitrick's request to the welfare and ordinance committee. Should the council decide to change the closing time during daylight time, ordinances could not be amended before the end of daylight time this year.

Other Requests These other requests were read and forwarded to committees for study and recommendations:

Appleton Downtown Retail association asked to use College avenue between Superior and Oneida streets for part of Wednesday, Sept. 16. Parking should be banned from 1 to 9:15 p. m. in the 2-block section that day, retailers said, to make room for a fall fashion show which will employ a 800-foot ramp at the Appleton street corner.

Ald. Pointer asked for studies of whether firemen and policemen need summer uniforms and whether salaried city workers should receive compensation, or time off, when holidays fall on weekends.

Wisconsin Square Dance association asked for dance licenses for the national guard armory, N. Park avenue, Masonic temple, Appleton club and Knights of Pythias hall during its state convention Aug. 28, 29 and 30.

Little League Ald. Tews called for a parking ban at the Franklin street and Linwood avenue corner of Linwood park while Little League baseball games are in progress. Small children chasing foul balls create a safety hazard, he said.

Mrs. Joseph Schiffer estate and Leo Santkuy, 120 S. John street, Kimberly, want rezoned from multiple family to commercial and light manufacturing district.

Tom L. Cahoe, 1938 S. Memorial Drive asked for a change in dog pound policy which prevents an owner from claiming his dog during the weekend. Owners must pay fees to the treasurer and his office is closed on weekends, he complained.

Tentative and final Sunny Acres plats were filed. The land is at the southeast corner of Kerman avenue and Calumet street. Other plats filed were the final Rolling Acres plat, south of Hoover avenue at Lawe street, and the tentative American Land, Inc., plat, the northwest corner of Wisconsin avenue and Ballard road.

Stop Sign Charge

John P. Skenandore, 80, route 1, Oneida, has denied a charge of ignoring a stop sign June 22 in the town of Oneida and posted $28.95 bond in municipal court for trial Aug. 11.

Berken Only Candidate for Legion Chief

Lloyd Berken, Appleton, an American Legion department vice commander, is the only announced candidate for department commander in elections scheduled for the department convention beginning today and ending Sunday at Kenosha.

Berken is past commander of Urban Klister post 436, Wrightstown, and a past district commander.

Other Fox Cities area candidates are Florian Radtke, Neenah, Sixth district commander, candidate for department vice commander, and Edwin Arndt, Appleton, candidate for department sergeant-at-arms.

Elections will be Saturday at the Eagles club, which also is the site of the convention's sessions.

South Side Streets 'Sad', Alderman Says

Committee Gets Power to Solve Walk, Holes Near Calumet

Ald. Robert Stumpf charged on the council floor Wednesday that several streets given an asphalt mat last year in the Calumet county section of the city "are in sad condition."

After some wrangling with Ald. Austin N. Tucker, who opposed the idea, Stumpf, succeeded in having the street committee given power to act on his complaints.

The complaints:

1. There are cold-patched chuckholes in Harding, Coolidge and Wilson avenues and damage to the Calumet street pavement around some inlets.
2. The sidewalk on the east-side of Madison Junior High school was poured in the rain this year and already is defective.

City Expense
Generally, Stumpf demanded the city remove the damage areas and replace the asphalt surface with another asphalt surface, all at city expense. He also demanded the 220 feet of sidewalk be replaced.

Ald. Roy Pointer, street chairman, said he inspected the area and Stumpf's position is valid. What caused the street trouble, he said, he doesn't know.

Ald. Mrs. Stullings said the trouble demands solution by the contractors who did the work.

(Courtney and Plumber, Inc. laid the asphalt and Kuehl and Sommers, the sidewalk.)

Tucker's objection was that giving the committee the power to act represents giving them a blank check.

"Public funds are being expended," he said, "and it would seem to demand following of orderly procedure, a decision after deliberation. This is perfectly ridiculous."

Nekoosa Buys New Machine

Remodeling Begins This Week for Giant Papermaker

A new paper machine—the largest ever installed at Nekoosa Edwards Paper company, Port Edwards—will be in operation in the fall of 1960, paper company officials announced today.

A remodeling project to house the new machine started this week.

The new machine, largest of the company's 11 production units, will have a 195-inch wire with 172-inch trim and a speed of about 1,500 feet per minute. Maximum production of the machine will be 170 tons a day. It will be constructed by the Beloit Iron Works.

25-Ton Crane
The remodeling work involves installing a new roof over the present machine room, approximately 15 feet higher than the present roof. A 25-ton, overhead, traveling crane will be installed to erect the new machine and to maintain number one and number two machines.

The new machine will employ a differential drive, permitting better speed control than possible with present belt-driving equipment. A steam turbine has been purchased to drive the new machine.

Erection of the machine will start in March and will be completed in the fall. When in operation, it is expected to boost the company's production of fine papers about 15 or 20 per cent.

Alderman Wants Action, Answers On Park Project

Ald. Douglas Ogilvie Wednesday called upon the park board for action and some answers to questions about the Bellaire park improvement project.

First, he wants the board to submit its improvement plan for the park and ravine on a simple sketch.

Second, he wants the contractor to set a definite completion date for the $225,000 project.

Third, he wants the board to hold the contractor responsible for any plantings made and not taken care of.

Fourth, he wants assurance no work done in winter will have to be done again the next summer.

Fifth, he wants the board to place gates at both ends of the road through the park and ravine.

Mayor Mitchell referred Ogilvie's demands to the park board.

Work in the park and ravine has been held up while City Atty. Jury determines who owns what land. The question arose when property owners protested use of what they said were their lands in part of the area.

Today's Deaths

Mrs. Robert Cummins

Mrs. Robert Cummins, Eustis, Fla., the former Hattie Schreiter, Greenville, died Wednesday in Eustis after a long illness. She was 65. Survivors include the husband; one daughter, Mrs. James Chandler, Union Grove; one brother, Leo Schreiter, Greenville; one sister, Mrs. Philip Krutzer, Antigo, and two grandchildren. Funeral services and burial will be in Florida.

Landon Services

Funeral services for Thomas Landon, 92, Madison, a former Clintonville resident who died at 11:30 p.m. Tuesday, will be at 11 a.m. Friday at the Heuer and Sievers Funeral home, Clintonville.

The Rev. James T. Carrico, pastor of the First Methodist church, Clintonville, will officiate. Burial will be in St. Rose Catholic cemetery, Clintonville.

An Odd Fellows service will be held at 8 p.m. today at the funeral home, where friends may call after 7 p.m.

Landon, born in 1867 in Canada, was a retired Clintonville mail carrier and moved to Madison in 1940 to live with his daughter, Mrs. Vincent Kvlin.

Survivors include his daughter, two grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

School Sites Talks Okayed

Junior High, Grade Locations Will be Sought by Board

The board of public works was given permission Wednesday by the city council to negotiate purchase of a junior high school site north of Highway 41 and an elementary school site on the southeast side.

Ald. Pointer, Hannemann and Bogan were skeptical. Ald. Tews, Ogilvie, Malmstrom and Ertl backed the recommendations.

Pointer said quite a few questions—enrollment figures for Madison Junior high and whether additions could be built to Wilson and Roosevelt Junior highs—were unanswered.

Need Established?

Tews told him he thought the need for another junior high was established by the school board in meetings with his school advisory committee.

Hannemann said the school assured the council when school construction started after the war that additions were possible at Roosevelt and Wilson. Things haven't changed so much, he said, that it couldn't still be done.

Malmstrom said the longer the council waits the more expensive the sites will become.

Bogan said he doubts whether a junior high will be needed in this area. He also said he's confused by the school board's report a school won't be needed for 15 years and then a sudden request to have it in two years.

Prices Zoom

Ogilvie said sites have increased in price $1,000 an acre. Waiting costs money, he said.

Bogan then asked whether the council wants to build another junior high within one mile of an existing one.

"We're not building a school here tonight," said Tews. "We may be accused of going into the real estate business, but if we change our minds, we won't lose any money. The price here is about $2,800 an acre. You can't buy a lot for that."

Tews said there is little chance additions will be built to Wilson and Roosevelt schools.

Ertl reported the parcel recommended by the school board is about the only one left in that area. Seven people have an interest in it, he said.

Amphibious Craft Lands at County Airport

A 2-engine amphibious navy Albatross landed at the Outagamie county airport this week to let off a Kimberly serviceman for a short visit at home.

Chief Aviation Electrician's Mate Lyle Krueger visited his mother, Mrs. E. W. Krueger, 145 N. James street, Kimberly, before going on to Wausau to rejoin the ship's crew Wednesday for a flight to Port Angeles, Wash.

John Butler, pilot of the craft, is from Wausau.

Krueger said the crew took one ship to North Carolina for overhaul and was flying the new Albatross back to Port Angeles. He has been in the service for 15 1/2 years. The flight from North Carolina to the Outagamie county port took about six hours.

Chamber Committee To Request Meeting With Mayor Mitchell

The newly-organized chamber of commerce parking and traffic committee has decided to seek a meeting with Mayor Mitchell on the city's parking problems.

Financing of parking operations will be one of the subjects for discussion, Chamber Sec. Kenneth Corbett said.

The committee also is expected to ask the mayor to arrange a meeting with the city council's public safety committee, which has jurisdiction over parking.

Appleton Club association directors have turned down one recent membership. A man gave them a worthless $8 check. When the check bounced, so did the membership application.

Ebben School Voters to See Building Plans

Ebben school district voters will meet at 8 p.m. Monday night to hear an explanation of a building proposal submitted by a building investigatory committee. No vote will be taken.

The building plans are for a new 2-room school to replace the present, 80-year-old, 1-room structure, which has no modern facilities. At a previous meeting, district voters favored building over consolidation with the Kaukauna district.

On July 27, the district again will meet at the school to vote on the building proposal and to elect school board officers. Ebben school is in the town of Vandenbroek about a mile north of 41.

Guest Preacher

The Rev. Myron Ross, leader of the youth program of the United Church of Japan at Nishnomiya mission, will be the guest preacher at the 9 a.m. Sunday service at St. John Evangelical and Reformed church.

Board Backs Peabody Park

Recommends Name Change to Council At Tonight's Meeting

The park board Tuesday voted to change the name of Bellaire park to Peabody park, as suggested by Ald. Douglas Ogilvie.

City councilmen will be asked by the board to order the necessary ordinance.

Arthur Jones, park board secretary, said the land to be designated Peabody park will include all lands which City Atty. Don L. Jury finds the city owns in the present park and the ravine extending to the north.

The city has had a title search made of ownership of the lands in the park and ravine and awaits Jury's report.

Who Owns What? City officials thought they owned all of the park and a 100-foot-wide former railroad right-of-way until abutting property owners insisted the railroad, in giving the city a quit claim deed 10 years ago for $10,000, could not convey some of the land to the city.

The property owners insist the railroad obtained the right-of-way by offering a reversionary clause in the deeds that gives the land back to the original owners if the right-of-way is abandoned for railroad use.

Improving the park and ravine with $225,000 from the George F. Peabody estate is halted pending Jury's report of ownership.

Peabody, who died in 1909, owned Pettibone - Peabody company of Appleton, a department store which was sold to the H. C. Prange company.

Redistricting Measure Gets State Support

Kastenmeier Says Wisconsin Would be Aided

Washington, D. C. — Six of Wisconsin's 10 congressional districts will have to be redistricted if a bill now before congress is approved, Congressman Robert W. Kastenmeier (D-Watertown) said today.

The proposal, introduced by Rep. Emanuel Celler (D. New York), was to be considered today by Kastenmeier's subcommittee on claims of the judiciary committee. The bill would establish standards for size and physical shape of congressional districts.

Purpose of the Celler bill is to eliminate inconsistencies, such as the situation in one state where one congressman represents a district with more than 900,000 residents while another representative has 175,000 constituents, Kastenmeier said.

50-50 Chance
The bill stands a 50 - 50 chance of being reported favorably out of my 9-man subcommittee," Kastenmeier predicted. "I support the bill unequivocally, because it simply will make for more fairly representative congressional districts."

The Celler bill provides that no district shall have more or less than 20 per cent of the average obtained by dividing the total population of the state by the number of representatives to which the state is entitled, Kastenmeier said.

According to a 1958 population estimate made by the state board of health, Wisconsin has a population of 9,938,000, making the average of the state's 10 congressional districts 993,800.

This would make the maximum size of each district 472,560 and the minimum size 315,040.

Three Have Maximum
Using the 1958 figures, three Wisconsin congressional districts now have a population in excess of the maximum. They are the second district, served by Kastenmeier, with 508,400, and Milwaukee's fourth and fifth districts, represented by Congressmen Clement J. Zablocki and Henry S. Reuss, with a combined population of 1,080,800.

Three other districts have fewer residents than the minimum of 315,040. They are the tenth district, 229,200 (Rep. Alvin E. O'Konski); the ninth district, 298,600 (Rep. Lester R. Johnson); and the third district, 298,600 (Rep. Gardner R. Withrow). A fourth district which may fall under the minimum size is the seventh district which is now served by Rep. Melvin R. Laird, and has an estimated population of 316,200.

Aircraft Firm Takes Loss on Jet Production

Santa Monica, Calif. — Douglas Aircraft company, says that unexpectedly heavy costs of the DC8 jetliner program caused a net loss of $12-143,000 for the six months ended May 31.

The firm omitted the mid-year stock dividend on common stock.

Net sales for the period totaled $447,853,000, compared with $593,974,000 for the same period a year ago, Douglas said yesterday.

Loss for the first six months of 1959 totaled $15,010,000, equal to $3.93 a share. This compares with a net profit of $12,645,000, or $3.31 a share, for a similar period of 1958.

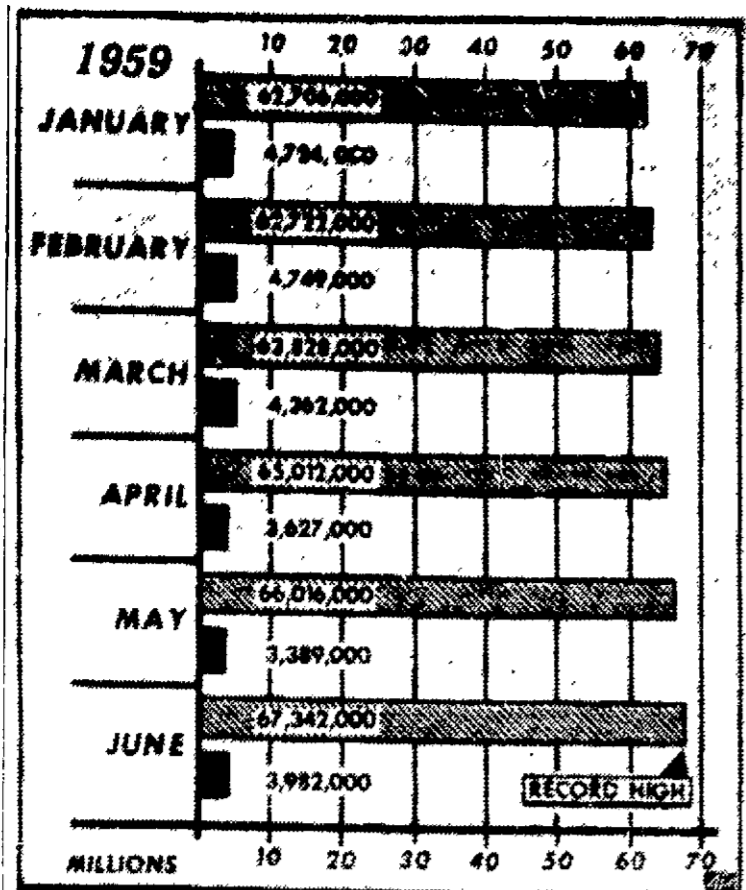

The company said DC8 deliveries in 1960 and thereafter are expected to be profitable, as are new missile contracts.
